Clinton defends Whitewater deal

President vows to release disputed late 1970s tax returns

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton acknowledged Thursday night that he had significantly overstated the loss in his Whitewater land investment and promised to release late 1970s tax returns to answer persistent questions on the land deal.

The president said he expects that special counsel Robert Fiske will interview him and Hillary Rodham Clinton and that they would "cooperate with him in any way he decides is appropriate."

And he vowed in his nationally televised news conference not to let Whitewater keep health care reform from passing this year, or to stall other major administration initiatives.

"I know that many people around America must believe that Washington is overwhelmingly preoccupied with the Whitewater matter," Clinton said. "But our administration is preoccupied with the business we were sent here to do for the American people."

The president's 45-minute news conference drew an immediate salute from Republican leaders — but they insisted nonetheless that Congress quickly hold Whitewater hearings to review the investment and the White House handling of the controversy.

"If the president has nothing to hide, then by midsummer it will all be gone," said House GOP Whip Newt Gingrich. Senate Republican leader Bob Dole said Clinton was "credible" and had "probably helped himself."

Clinton said he had no opposition to congressional hearings, and did not rule out testifying in person.

Clinton was studiously relaxed throughout most of the news conference, but got a bit testy when asked if he believed the controversy has undermined his wife's credibility and whether he was considering reducing her role in the administration.

"Her moral authority will be stronger than it ever has been" at the close of the Whitewater investigations, Clinton said. He said people should "not be able to raise questions and erode people's moral authority in this country" without any specific allegation of wrongdoing.

The second evening news conference of Clinton's presidency came as two key aides testified before a Whitewater grand jury, and as new polls showed an overwhelming majority of the American public believed Whitewater was keeping the government from its work. The surveys demonstrated rising doubts about Clinton's Whitewater activities and present-day candor.

Taking questions, Clinton said "absolutely not" when asked if he had any knowledge that any of his appointees tried to stymie federal regulators investigating a savings and loan at the center of the Whitewater affair.

Trying to shake the impression — and Republican allegations — that he is hiding details, Clinton agreed to release his tax returns for 1977, 1978 and 1979 — which cover the beginning of his Whitewater investment.

Water users pan 'conjunctive' rules

By William Brock
Times-News writer

GOODING – Handling Idaho's surface and groundwater as a single "conjunctive" resource is a good idea, but a draft set of rules to do the job is flawed, water users said at a public hearing Thursday.

"Take that draft of rules and throw it in the garbage can," urged Twin Falls attorney Gary Slette, whose firm represents the Twin Falls and North Side canal companies.

"I cannot endorse the current draft of these rules," he told hearing officer L. Glen Saxton, of the Idaho Department of Water Resources.

Curiously, Slette and several other critics at Thursday's hearing were part of the committee that helped develop the conjunctive management rules.

The 16-member committee, with broad representation from water users across Idaho, offered advice to Water Resources Director Keith Higginson. After listening to the committee, Higginson personally wrote the rules.

Thursday's hearing afforded an opportunity for the public to comment on the strengths – and weaknesses – of the new rules. Another public hearing will begin at 1 p.m. today in the National Guard Armory in Rupert. Written comments will be accepted through April 15.

The rules are scheduled to be in force before the agricultural demand for water heats up in May.

The draft water management rules are radically opposed to Idaho's historic "first-in-time, first-in-right" water law, Slette said. If the rules are adopted in their current form, Slette vowed to challenge them in court.

Specifically, he objected to the idea of surface water users having to dig for water. Slette also bristled at the idea of exhausting all storage before making a call for water.

In closing, Slette chided Water Resources for waiting so long to address the conjunctive management problem. In an interview last week, Higginson said Idaho's water managers have known for decades that surface and ground water supplies are inter-connected.

Tax-relief bill unnerves valley superintendents

By Drew DeSilver
Times-News writer

1994 Idaho Legislature

BOISE – The Idaho House appears poised to pass a major property-tax relief bill without specifying how it plans to pay for it.

And that has many Magic Valley school districts worried.

But distracted by other school-related legislation and skeptical that the tax-relief bill would be considered seriously, not one school district or representative of the education community spoke out on the bill until Thursday.

"Quite frankly, nobody thought this bill has a chance because it's so harebrained," said Twin Falls Superintendent Terrell Donicht. "The potential for disaster is tremendous."

With just one dissenting vote, the House Revenue and Taxation Committee Thursday morning sent the tax-relief bill to the full House, where by all accounts it will pass overwhelmingly. Support also appears strong in the Senate.

The bill, sponsored by House Speaker Mike Simpson, would end the use of property taxes for schools' general maintenance and operations (M&O) funds over the next two years. That money, estimated this year to be about $127 million, would come from the state's general revenues.

But unlike a competing bill that the tax panel killed Thursday, Simpson's bill contains no new taxes to pay for the shift. Nor does it repeal any tax exemptions. Instead, the measure relies entirely on the state's booming economy to generate enough tax revenues to pick up the tab.

What's more, the tax cuts would begin to take effect immediately – sooner, in fact, because they would be retroactive to Jan. 1. The replacement money, however, wouldn't begin flowing from the state until next January, midway through school districts' 1994-95 fiscal year.

Mexico remains stable, administration assures

Mexico in crisis – A7

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration offered Mexico some limited law-enforcement and economic help Thursday and sought to dispel any doubts about the country's stability following the assassination of its leading presidential candidate, Luis Donaldo Colosio.

In the only immediate step to be announced, President Clinton said he had asked U.S. Treasury officials to intervene in the foreign-currency markets to bolster the Mexican peso if necessary, but there was no indication Thursday that the U.S. help would be needed.

Meanwhile, the FBI and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms provided backup assistance to Mexican authorities in tracing the weapon that was used in the assassination, which was traced to a previous owner in San Francisco.

U.S. officials said it was not immediately clear what else the United States could do, at least in the short run. Should rioting break out, it would be an internal Mexican matter, they said. And there appears to be no need for humanitarian aid or medical supplies.

Weather summary

A Pacific storm system remained near the northern California coast Thursday morning. The system is expected to bring high clouds into Southern Idaho and a slight chance of showers today.

Northern Idaho, which will not be affected as much by the system, is expected to have fair weather through today.

Temperatures across the state were mostly in the teens and 20s. Some of the high mountain valleys were in the single digits and below zero. No measurable precipitation was reported during the past 24 hours.

Satellite pictures indicated high clouds over Southern Idaho and a band of high clouds was visible over the north. Winds in the Magic Valley ranged from 10 to 20 mph.

The highest temperature in the state Thursday was 67 degrees at Hagerman. Stanley reported the lowest at 10 degrees.

Elsewhere in the nation Thursday, the highest temperature was 90 degrees at LakeLand, Fla. West Yellowstone, Mont., reported the lowest temperature at -11 degrees.

Snow falls near Great Lakes, hail hits Texas, sun shines in East

The Associated Press

A strong cold front moving through the central and eastern United States brought snow to some northern states and violent thunderstorms to sections of the Midwest on Thursday. A fierce Alaskan storm brought rain and gale-force wind to Southern California.

Much of the East Coast enjoyed mild weather, with record highs in some areas.

Heavy snow fell on some areas from the upper Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes. As much as a foot of snow piled up in parts of Minnesota and Michigan's Upper Peninsula, and snow fell throughout the day in Manistee, Mich.

Showers and a few thunderstorms developed from Texas into the southern Great Lakes. Storms dropped hail the size of golf balls at Pearsall, Texas, and hail an inch in diameter at Holdenville, Okla.

Three-quarter-inch hail piled up 4 inches deep near Hanna, Okla., during a severe morning thunderstorm. Winds ripped off a trailer roof near Philadelphia, Miss., and downed trees and power lines near Starkville, Miss.

Locally heavy rain in Jackson, Tenn., flooded streets, and more than 2 inches of rain fell in northwest Mississippi. In northern Greene County, Pa., more than 1½ inches of rain fell in less than an hour.

In Southern California, a storm that moved south from Alaska brought winds of nearly 50 mph to the coast and snow as low as 4,500 feet in the mountains of Santa Barbara.

Mild weather spread across much of the East Coast brought record highs for the date to several communities. The high in Atlantic City, N.J., reached 77 degrees, breaking the 1988 record by 4 degrees. Key West, Fla., recorded a high of 88, breaking a high of 87 set in 1968.

Clinton

Also, he said he would release a new accounting of his investment that would show he lost roughly $47,000 on the land deal — $22,200 less than he had estimated during the presidential campaign. And he said he had waived any executive privilege and was fully cooperating with the special counsel investigating Whitewater, turning over some 14,000 documents to his staff.

The acknowledgment suggests the Clinton's had underpaid their income taxes. Clinton and his wife previously filed one amended return because they had taken an improper Whitewater-related deduction and "if it turns out we've made some mistake inadvertently we will do that again," he said.

Several hours earlier, one of Clinton's fiercest Whitewater critics, Republican Rep. Jim Leach, suggested the administration had abused its power in an effort to intimidate regulators. Clinton replied, "The evidence is clear that I have not done that."

He said if there was any pressure placed on regulators, it was done by "political career appointees of previous Republican administrations" and without his knowledge. "Absolutely," he said again when asked if he had upheld the high ethical standards he vowed his administration would keep.

On other issues, Clinton:

• Stated that White House staff members who do not obtain security clearances within 30 days will be placed on unpaid administrative leave. More than 10 percent of the White House staff lacks clearances.

• Urged the Mexican people "to continue the strides toward economic reform and progress" despite the assassination of the ruling party's candidate for president.

• Said his administration will continue efforts to stop North Korea's nuclear program and strive to make a breakthrough on human rights progress in China.

• Said he has not decided how to finance the welfare-reform program he will unveil next month. Of a Republican proposal to deny welfare to illegal immigrants, he said, "I think it goes too far."

Mexico

The push to maintain global confidence in Mexico is important, because otherwise the peso could collapse and foreign investment could grind to a halt, resulting in a major impact on the Mexican economy that could exacerbate political tensions in the country.

Clinton led a spate of senior administration officials in expressing condolences to the Mexican government and in publicly asserting confidence that stability in Mexico would continue despite Wednesday's assassination.

"I think things will settle down here," the president told reporters in an impromptu news conference. "I think, fundamentally, they're in sound shape," he said. "And I hope that will be the case. We'll have to wait and see what happens tomorrow."

At the same time, other officials sought to dampen speculation that the assassination might prompt a change in U.S.-Mexican relations or impede Mexico's announced governmental reforms or the newly completed North American Free Trade Agreement.

"The Mexican government remains fully stable," State Department spokesman Mike McCurry said Thursday. "Our view is that the tragic event yesterday certainly does not impair the growing trade relationship we have with Mexico" or diminish economic opportunities there.

Senior U.S. policymakers said despite the stunning nature of Wednesday's attack there was no evidence that the killing was part of an attempted coup. As a result, they said, they expected no major policy changes that would affect Mexican-U.S. relations.

U.S. officials also dismissed suggestions that Colosio's death might leave Mexico with no qualified successor to carry on the liberalizing reforms of retiring Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari.

Although Colosio was highly regarded by the United States, the officials said Salinas has surrounded himself with other sophisticated peers and is likely to replace Colosio with another candidate who has been molded in his own image.

Water

Wendell-area groundwater pumper Tom Ambrose, who was also a member of Higginson's advisory committee, said the new rules should be set aside until the results of a groundwater enfiancement program become known. Further, Ambrose urged that no new pumping permits be granted and all existing permittees agree to a 5 percent pumping reduction.

If the new rules are adopted, Ambrose predicted they could set the stage for domino-effect of pumping shutdowns that could bring Idaho's agricultural economy to a halt.

Yet another committee member, Boise attorney Jeff Fereday, urged adoption of a temporary set of rules – to be followed by permanent rules.

The current set of water management rules are largely fair to all parties, Fereday said. Surface water users should have to use reasonable means of diversion and reasonable efficiencies, he said.

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game, which was excluded from Higginson's committee, is opposed to the draft rules, said Dave Parrish, of the department's Jerome office. He said the rules are geared solely to Idaho's farming community, but ignore aquatic animals that also need water to survive.

Healthy stream systems should be a goal of any water management plan, Parrish said, but the proposed rules "are geared to maintain the status quo."

According to Paul Watkins of Hagerman, the "general philosophy of the proposal is biased – particularly against the senior right holder."

The rules place an unfair burden of proof on senior water right holders, he said. To obtain relief, such right holders must sway Water Resources, which Watkins described as "prosecutor, judge and jury."

He also blasted the doctrine of the futile call, which allows the department to ignore a call for water if there's no way the water can be delivered.

"That's a cop out," Watkins said, adding that every nettlesome call for water could be dismissed as a futile call.

Perhaps the most withering condemnation came from the day's first speaker, Hagerman spring user Fred Walmsley.

The only benefactors from the new rules will be well drillers, bureaucrats and lawyers – "who can find enough fodder for 10 years of litigation," Walmsley said. By contrast, the losers will include everyone who holds a water right on the Snake River Plain, he said.

Walmsley's chief beef was that the proposed rules won't provide relief in time to help water users who go dry.

"You'd be bankrupt and in your grave" before the rules would give parched farmers any water, he said.

To rising applause, Walmsley added, "These rules are specifically designed to stall the process ... and do not fit the needs of water users in the state of Idaho."

Tax

And after Nov. 30, 1996, when the school M&O has been ratcheted down to zero, there's no guarantee the Legislature will continue to give schools enough money to replace their lost property-tax dollars.

In fact, there's so much for school districts not to like about Simpson's bill that superintendents critical of it hardly know where to begin.

"Of either (tax-relief bill), this is the one that is the most potentially damaging and difficult to predict the consequences of," Jerome Superintendent Jim Cobble said. "I don't know that they (the legislators) have analyzed the long-term impact of this."

Donicht was particularly concerned about the provision removing half of schools' M&O levies – about $63 million – from the property tax this year, before any replacement money comes from the state.

"We'll be halfway through our budget year before the Legislature decides whether there's enough growth to pay for the property-tax revenue we've lost," he said. "That's pretty risky."

The state Division of Financial Management has forecast that total state revenues in fiscal 1995 will exceed the current fiscal year's revenue by more than $100 million. But state expenditures are forecast to rise even faster, leaving no money free for property-tax replacement.

Mike Chatterton, treasurer for the Blaine County school district, fears the Legislature would respond by freezing or cutting school aid, which already accounts for nearly half the state's General Fund budget.

"I think property-tax relief is something that's going to happen, but I don't think this (bill) is going to do that," Chatterton said. "They've got to expand the sales tax base or something – you can't just rely on growth to make it up."

That's what the other tax-relief bill would have done. It would have extended the 5 percent sales tax to a wide array of services, raising $80 million a year to help pay for tax relief.

But legislative tax-writers were decidedly unenthusiastic about that bill, with many saying the public would not tolerate tax increases in a surplus budget year. A shortfall year, though, would be another story.

"What we're saying is, we'll use growth to fund it as long as we can," said Sen. Evan Frasure, a Pocatello Republican who says he's leaning toward Simpson's bill. "If in fact the wheels come off the economy, then we can fund it through a sales-tax shift. But not before."

Burns, broken bones plague Air Force crash survivors

POPE AIR FORCE BASE, N.C. (AP) — Capt. Michael Taylor was one of the lucky ones. He was able to protect himself from the flaming hulk of a fighter jet skidding toward him and hundreds of other Army troops. Barely.

"I made about three steps and realized I wasn't going to outrun it," Taylor said Thursday. "So I started rolling in the sand. When I hit the ground I didn't think I was going to get up again."

Many of his comrades did not. At least 20 soldiers died and 85 others were injured when an F-16 collided in the air with a C-130 Hercules transport trying to land on the same runway at the same time Wednesday.

The C-130's five-member crew landed safely and the F-16's two pilots ejected to safety. But their jet crashed in flames and skidded across the runway at 180 mph, spewing metal debris that punctured a C-141 transport plane's fuel tanks, setting it ablaze. All six crew members aboard the C-141 escaped injury.

The death toll was expected to rise even higher, said Dr. William Chapman at Womack Army Hospital. Ninety percent of the 58 people hospitalized Thursday had severe burns, and up to 12 also had broken bones requiring either pins or amputations.

"I would anticipate our losses would increase," he said. "There are several in the hospital too unstable to transfer."

Taylor, a 35-year-old Army intelligence officer from Columbus, Ohio, was burned as he ran from the fireball. Thursday, as he recounted the hellish scene, his fingers were blistered orange-pink and his hands were wrapped in gauze that protruded from the sleeves of his starched uniform.

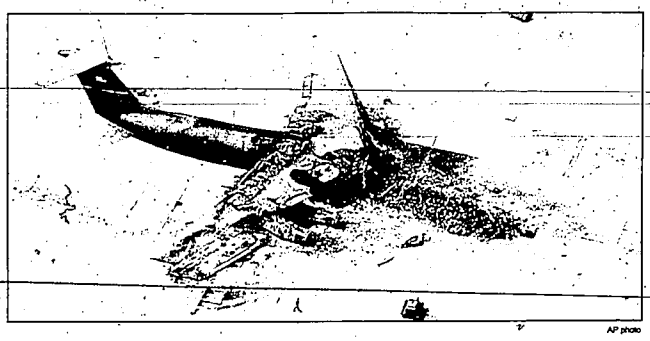

"There were kids whose cammies were still on fire who didn't know what to do," Taylor said. "People knocked them down and rolled them in the sand. People with canteens were hosing others down."

More than 500 soldiers, most from Fort Bragg, an army post adjacent to Pope, were in a staging area near the C-141 that was hit by the skidding jet.

Crews towed other aircraft away from the fire, said Brig. Gen Bobby Floyd, commander of the 23rd Wing at the air base.

"An awful lot of individuals risked their lives to move aircraft and do things," Floyd said. "There were heroes there."

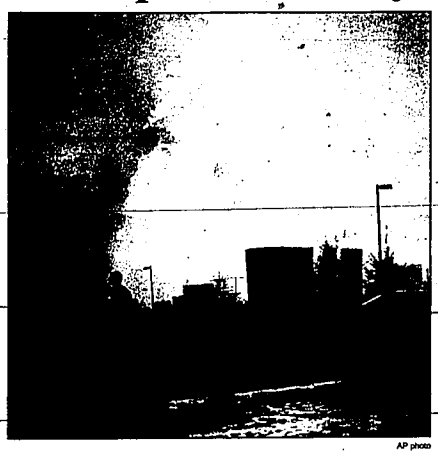

About 175 to 200 soldiers were in several aircraft mock-ups — a model of a plane with just one door for paratroopers to practice jumps before doing the real thing. Many of the injured soldiers were trapped in the mockups, said Lt. Gen. Hugh Shelton, commander of the 18th Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg.

Gas explosion destroys complex; 350 homeless

AP photo

New York Daily News

EDISON, N.J. — Hundreds of people were homeless and dozens unaccounted for in the aftermath of a titanic natural-gas blast in Edison, N.J., that could be seen from three states and left Hiroshima-like devastation in its wake.

The 300-foot-high torch incinerated a row of three-story apartments and melted dozens of cars with its withering, 3,000-degree heat.

But the mayor of Edison said that apparently no one was killed in the inferno.

"We're calling it a miracle," Mayor George Spadoro said.

By late Thursday, only one death, that of a 32-year-old woman who suffered a heart attack, was attributed to the blast.

Fifty people, including three firefighters, were treated for minor injuries at John F. Kennedy Medical Center in Edison. Only one was admitted. Fifty more had injuries that did not need hospital treatment.

The cause of the blast that touched off the fire was not known, and officials from local, state and federal agencies, along with the gas transmission company, swiftly launched investigations.

Officials said 40 residents of the destroyed apartment units were still unaccounted for but expressed confidence that all residents had escaped before the fire reduced eight buildings of the 60 in the apartment complex to dust.

Initial searches with trained dogs yielded no bodies, and officials hoped the missing had simply gone to stay with friends or relatives. The search was called off at dusk Thursday.

The blast occurred moments before midnight Wednesday in a 36-inch pipe, part of a vast pipeline carrying natural gas from Texas.

At least 350 people were left homeless. New Jersey Gov. Christine Todd Whitman, cutting short a Florida vacation, said the state and the pipeline company, Panhandle Eastern Corp. of Houston, would pay to relocate them.

Officials said 2,000 people, many barefoot and in nightclothes, fled the sprawling apartment complex in the panicked moments after the colossal natural-gas explosion, which could be seen from Manhattan to the suburbs of Philadelphia.

Killing predators won't restore pheasants' glory

Every Idaho Fish and Game Department office should display a sign where visiting sportsmen can see it plainly:

"It's the habitat, stupid."

After 1903, when the first ringneck pheasants were planted in Idaho, the pheasants' fortunes rose and then again fell as humans reshaped the pheasants' environment. All other factors – hunter pressure, predators, weather, management policies – are strictly marginal.

So hunters shouldn't put much hope in the department's latest politically motivated gesture toward pheasant restoration. Killing predators across 167 square miles of Gooding and Jerome counties, as ordered by department executives last week, can best be described as tinkering with a worn-out engine.

In this century's early and middle decades, the spread of canal irrigation turned the desert into a pheasant haven of fields, ditch banks and roadside weeds. But then progress transformed the land again. Sprinkler irrigation, cement-lined ditches, herbicides, fall land preparation and spring burning all eroded the pheasants' real estate opportunities.

The results can easily be seen in statistics on pheasant harvests. Hunters in the Magic and Wood River valleys killed more than 200,000 pheasants in 1972. By 1989, when The Times-News published an in-depth series on "The Disappearing Pheasant," that kill had fallen to barely 25,000.

The department does have a project to improve habitat. But those efforts can never recreate the pheasant paradise of the 1950s and 1960s.

Many sportsmen, however, are reluctant to face the unpleasant truth – that the glory days of pheasant hunting were but a brief, shining moment of history and probably can never return. They want something done, and soon. In recent months their displeasure over the pheasants helped fuel the movement to oust department Director Jerry Conley.

So now the besieged department is doing something. It plans to kill foxes, skunks, badgers and whatever else competes with sportsmen for the Magic Valley's few remaining pheasants.

Will trapping the predators help? Sure, a little, for a while. At least the rabbits and mice with be grateful.

If you're old enough to remember those fabulous hunts of a generation ago, cherish those memories. No matter what Fish and Game does, those days won't be back.

Polygraphs and the Big Lie

Daniel S. Greenberg

The survival of the polygraph is a monument to the yearning of wishfully thinking scientific illiterates for certainty where none exists. That should be understood now that the CIA is pitching the tale that its lie detectors fingered turncoat Aldrich Ames, but negligent humans failed to pay attention.

Almost every independent study of the lie detector has concluded that it is worthless for detecting lies. The machine misses a high proportion of fibs, while it misreads many truthful responses as falsehoods: It is not merely a crude instrument that can miss dangerous liars and wreck the lives of innocents. It is useless – except for scaring people, which is why President Richard Nixon deemed it a welcome device for discouraging leaks from his beleaguered White House.

The CIA and other secrecy-obsessed government agencies continue to rely on the polygraph for screening employees and job applicants. But generally forgotten is that the great bulk of the private job market was ruled out of bounds for the lie detector by Congress in 1988. The legislation, tolerated by the Reagan White House and endorsed by the Labor Department, won passage through exposure of the myth of the polygraph.

The definitive study of the reliability of the polygraph was published in 1983 by the Office of Technology Assessment (OTA), a nonpartisan, highly respected research agency that works for the Congress. The director of the agency at that time was John H. Gibbons, now President Clinton's assistant for science and technology.

Requested by Congress to "assess the scientific validity of the polygraph," OTA followed its customary practice of consulting the nation's leading experts, studying the relevant research literature and identifying what is known with certainty about the subject under examination.

In the case of the polygraph, it concluded that claims for the validity of the device, originating mainly with peddlers of polygraph services, far exceeded any scientifically acceptable evidence of lie-detecting prowess.

Polygraph "theory," if it can be dignified as such, holds that deception by a person wired up to the machine sets off telltale changes in rate of breathing, blood pressure and electrical impulses on the skin. The polygraph industry has always stressed the importance of proper interpretation of the squiggly lines produced by recording instruments attached to the machine, attributing failures, in roundabout, self-serving reasoning, to poorly qualified testers. The main problem, however, isn't the voodoo artists at the controls. It's the crackpot machine itself.

In a damning series of findings, OTA reported, "There is no known physiological response that is unique to deception." The report noted that the CIA and its companion in deep secrecy, the National Security Agency, both "believe that the polygraph is a useful screening tool. However, OTA concluded that the available research evidence does not establish the scientific validity of the polygraph for this purpose."

The best that OTA could say about the polygraph was that it might have some limited validity in "specific criminal incidents." But the report went on to observe that in such cases, "the polygraph test detects deception better than chance, but with error rates that could be significant."

As for those supposedly revealing physiological responses, the congressional study reported that they could be masked "by physical movement, drugs or other techniques to avoid detection as deceptive."

Also cited as a concern were "false positive errors where innocent persons are incorrectly identified as deceptive." That last problem, which could easily plunge an innocent person into disaster, was the big selling point when Congress banished the polygraph from civilian jobs in 1988.

Swathed in secrecy and mystery, the intelligence agencies are natural customers for a purportedly scientific device that claims to read the mind and soul. No such thing exists. But confronted now by the appalling embarrassment of the spy catcher who turned out to be a spy, an absurd rationale easily comes forth from the CIA: The polygraph worked, but the people failed.

Why go easy on Korea?

The headline from The Times-News on Tuesday read: "Korean tensions heighten, South puts army on alert; U.S. sends missiles for defense." Your paper also located the North Korean facilities for nuclear research, uranium processing, uranium mining and nuclear power plants.

Since we have these so well pinpointed, why are we allowing all this to continue? The North Koreans are led by an elderly politician who will not order dismantling of their nuclear facilities. Why don't we send our commando forces in there to knock out these facilities? I don't think we should ask for United Nations forces to undertake such a mission. They are still synchronizing their watches after glorious action in the streets of Mogadishu last October.

I come from a military family. We were sent to Yokosuka, Japan, when I was not even 10 years old. Many of us were taken to Hiroshima to look at it. I can still close my eyes and see that destruction.

I can also remember being in a darkened base movie house and seeing newsreels of North Korean army forces looking at South Korean army forces in trenches in early 1950. I can remember asking why and being told, "We're going to war," and "That's politics." A few months later, we dependents were in Hawaii and I had a Navy father, a Marine uncle and an Army brother deeply involved in a "police action" in Korea. More politics, I guess.

So we've sent some "missiles for defense." What are we going to do? Lob some missiles in here and there after the North Korean bombs go boom?

But the United States will throw in some "sanctions." Well, sanctions can be painful! But why don't we stop the North Koreans now instead of waiting until we have to do so?

I'm just an aging pre-baby boomer safe in Gooding, Idaho. I can also remember being told as a child, "If you sense a bright and intense sudden flash of light behind you, don't turn around and look at it; just duck and cover and put a piece of paper over your head and you'll be safe and fine."

That was nonsense then and it's nonsense now. Nobody will be safe! Nowhere! When the big bombs start boing boom, there will be no such thing as "safety."

To dads: Don't let kids suffer

I'm writing this letter to all the so-called dads out there that do not pay child support.

Why should the children suffer because you may think bad about their mother? How is it that you call yourself a dad, let alone a man, when you abandon your children as well as the responsibility to help raise them? How can you pretend these children don't exist? Do you ever wonder if they have what they need? Do you even care?

Somehow, I doubt it very much. I do, however, hope that sleep is as difficult for you as it is for me. It is a continued stress making sure my boys have what they need.

Children, in my eyes, are a gift from God and should be cherished and taken care of – not discarded and forgotten. Children are not toys that can be thrown away because they become too old or are no longer wanted.

I believe these dads that do not pay child support should have absolutely no rights to their children. It continues to amaze me how these dads live with themselves, knowing good and well that they help bring children into this world and yet, don't really care how they survive.

All I can say is that someday you will become old and lonely and have nobody to blame but yourself. May God have mercy on your soul.

Inmate asks if system works

I am currently sitting in the Twin Falls County Jail waiting to go to court in June on a misdemeanor DUI and a probation violation with no set bond, while at the same time, a man from Jerome County is out of the Blaine County Jail on bail for charges of child abuse for abusing my son who is 3 years of age.

I just don't understand the judicial system of today. It has a habit of keeping those who commit misdemeanors locked up and those who commit felony crimes such as child abuse, murder, rape and armed robbery, etc., released on bond.

Could someone please explain why the judicial system works this way?

Factory makes mess of area

To the City Council and the canal company:

A few years ago, you went and put all the residences on Orchard Drive East by the Sugar Factory in the city limits. All of us fought you against it, so you went behind our backs and did it anyway for more tax money.

Our property cannot be sold to an individual because of what you did to us. If a loved one passes on and leaves a person with the property and it is too much for them, how are they going to sell it? You made the mess; now tell us how we are to do it.

Also, the canal company made a mess on our side of the bank. When it cleaned it out, it kept piling the mud higher and higher. It is a weed trap, and the kochia weed is the worst. I think they should come and put all the mud from the south side over to the north side where it can be mashed down.

Reader loses faith in police

The following is a brief recap of my personal experiences with local crime in the past 1½ years.

- Fall of 1992, pickup vandalized at a local junior high during school hours. No arrests made; losses not recovered.
- Fall of 1992, 8:30 a.m., backyard fence demolished due to local teen racing down alley. Person confessed; losses recovered through teen's insurance.
- Winter of 1992, same pickup vandalized at identical location during identical time of day and did identical damage. No arrests made; losses not recovered.
- Spring of 1992, same pickup vandalized while parked at home at night; $200 worth of personal items stolen. No arrests made; losses not recovered.

At this point, an expensive security system was installed on the vehicle.

- December 1993, evidence of sizeable embezzlement from employee in our business; reports and evidence given to local sheriff's department. No arrest made; losses not recovered. We were advised that the case would not be pursued due to the fact the guilty party had admitted to the crime and promised to pay it back.
- January 1994, two cases of compact discs were stolen from home during daylight; no report was made to local law enforcement on this incident.
- March 1994, same business that had embezzlement was now burglarized after business hours; local sheriff's office made reports and investigated crime scene. No arrests made; losses not recovered.
- March 1994, my son receives threats of further vandalism to pickup and also of our home; he and other teens receiving threats report threats to local police. Within hours and days after threats, home is burglarized in broad daylight between 12:30 and 4 p.m. on a weekday; $3,000 worth of items were discovered stolen. No arrests made; losses not recovered.

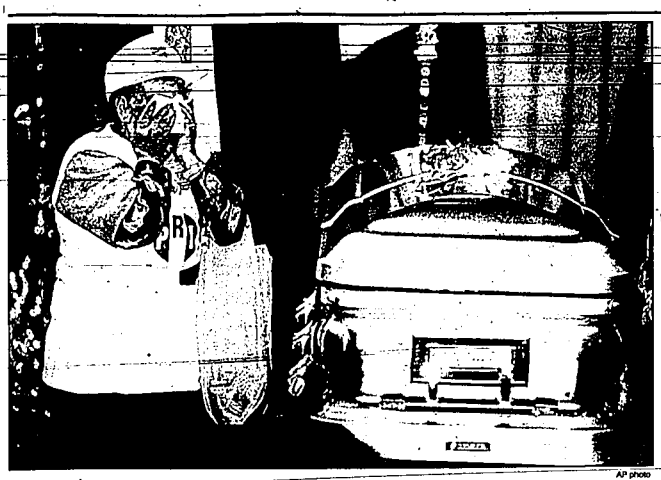

This last incident is the most recent, but I have little hope that it or any of the prior incidents will be solved. Only one incident above was solved and restitution made. I have encountered $35,000 worth of loss and humiliation. I have filled out numerous reports and watched numerous dustings for prints. At this point, I have little faith in investigations, cases being solved, losses being recouped and prevention of crimes.

A woman cries next to the coffin of slain presidential candidate Luis Donaldo Colosio at the headquarters of the Institutionalized Revolutionary Party. Colosio, the man who almost certainly would have been Mexico's next president, was assassinated Wednesday during a campaign stop in Tijuana.

Candidate assassination deepens crisis in Mexico

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — President Carlos Salinas de Gortari appealed for calm and unity Thursday after an assassin lurking at a campaign rally murdered his party's presidential candidate.

The assassination of Luis Donaldo Colosio on Wednesday in Tijuana threatened to plunge the country into a new political crisis just five months before elections and less than three months after a peasant uprising.

Colosio was shot in the head and stomach while in a crowd of supporters and died three hours later. Authorities first said two men were arrested as suspects, but the attorney general's office said Thursday that only a 23-year-old mechanic was considered a suspect and the other man was held as a witness.

Colosio, the first major politician to be slain since president-elect Alvaro Obregon in 1928, had only a handful of security guards. Gov. Ernesto Ruffo said Colosio asked for light security so he could have greater contact with the crowd — a populist style he adopted for his campaign.

Colosio's death was a stunning blow for the embattled leadership of the Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, which is still reeling from the New Year's Day uprising by Indian peasants in southernmost Chiapas state.

The rebels were seeking improved living conditions and reforms to clean up Mexico's fraud-ridden electoral system through which the ruling party has won every presidential election for 65 years.

Salinas, who handpicked Colosio in November as the PRI candidate for the Aug. 21 election, called the slaying a "cowardly attack."

A grim-faced Salinas went to the Mexico City airport Thursday morning to meet a Mexican air force plane carrying Colosio's body.

The body was taken in a motorcade to party headquarters downtown, where Salinas stood at attention beside a coffin draped with a white cloth bearing the red, white and green party symbol. Party activists applauded and chanted "Colosio, Colosio!"

The president declared Thursday a national day of mourning, with the stock market and all banks, government offices and schools closed.

"I call on all my compatriots to share their indignation in serenity and calm," Salinas, who by law is limited to a single term, said in a statement. With only five months before the election, PRI will now have to go through the process of selecting another candidate, but how it would do that was not clear because there is no established selection process.

There was no immediate frontrunner to replace Colosio, but possibilities included Manuel Camacho Solis, the government's negotiator with the rebels. Camacho had been considering running as an independent, but announced Tuesday he would not. Treasury Secretary Pedro Aspe also was seen as a possibility.

The assassination was sure to add to the nation's sense of crisis. Salinas, who had successfully negotiated the NAFTA free-trade pact with the United States and Canada while turning Mexico around from the economic debacle of the 1980s, is facing his gravest tests at the end of his six-year term.

Opponents had attacked Colosio by saying his free-market economic policies were too close to those of the Salinas administration, which so far have brought little improvement to Mexico's poor. In response, Colosio, 44, had stressed the social programs and environmental protection he would implement.

James Jones, U.S. ambassador to Mexico, dismissed suggestions the assassination would have significant economic repercussions. "The underlying economic foundation of Mexico is strong and that remains so," he said Thursday.

But the killing caused a sharp drop in the price of Mexico bonds on international markets, the clearest measure of foreign investor confidence in the country.

41 wounded in Palestinian post-siege protest clashes

JERUSALEM (AP) — Palestinians battled Israeli troops throughout the occupied lands on Thursday to protest the army's siege of an Islamic militant hideout. At least 41 were reported wounded in the day's violence.

Israeli troops fired rockets and machine guns for 22 hours on the hideout in a crowded Hebron neighborhood on Tuesday and Wednesday. Four suspected militants and one Palestinian bystander were killed, and two bystanders were wounded.

The army kept its troops around the destroyed hideout on Thursday, as bulldozers knocked down the three-story building and crews searched for bodies in the rubble. Troops pulled out three bodies.

Army officials were unsure if other militants had escaped the assault. Five Israeli soldiers, including two senior officers, were wounded in the fighting. Two were wounded by friendly fire, the army said.

The army claimed the gun battle was with the senior leadership of the Islamic Resistance Movement, or Hamas, responsible for a number of fatal attacks against Israel in the area.

Palestinians also said the four believed killed in the hideout were members of the armed underground of Hamas. The Israeli daily Haaretz quoted unidentified sources saying the four were from the Izzedine Al-Qassam Brigades and were planning to avenge the Feb. 25 massacre of worshipers at a mosque in Hebron.

West Bank commander Maj. Gen. Shaul Mofaz, who was slightly injured in the gunbattle, said the group had participated in a number of fatal attacks on Israelis and was "certainly planning" to carry out others.

Protests erupted Thursday in urban centers throughout the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Troops clashed with youths in Hebron, which has been under curfew for a month since the massacre of 30 Palestinians at the Tomb of the Patriarchs.

Hospitals reported five Palestinians wounded in the fighting, including three in clashes that erupted when onlookers saw troops removing bodies from the hideout.

A curfew was imposed on Nablus, the West Bank's largest city, after 15 people were wounded by army gunfire, hospital officials said. At least three people were wounded in smaller towns. In the Gaza Strip, 13 Palestinians suffered injuries from rubber bullets and live fire.

Israel media said at least five Israeli civilians and soldiers were also slightly injured in stonings during riots in the territories.

Palestinians criticized the army for using the roof of a children's hospital as a base for firing at the hideout. They were also angry that attempts to restart the peace talks, suspended after the mosque massacre, continued despite the assault.

Israeli and PLO negotiators, holding a second round of talks Thursday in Cairo, Egypt, discussed a plan for moving Palestinian police into Hebron as a step toward re-opening the stalled peace negotiations.

Negotiators were also working on putting Palestinian police into the Gaza Strip and the West Bank city of Jericho, which Israeli troops are supposed to vacate next month under the terms of the Israeli-PLO peace accord.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said he doubted the autonomy talks would reach a quick agreement, because security differences would probably take time to resolve.

Some Israeli politicians also criticized the army for the heavy show of force in Hebron, where tensions are still high in the wake of the massacre. The army used hundreds of soldiers to seal off the area and fired tens of thousands of bullets and over 100 anti-tank rockets into the building during the siege.

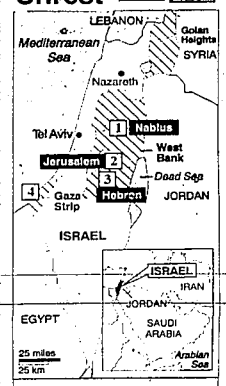

"In such a way the largest army in the Middle East is catching four terrorists?" Minister of Communications Shulamit Aloni asked on Israel radio.

In a separate development, Israeli Victor Leshtzever, a 45-year-old guard, died a day after being shot in the head by a Palestinian near Jerusalem's old city in an attack claimed by a Damascus-based PLO faction.

Also Thursday, Kach activist Tiron Pollack was sentenced to six months in prison for assault and rioting, Israel radio said. He is to start serving the sentence after the Passover holiday.

The government banned the anti-Arab Kach movement after the Hebron massacre. The gunman, Baruch Goldstein, was a Kach follower.

Israel Unrest

Palestinians angered by the Israeli army's siege of an Islamic militant hideout protested throughout the occupied territories today. More than 30 people were hospitalized.

1 A curfew was imposed on Nablus, the largest city of the West Bank, after 15 people were wounded by army gunfire. At least three people were wounded in smaller towns.

2 Israeli Victor Leshtzever, a 45-year-old guard, died after being shot in the head by a Palestinian near Jerusalem's old city in an attack claimed by a Damascus-based PLO faction.

3 Troops today clashed with youths in Hebron, which has been under curfew for a month since a Jewish settler massacred 30 Muslim worshipers in the Tomb of the Patriarchs.

4 In the Gaza Strip, 13 Palestinians were wounded in clashes with Israeli troops.

Bosnian Serbs reject joint plan

PALE, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Bosnian Serb leaders rejected the idea of joining a federation with Muslims and Croats on Thursday, dashing hopes that Serbs might embrace the U.S.-backed plan.

Instead, members of a Bosnian Serb assembly said they would try to unite their self-declared state in Bosnia with neighboring Serbia.

Although some ties to a Muslim-Croat state were not ruled out, the tough Serb stance will complicate efforts to resolve the 23-month-long Bosnian war.

It also virtually assures that Bosnia will emerge from the war a divided state.

Bosnian Serbs "cannot unite with the Muslim-Croat federation because conditions for a joint state do not exist," the assembly said in a statement following a closed meeting.

Record $4 billion settlement reached in breast implant cases

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Women who claim silicone breast implants made them sick would have up to 30 years to collect as much as $2 million each under a multibillion-dollar settlement approved by implant makers.

A federal judge still must approve the agreement, which at more than $4 billion would be the largest single product liability settlement in U.S. history.

"This will be great for the women of America," said Stanley Chesley, a lawyer who negotiated on behalf of women.

Critics of the settlement contend it is not enough to compensate the thousands of women who claim that silicone leaking into their bodies from ruptured implants made them sick.

Dow Corning Corp., once the nation's largest maker of silicone breast implants, and Bristol Myers-Squibb Co. agreed Wednesday to the final terms of the settlement, which was almost two years in the making. Baxter Healthcare Corp. also said it would sign on. The manufacturers have maintained there is no scientific evidence the implants are harmful.

"In contrast to the uncertainties of a court trial, this settlement provides women with a predictable financial compensation that is timely and private," said Gary E. Anderson, Dow Corning executive vice president.

The settlement will provide between $200,000 and $2 million to women with certain disorders blamed on the implants.

Jury: Put sex killer to death

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Serial killer Danny Harold Rolling should be executed for a string of gruesome sex murders that terrorized this college town four years ago, a jury recommended Thursday.

Jurors deliberated for five hours over two days before returning their unanimous recommendation on all five murder counts. The only other option was life in prison. Circuit Judge Stan R. Morris will consider the jury's recommendation when he imposes sentence on Tuesday.

The 39-year-old drifter from Shreveport, La., pleaded guilty Feb. 15 to five counts of first-degree murder, three counts of sexual battery and three counts of armed burglary for the slayings. Thus the jury trial was only on the question of sentencing.

Several victims' relatives wept in the back of the courtroom as the jury's recommendation was read.

Rolling clenched his teeth and stared at each juror in turn as jurors were polled individually. He also appeared to blink away tears several times.

In closing arguments Wednesday, the prosecutor portrayed Rolling as a calculated killer; his public defender said Rolling was mentally ill and had endured years of physical and emotional abuse from his father.

Mom may have killed 5 children

OWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — A woman was charged with suffocating her five babies, one by one, more than two decades ago.

Waneta E. Hoyt faces five murder charges for the deaths of Erik, James, Julie, Molly and Noah between 1964 and 1971. She was arrested Wednesday and held without bond, pending a court hearing next Wednesday.

James lived the longest, just past two years. The rest didn't live past six months. Julie, born in July 1968, lived only 48 days.

At the time, authorities blamed the deaths on sudden infant death syndrome, the unexpected deaths of infants generally under 1 year old. District Attorney William J. Fitzpatrick said Mrs. Hoyt had Munchausen's syndrome by proxy, a mental illness in which a parent is driven to harm his or her children to get attention and sympathy from doctors, friends and family.

Fitzpatrick was investigating a similar but unrelated case about 18 months ago, when he read a 1972 article in Pediatrics about Mrs. Hoyt's case and became suspicious.

Mrs. Hoyt, 47, was identified only as "H" in the story, but Fitzpatrick learned her identity and alerted local authorities. State police soon joined the effort to re-examine the children's deaths.

7 die in Iowa house fire

KEOKUK, Iowa (AP) — An early morning fire engulfed the top floor of a home Thursday, killing two adults and five small children.

The fire was reported shortly after 4 a.m. in this town near the Iowa line with Missouri and Illinois. Flames were under control by 6 a.m.

The house was an older, two-story brick structure divided into upstairs and downstairs apartments. Fire Chief Don Jenkins said the cause was believed to be a defective light fixture.

Intense flames kept firefighters from getting to the victims.

"There was just no way to get into the structure," Jenkins said. "The guys did everything possible to get in."

The identities of the victims weren't immediately released. The dead children ranged in age from 11 months to 5 years.

Three people — the dead woman's mother, another woman and a boy — escaped from the downstairs apartment, fire officials said. The women threw stones at the upstairs windows in a vain attempt to save the others.

Betty Dickens, who lives next door, said she didn't know the victims well

Accident kills woman, injures daughter

FAIRFIELD – A Washington woman died Thursday morning and her daughter was injured when their car rolled on U.S. Highway 20 about 8½ miles east of Fairfield, Camas County Sheriff Harold Lee said.

Barbara Hawks, 62, of Auburn, Wash., was dead at the scene of the 6:55 a.m. accident, Lee said.

Hawk's daughter, Karri Schill, 39, of Enumclaw, Wash., was taken to the Blaine County Medical Center and then to St. Alphonsus Medical Center in Boise. A nursing supervisor at St. Alphonsus said Schill was in fair condition Thursday night.

Hawks apparently fell asleep at the wheel of her station wagon, Lee said. The car started to veer off the road, then headed back toward the highway and rolled four times, Lee said.

Hawks probably was not wearing a seat belt and was thrown from the car, he said. Schill was wearing a seat belt and was pinned under the car, he said.

The vehicle was totaled.

"I don't see how either one of them could have survived," Lee said.

The women were driving to Rexburg to visit Schill's daughter at Ricks College, Lee said.

Twin Falls arrests first unregistered sex offender

TWIN FALLS – The first person arrested in Twin Falls County for not registering as a sex offender under a new Idaho law was taken into custody Wednesday shortly before midnight.

Lt. Ike Maxson of the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department said authorities were alerted recently that the man was living in Twin Falls and had moved here since the sex-offender registration law took force last July.

Twin Falls police officers arrested the man at Universal Frozen Foods at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday, according to a police report. Maxson said the man was not listed in county or state records, and had moved here from another state.

He did not know where the man was from or what sex crime he had committed.

Failing to register as a sex offender is a felony punishable with up to five years in prison and/or a $5,000 fine. Maxson said 45 sex offenders have registered in Twin Falls County since the law took effect.

The law requires convicted sex offenders to register with the sheriff in any county where they reside, whether temporarily or permanently.

Jerome offers campus house to move, tear down

JEROME – It's not the Boone house, but it's for sale and ready to be moved. The Jerome School District is offering a house, located on the high school campus, for sale to anyone who wants it and who will move it or tear it down.

Offers on the two-bedroom house should be submitted to the school district office by April 5, Mike Gibson, business manager, said.

"We offered it to the historical society, but they couldn't afford to move it," he said.

The house must be moved to make room for the proposed vocational-agriculture building, he said.

Water rates now in effect for Jerome residents

JEROME – New rates for water used by city residents went into effect in February.

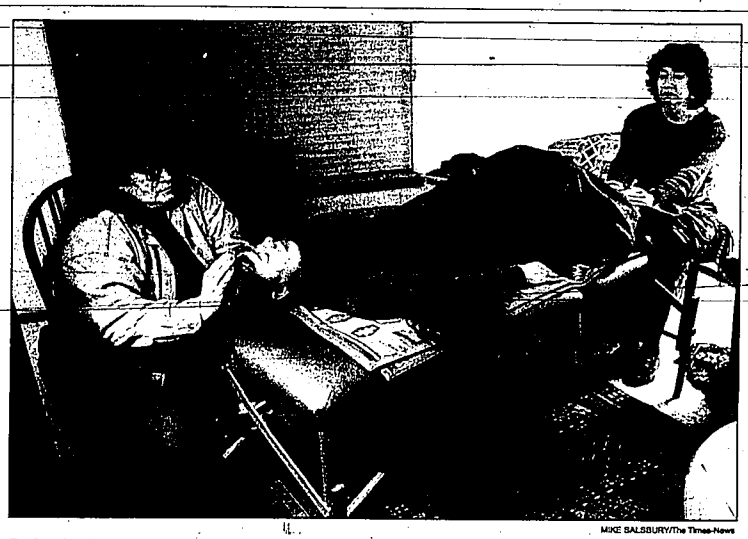

Sprinkler rates begin with the monthly meter reading at each residence between Feb. 28 and March 25, said Larry Paine, city administrator. The rates are $4 per month for 2,000 cubic feet of water used, plus a base rate calculated from the average amount of water used during November, December and January, he said.

Residents with new water hookups and those who choose not to have the sprinkler rates start automatically should call City Hall at 324-8189 for assistance. Jerome residents can choose the beginning and ending month for the rate, Paine said.

Helping hands

Reiki, an ancient Japanese art, tunnels healing energy

By Maria Stafford
Times-News writer

JEROME – Soft, instrumental music sets the soothing atmosphere as Luanne Epeldi's hands cradle the head of a woman lying on the table. After a moment, Epeldi's head begins to shake.

"It's just how I receive the energy," she says. [illegible]

Wednesday night, Epeldi discussed what she and other Reiki masters say is a universal energy they can channel through their hands into the bodies of others.

Reiki is not a religion or a dogma. Epeldi says anyone can learn the technique, and she teaches others.

"I like Reiki because it is so simple," Epeldi says. "The hands just know what to do."

The concept is energy in, energy out – the movement of pain. The word Reiki means "universal life energy" and the ancient Japanese healing art is based on the premise that all people have what it takes to heal themselves by simply opening "healing channels" in their hands.

This universal energy is said to give the body the deep state of rest it needs to accelerate its natural healing process.

"We're all a part of it," she says. "We just have to tap into it."

There is no manipulation, pressure or massage. Hands are gently placed on areas of the body for anywhere from five to 20 minutes, allowing a transfer of energy to the ailing body part.

A normal treatment takes one hour and includes 20 minutes on the abdomen, as well as time on the head and the back. A client may request treatments for other body areas.

Wednesday night, stories passed among the five women at the Reiki demonstration. They spoke of Reiki easing, and even curing, pain from all sorts of ailments, such as cancer, arthritis, back aches, head aches, broken bones and jet lag. Some devotees have claimed that Reiki can shrink or cure tumors and cysts.

Reiki is not scientifically researched, and it is not meant to replace Western medicine.

Anna Stowe, a practicer of Reiki and a certified hypnotherapist, recounts her own experience of "having the sensation of Ben-Gay" after she placed her hands on her own throat, which was sore from a cold.

"And since I've been practicing Reiki I haven't even had a bad cold," she says. Wednesday's demonstration was in her Jerome home.

"It is not a panacea," says Epeldi, "just a great complement to traditional medicine and body therapy."

Sandra Mitchell hops off the table and relays her first experience with Reiki.

"It felt like my stomach was a bottomless pit and heat was going into it," she says of Luanne's hands on her trunk area. "I feel refreshed."

Reiki is also said to help heal the mind and spirit and to encourage emotional clarity and soundness of thought.

"In my own life Reiki has helped me tremendously emotionally," Epeldi says. "I've become more aware of my behavioral patterns and now I have the choice to make changes."

Practicing Reiki since 1982, Epeldi is one of seven Reiki masters in Idaho. She travels throughout the United States and Europe teaching people how to "unite their spirit with the spirit above." She is holding a three-day course April 8-10 in Jerome.

For more information call Epeldi at 736-0160 or Anna Stowe at 324-7250.

F&G cuts predator 'hit list'

By William Brock
Times-News writer

BOISE – Badgers and bobcats will be spared from death in a plan to kill animals that prey on pheasants in Gooding County, according to an official with the Idaho Department of Fish and Game.

All dogs and cats that are obvious pets also will be spared, said Tom Hemker, upland game manager for Fish and Game. Badgers and bobcats were removed from the "hit list" on Thursday, he said.

The plan, intended to boost pheasant populations in the Magic Valley and Pocatello areas, calls for limited extermination of predators over the next few weeks. In the Magic Valley, predators will be trapped – then killed – across a 167 square mile area.

Starting next week, ten traps will be set for seven consecutive nights in each of seven special "pheasant management areas," said Fish and Game Region 4 Supervisor Carl Nellis. Any fox, skunk, coyote, weasel or wild cat unfortunate enough to be trapped will be executed with a .22-caliber bullet to the brain – or jabbed with a poison-tipped stick.

Landowner bows out of range deal

The Times-News and
The Associated Press

MOUNTAIN HOME – The federal government appears ready to pay more than $6 million for land to create a new Air Force practice bombing range in the Owyhee desert.

But the Owyhee County assessor's office estimates the acreage is only worth about $1 million, and that discrepancy has convinced one of two landowners with land needed for the range to bow out of any deal.

"Six times what it's worth. That's a little ridiculous," said county appraiser Ernie Baham, who prepared the estimate. "I've got a place I'd like to sell (to the federal government)."

California developer Robert Nahas said he now wants no part of the deal with the government because of the implications that he will make a lot of money by selling his ranch to make way for the range.

By Sean L. McCarthy
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – The city's zoning map needs to reflect the future goals of the city, planners say.

The city planning and zoning commission decided Thursday to amend its zoning ordinances to reflect the comprehensive plan adopted by the city almost six months ago.

"To me the comprehensive plan is a set of goal standards that we are working toward," Commissioner Vickie Traxler said.

But the zoning map presents conflicts with those goals, Traxler said.

"We have to provide direction," said Commissioner Kevin Dane.

Commission Chairman Fran Florence said the idea of wholly updating the zoning map seemed new to him because the planning commission does not have a vested personal interest in all of the zoning changes.

Those changes are necessary, however, because the zoning ordinances have not been changed in 13 years, according to City Attorney Fritz Wonderlich.

Large areas zoned for multi-family housing instead have been developed with single-family homes and subdivisions, Wonderlich said.

The comprehensive plan lists eight other policy guidelines that need immediate action by the planning commission.

The commission whittled that list down to the following:

- Prepare a set of performance standards that would replace the regulations for planned unit developments.
- Organize an "action committee" to coordinate and oversee the land north of the Perrine Bridge in Jerome County.
- Develop a master plan for the city's parks and recreation department.
- Review the city's sign ordinance to enhance the city's appearance.

The city has found that some developments are not always what they seem, Traxler said. The recent construction of Costco is an example, she said.

"It started out as this cozy alpine village and ended up as Costco warehouse," she said.

Performance standards listed in a land management guidebook would eliminate some miscommunication problems that have occurred between developers and the city, the commission said.

Creating a committee to work with Jerome County should not be looked as "a takeover or a land grab issue," Florence said.

Twin Falls is not trying to annex areas north of the Snake River Canyon into its impact area for zoning purposes, he said.

"An action committee ... does not mean someone on this side telling the north side what to do," he said.

'It started out as this cozy alpine village and ended up as Costco warehouse.'

—Vickie Traxler, zoning commissioner

Rather, it is in the mutual interests of residents from Twin Falls and Jerome counties to plan for the future development along both sides of the canyon, he said.

"It's only logical that the two counties start talking about cooperative effort," he said.

Reviewing the city's sign ordinance, however, should be a low priority, Commissioner Tom Mikesell said.

"I'd been involved in this once already," he said. "I don't want to do it again."

The comprehensive plan recommends that the city "encourage area beautification through sign design that enhances the community."

In the past, the city has struggled to determine just what kind of signs enhance the community most.

"I guess you could look at it again, but I don't want to," Traxler said.

Twin Falls man charged in campsite shooting

SALMON, Idaho (AP) — The Twin Falls man charged with murdering another Twin Falls resident Wednesday, will go before a judge within the next two weeks for a preliminary hearing.

Jon Michael Peckenpaugh, 52, remained in the Lemhi County Jail without bond Thursday after being arraigned for the slaying of Allen B. Swafford, 42, also of Twin Falls, after an argument at their campsite along the Salmon River. Swafford died of a gunshot wound to the chest.

Twin Falls attorney Lynn Dunlap said Peckenpaugh, a mining engineer, pleaded innocent before Lemhi County Magistrate Fred Snook.

The two men and a woman, Vickie A. Pullman, also of Twin Falls, were camping at Halfway Gulch about 45 miles downstream from Salmon, about four miles west of Shoup. They were planning to set up a hot dog stand to feed fishermen, Lemhi County Chief Sheriff's Deputy Mike Mitchell said.

Peckenpaugh would not talk to investigators, but Mitchell said officials pieced together an account of the shooting through interviews with Pullman and neighboring campers:

Peckenpaugh and Swafford had been arguing for several days. The morning of the shooting the three were seated around the campfire at about 1:30 a.m., when they decided to go to bed. Swafford went inside their camp trailer while Pullman started a pickup, intending to move it and provide a windbreak.

Swafford heard the truck start and went back outside to ask Pullman what she was doing. He knocked on the passenger side window and Pullman said she heard a shot and saw Swafford drop to the ground.

"She turned and saw Mr. Peckenpaugh standing with a gun behind the truck," Mitchell said.

Swafford was struck with a bullet from a .44-caliber pistol, Mitchell said.

After the shooting Pullman said she and Peckenpaugh recruited help from nearby campers to lift Swafford into the pickup. He died on the way into town, Mitchell said.

Lemhi County Prosecutor Milton Slavin said Peckenpaugh was charged with first-degree murder because Pullman's statements indicated planning.

"She indicated there were certain threats made prior to the shooting," he said. "He made the threats, went to the trailer, got a gun, and then shot him."

John Perry, a U.S. Forest Service law enforcement officer, said officials told Peckenpaugh and Swafford last Friday that they could not set up their hot dog stand because they did not have a special-use permit or approval from state health officials.

Bliss, Hagerman mull school consolidation

By Terrell Williams
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN – Old school buildings filled to capacity and an ever-increasing student load have Bliss and Hagerman school districts looking to each other for help.

"We've got a building that's more than 75 years old," Hagerman Superintendent Ron Worrell said. "It's inadequate for our needs. It's inadequate for some of the new laws, and we are overcrowded. And that is the problem in Bliss, too. We do not comply with modern needs in education."

One way for each city to solve its problems and save money is to make the two separate districts in to one and then build one new high school.

At recent public hearings in both school districts, Bliss and Hagerman patrons have spoken both for and against the merger, but the majority appear to be undecided.

"We're still not sure if the people want to consolidate or maintain their separate districts," Bliss Superintendent Mike Stefanic said.

He explained that the two districts have completed a feasibility study with the help of a professional consultant and a grant of $5,000 from the State Board of Education. From that study, Stefanic said, the two districts have decided to go ahead with work on a consolidation plan.

When this more comprehensive plan is done and if people at public hearings voice enough support for consolidation, then the plan will be sent to the State Department of Education for review.

If it is in order, the plan will go to the State Board of Education for approval. If passed, the Gooding County commissioners will formulate an election in the Bliss and Hagerman school districts. If more than 50 percent of the voters say yes, then the two districts will become one.

Worrell and Stefanic remain neutral on consolidation, but they do list the following advantages.

As a joint district, Hagerman and Bliss would be able to combine funds for a larger high school, which would offer students more curriculum choices as well as a choice of teachers. The tax base would be spread over a wider area and so would cost less per person than the cost of a new high school in each city. Students would have more social interaction, and the two cities would be closer by sharing one high school.

The advantages of staying separate, Stefanic said, are that each local school board would maintain full control, new schools would be built in the home town, classes would be smaller, students would not have to be transported, and school colors and mascots would not change.

Stefanic said bond issues for new schools are more likely to pass for non-consolidated districts building at home. This can pose a problem, he said, because consolidation only needs a simple majority vote, but a bond issue to build a new school requires a two-thirds vote of public approval, which is more difficult. So, he lamented, what could happen is that the districts might consolidate but not be able to pass a bond to build a new school.

If the new study is completed within a few weeks and everything proceeds on schedule, the public could vote on the consolidation issue late this spring or early summer, Stefanic predicted.

Meanwhile, Worrell said, the people want more information on all possible alternatives and costs. Hagerman high school students are preparing a video of building needs, he said, and more public information meetings will be advertised and held soon.

Marvel says Land Board was ill-informed

The Associated Press

HAILEY – Conservationist Jon Marvel contends the state Land Board made an ill-informed decision when it denied him the lease to a parcel of state endowment land, and Forest Service documents support his claim.

The Land Board based its Feb. 8 decision in part on the assumption that Marvel's plan to fence off a stream running through the 640-acre parcel did not meet an existing grazing management plan for the Herd Creek Allotment.

But Forest Service documents show that the current lease holder, Custer County rancher Will Ingram, already was failing to meet the management plan.

"The Land Board absolutely acted on insufficient information," Marvel, a Hailey architect and founder of the Idaho Watersheds Project, said Wednesday. "We're asking that they reconsider their decision in light of this information, which was not made available to them."

A Forest Service evaluation of Ingram's 1993 performance shows he was failing to comply with the management plan because his cattle overgrazed some sensitive streamside or riparian areas within the allotment.

"In 1993, even with concentrated efforts on our behalf to ensure compliance with a 50 percent standard, all riparian bottoms had from 60 to over 80 percent of forage utilized," said a Dec. 3, 1993, memo from Challis National Forest resource assistant Tod Williams to Yankee Fork District Ranger Greg Johnson.

The memo was obtained through a Freedom of Information Act request.

Ingram said he had yet to review the Forest Service evaluation of his 1993 performance, and declined comment.

The Herd Creek Allotment is approximately 40,000 acres and is jointly managed by the Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management. The 640-acre state parcel is in the middle of the allotment.

State Auditor J.D. Williams, a member of the Land Board, said the BLM's concerns over Marvel's fencing plan played a big role in his decision to deny Marvel the lease.

"I place great value in the opinions provided by our land managers who are most familiar with the property and existing conditions," Williams said in a written statement. "Accordingly I voted to award the lease to Ingram because of Mr. Ingram's proven ability to comply with the management plan."

Williams said the new information from the Forest Service could have made a difference in the Feb. 8 vote.

"I would have looked at it very carefully," he said Wednesday.

Johnson said the Forest Service did not provide the information to the Land Board because no one asked for it.

Marvel won the lease from Ingram at a "conflict auction" in January. He bid $30 for right to the lease the land for the next 10 years. Ingram did not bid.

Hansen school board seeks member

By Margaret Jones
Times-News correspondent

HANSEN – The School Board position for district one will be up for election May 17, Superintendent Dick Smith said this week.

The position is held by Jeanne Gibson.

Patrons interested in running for the seat must file their petitions with the superintendent's office by April 15.

Smith also said no date had been set for a vote on a proposed consolidation of the Hansen and Murtaugh school districts.

The sophomore class was given permission to sponsor a community picnic and family day to raise money. The tentative date is May 15 and will feature food and games.

The board voted to establish a principal screening committee to help select a new principal. The committee would include two school patrons, two board members and the superintendent.

Brent Bjorn announced that 22 students had turned out for track.

The junior-senior prom has been cancelled because of a lack of interest by the senior class. Students said money spent on the prom could be better spent on other activities.

Pizzas were delivered Monday to the first and second grade students for having read the most books in the area-wide Book-It reading competition sponsored by Pizza Hut.

Permission was given to Barry Espil to take his Humanities class to Idaho State University April 20 and for Andy Nauman's class to visit the Craters of the Moon National Monument April 22.

The board was reminded of the Friday night smoker organized by the girls' basketball team. Jim and Reta Schvaneveldt have helped the girls with this event to raise money for the Girls' Basketball Camp.

Jerome commission seeks input on 3rd industrial park

By H.R. Weixel
Times-News correspondent

JEROME – The planning and zoning commission will work on creating a third industrial park south of the city and hold a series of public hearings.

The additional industrial park, annexation and neighbors' concerns are on the agenda for a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the courthouse.

According to the hearing schedule, at:

- 7:30 p.m. the commission will hear comments on a rezoning request from Bud Cureton of Wendell, for a lot division.

Desma Poulton

OAKLEY – Desma Poulton, 78, of Oakley, died Monday, March 21, 1994, at the Minidoka Memorial Hospital Long Term Care Unit in Rupert.

She was born Sept. 16, 1915, in Blackfoot, the daughter of Benjamin F. and Martha Sanford Dayley. She attended school in Churchill and Burley. She married Kelly Poulton on April 20, 1934, in Burley. They lived in Warm Creek near Oakley and later in Oakley.

She was active in the LDS Church where she served as Relief Society president and Primary president and in various other callings. She had been a Pink Lady at the Burley hospital and belonged to the CowBellas.

She is survived by one son, Mike Poulton of Oakley; two daughters, Mrs. Rodney (Thelma) Hale of Salt Lake City and Mrs. Larry (Maxine) Adams of Burley; also included in the family is Bud Bedke, who lived with the Poultons during his school years; one brother, Cleo Dayley of Burley; one sister, Erma Mackey of Preston; nine grandchildren; and 14 great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her parents, three sisters, one brother and one great-grandson.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. today at the Oakley LDS Church. Burial will be at the Oakley Cemetery. Friends may call from 1:30 to 2:15 p.m. today at the church. Arrangements are under the direction of McCulloch's Funeral Home in Burley.

The family suggests memorial contributions may be made to the Elks Rehabilitation Center in Boise or to the Oakley Valley Arts Council.

Allen B. Swafford

TWIN FALLS – Allen B. Swafford, popularly and affectionately known as "Big Al," died unexpectedly at the age of 42, on Wednesday, March 23, 1994, while steelhead fishing on the Salmon river near Shoup, Idaho.

Big Al was born July 19, 1951, in Shelley, Idaho. He attended schools in Shelley, Mackay and Twin Falls, graduating from the College of Southern Idaho. Big Al resided and operated a business in Twin Falls prior to his death.

He is survived by three wonderful children, Shane Swafford, currently in the U.S. Army, stationed in Texas, Aaron Swafford, attending Boise State University and Tasha Swafford, residing in Twin Falls with her mother. Big Al is also survived by his mother, Lucille Rosekrance and stepfather, John Rosekrance of Twin Falls; his brothers, Jack Swafford of Caldwell, Jerry Swafford of Hamilton, Mont., Ron Swafford of Idaho Falls and John Rosekrance Jr. of Twin Falls; and his companion, Vicki Pullman of Twin Falls.

The funeral will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, March 26, 1994, at Reynolds Funeral Chapel in Twin Falls. Friends may call from 5 to 8 p.m. today at the funeral chapel.

Big Al was an avid, caring sportsman. His family and friends therefore request memorial contributions in Big Al's name to the organization known as Sportsmen for a Better Idaho, 103 Addison Ave. W., Twin Falls ID 83301. Big Al will be deeply missed by all who knew him.

Law student accused of stalking girl, 14

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — A 54-year-old University of Idaho law student has been ordered to stay away from a 14-year-old girl pending his trial on stalking and battery charges.

Magistrate Judge Bill Hamlett released John H. Bane III on a $5,000 bond Wednesday and ordered the man to have no contact with the girl or her family.

Bane pleaded innocent to battery and stalking stemming from a series of encounters earlier this month with the girl and members of her family.

Bane is accused of two counts of battery and stalking stemming from a series of incidents between March 15-17 and a third count of stalking stemming from his arrest Tuesday.

Bruce contended Bane contacted the girl at least nine times March 15 and 16 before grabbing her by the shirt and telling her "you're going home with me."

On March 18, Bane spent three hours at the girl's residence without her mother's knowledge, Bruce said. The girl later said Bane had paid her $200 not to tell anyone he was at the home.

Bruce said the girl's mother repeatedly asked Bane not to contact the girl and said he had given her children and their friends money so he could be near the girl.

If convicted, Bane could face 2½ years in prison, a $2,500 fine, or both.

North Side expects plenty of water

"It looks real good," Watermaster Bob Hackworth said of the availability of water for irrigation this year.

Irrigation water was expected to be turned out of Wilson Lake Thursday or today, Hackworth said. Farmers and cattlemen will have water between April 1 and 4, he said.

Turning water onto private land for recharging the aquifer is "on hold" until legal issues are settled, he said.

Any questions should be referred to the Canal Company at 324-2319.

Stennett files for District 21 seat

BOISE – Residents of Blaine, Camas, Lincoln and Gooding counties can look forward to a lot of "Stennett for Senate" yard signs this year.

State Rep. Clint Stennett, D-Ketchum, on Thursday filed to succeed state Sen. John Peavey in Legislative District 21.

Peavey, a Carey Democrat, is leaving the Senate after 10 terms to run for lieutenant governor. Stennett is serving his second term in the House.

Also on Thursday, Wendy Jaquet, executive director of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce, filed candidacy papers to succeed Stennett. Jaquet, who lives in Ketchum, will run as a Democrat.

On Wednesday, state Sen. Dean Cameron, R-Rupert, and 5th District Judge George Granata Jr. of Burley both filed for re-election.

Deal

said Wednesday. "Tell the state of Idaho to go look for another place."

It wasn't immediately clear whether Nahas' decision would be an impediment to developing the range.

Nahas' statement was the latest turn of events over the purchase of more than 7,000 acres needed for the proposed range. Nahas and rancher Joe Black own land needed for the northern section of the two-part, 25,000-acre range proposed by Gov. Cecil Andrus. The two men say the county estimate is far too low.

Though the federal government would buy the private land for the range, the range would be owned by the state of Idaho and be leased to the Air Force.

The state plans to acquire the rest of the land for the range by a land swap with the Bureau of Land Management.

Black said his land is still for sale, and Andrus had no immediate comment on Nahas' decision, spokesman Scott Peyron said.

Baham estimated the market value of Nahas' 2,535-acre Deep Creek Ranch, including buildings and grazing permits, at $364,000. Nahas said a state official estimated the value a year ago at $1.75 million.

"I paid $300,000 for it 20 years ago, and I've spent a hell of a lot of money on it since. ... What I'm concerned about is, how do I replace it?" he said. "You can't buy a ranch like that for $364,000.

The government wants to put practice targets in the high desert for Mountain Home Air Force Base's new composite wing of fighters, bombers and tankers.

Andrus fears that the base would be closed in 1997 if the new range is not built. The Air Force is to decide by early May whether to pursue the governor's plan.

Congress appropriated $6.7 million last year to buy land and federal grazing permits on adjacent public rangeland.

Hillcrest student paper wins award

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — The Knightly News, Hillcrest High School's student newspaper, has been named one of the nation's top seven student papers.

The paper received the Gold Crown award, given by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. The honor is based on newspapers produced during the 1992-93 school year, the first year Hillcrest was open.

"The really amazing thing is we got it in our first year of publication," Hillcrest journalism teacher Ron Bennett said.

Predators

The dirty work will be done by animal damage control employees of U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"This is a fairly low intensity trapping effort and it won't affect the long-term density of the species very much," Hemker said. The program will continue for another five to 10 years, he said.

"I see us doing more management of predators out there," Hemker said. "It's an issue that we haven't addressed very well."

Next year, the death-to-predators program will be intensified – but will also be limited to only 34 square miles in the Magic Valley, Nellis said.

The project's ultimate goal is to gather information about pheasants and their predators, Hemker. All slain predators will be cut open to see what they've been eating, he added.

Minidoka man kicks out car windows in attempted escape

By Liz Wright
Times-News writer

RUPERT – A Minidoka man, on his way to court Monday to enter a plea on charge of lewd and lascivious conduct, may face a misdemeanor charge as well after he kicked out the side windows and tried to escape from of the police car in which he was riding.

Deputy prosecutor E. Scott Paul is considering whether to file a charge against Richard Jerome Hibbert, 37, for causing about $185 damage to a police car.

But the charge may be irrelevant and overshadowed by Hibbert's other charges. He faces up to life imprisonment if found guilty on the lewd conduct charge, Paul said.

Hibbert pleaded innocent by video Tuesday from Mini-Cassia Criminal Detention Center to the charge of lewd and lascivious conduct with a junior high school-age girl.

As Deputy Dale Leslie drove Hibbert to court Monday morning, Hibbert seemed calm at first, Leslie said.

"We were having quite a conversation for awhile," Leslie said. "Then all of the sudden he went quiet. When somebody goes quiet on me, I start anticipating. I kept looking in my rear view mirror. He seemed normal. Then I heard a 'whomp.'"

'We were having quite a conversation for awhile. Then all of the sudden he went quiet. When somebody goes quiet on me, I start anticipating.'

— Dale Leslie, Minidoka deputy

He thought Hibbert had tried to kick the screen separating the front and rear seats. But when Leslie looked around, Hibbert had wrestled out of his seat belt. He was lying on his back with his feet in the air.

"Then all hell broke loose," Leslie said.

Hibbert, whose ankles and wrists were shackled, kicked through the glass of a side-door window. He was wearing open-toed plastic slippers on his feet. He broke through, then kicked out the window on the other side, Leslie said.

Leslie radioed for extra police. He started looking for a place to pull off U.S. Highway 30 on the northern outskirts of Heyburn. Hibbert tried to crawl head-first through a hole in one of the windows.

Leslie pulled off the road. He got out of the car and held Hibbert's head back in the car with his hands. Heyburn, Rupert and Minidoka County police arrived and restrained Hibbert, Leslie said.

"It was quite amazing. I couldn't believe what happened," Leslie said.

An ambulance took Hibbert to Minidoka Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor cuts. Police drove Hibbert back to the jail, Minidoka Sheriff's Department Capt. Randall White said.

2nd probe underway in murder case

KENNEWICK, Wash. (AP) — Benton County authorities have reopened an investigation into the death 12 years ago of a Kennewick man who fell from a cliff after stopping to take photographs.

Investigators decided to take another look at William E. Jewell's death after his former brother-in-law, Dale M. Norwick, was arrested last week on a charge of conspiracy to commit first-degree murder.

Norwick, who will be arraigned Friday in Benton County Superior Court, was arrested at a race track in Phoenix, Ariz., and extradited to Washington state.

Norwick's lawyer said his client will plead innocent.

Norwick, 41, of Pasco, is accused of plotting with his lover to push the woman's husband off a cliff for $1.2 million in insurance money, Sheriff Jim Kennedy said. The husband was not harmed.

Now, the sheriff's office is investigating Jewell's death. The 32-year-old Kennewick man fell 115 feet from a cliff on Chandler Ridge, southwest of Benton City, on Nov. 9, 1982.

Jewell had just gotten a new camera and stopped to take some photographs on his way to work at Rockwell Hanford Co., his mother, Bernita Jewell, recalled in an interview with the Tri-City Herald on Wednesday.

William Jewell's wife, Gerri, received some insurance money when her husband died and so did her brother, Dale Norwick, court records show.

Gerri Jewell told investigators that Norwick received $230,000 from her late husband's insurance policy, court records show.

The death was declared accidental by investigators at the time and the case was closed, Benton County Coroner Floyd Johnson said.

After Norwick was arrested last week, Jewell's relatives contacted authorities. The sheriff's office and county Prosecutor Andy Miller would not comment but did confirm a new probe into Jewell's death was under way.

Norwick, a former insurance salesman-turned-horse trainer, is accused of plotting last year with the woman authorities call his lover, Kathe Lee Harris, to kill her husband, Kenneth Harris.

Last week, Mrs. Harris agreed to testify against Norwick in exchange for immunity from prosecution.

CSI board appoints 5 committees

BURLEY – Five advisory subcommittees have been appointed for the College of Southern Idaho's Mini-Cassia center, said advisory board Chairman Ralph D. Berenger.

The board meets monthly to promote academic and enrichment programs through CSI's center for Minidoka and Cassia county residents.

Penny Neibaur will chair the course development committee; Pat Bollar, the public relations committee; JoLyn Eskelsen, the special activities committee; Kevin Bushman, the outreach committee; and Ralph Berenger, the executive committee.

The advisory board has scheduled the Second Annual CSI Mini-Cassia Center Art Show at the Snake River Plaza in Burley during Mother's Day weekend, May 7-8.

Area students make ISU dean's lists

POCATELLO – Idaho State University recently released the first semester dean's lists for various colleges. Several Mini-Cassia area students were named to the lists.

Jim Alvarado of Burley and Tiffany Vaughan of Rupert earned high grades at the School of Applied Technology; Angela Gloria of Burley, Deann Goodwin of Heyburn, Chad Franks of Oakley and Janarae Christensen of Rupert were on the College of Arts and Sciences list; and the College of Education recognized Steven Tilley and Scott Whitney, both of Burley, and Lecia Gummerson and Ruth Lovelace, both of Rupert.

Day-care owner accused of fraud

PROSSER, Wash. (AP) — A Moscow, Idaho, man has been charged with defrauding taxpayers of at least $171,204 by overcharging the state welfare system for migrant child day care, a deputy prosecutor said.

Gordon Eddy, 50, a former Prosser day-care center owner, will be arraigned April 1 on three counts of first-degree theft, said Benton County Deputy Prosecutor Kevin Holt.

Holt alleged Eddy defrauded the state three ways while he owned The Learning Tree day-care center in Prosser:

•Double billing. Eddy allegedly charged the state Department of Social and Health Services and Catholic Community Services for the same day care, Holt said.

•Overbilling. Eddy allegedly would bill for a full day of child care when a child was only present for half the day, Holt said.

•Creating false records. Eddy allegedly created computer-generated pay stub forms from non-existent orchards, Holt said.

A DSHS audit covering February 1990 through January 1993 showed Eddy collected $1.17 million.

Judge allows timber sales in owl habitat

SEATTLE (AP) — A judge gave the go-ahead Thursday for logging on about 2,000 acres of northern spotted owl habitat, a move eagerly sought by the Clinton administration and accepted by many environmentalists.

U.S. District Judge William L. Dwyer allowed 24 federal timber sales to proceed. Sales are agreed to before logging begins.

The ruling could be the first step toward ending a timber sale logjam in the Pacific Northwest. Sales covering more than 58,000 acres are still on hold.

"It's a small opening. I hope that this ruling is a ... real ray of hope that the gridlock on the forests in the Pacific Northwest can come to an end," said Peter Coppelman, deputy assistant attorney general for the environment and natural resources, who argued the case in U.S. District Court.

At the urging of 12 environmental groups, Dwyer blocked the sales in 1991 after finding that the spotted owl and other animals are endangered by logging in old-growth forests in the region.

Senate OKs legislation to limit lawsuits

1994 Idaho Legislature

BOISE (AP) — Protection for the Legislature from legal challenges to its education aid appropriations narrowly cleared the Idaho Senate Thursday.

Opponents objected to giving judges the power to order school district property tax increases. It now goes to Gov. Cecil Andrus.

"At a time when I think we should be moving away from the property tax for funding schools, this bill goes in the other direction," Post Falls Democrat Barbara Chamberlain said.

The bill, promoted by House Speaker Michael Simpson, was prompted by the pending school district lawsuit challenging the state's financial commitment to quality education but does not affect that case.

In future cases, however, it prohibits school districts from suing the state over education aid. Any such suits would have to be brought by people with children in school or within two years of starting school, and they would have to be filed against the local district.

The judge could order corrective action if districts are found failing to provide a constitutionally adequate education because they are not collecting enough local property taxes to supplement state aid. A judge could also step in if districts are spending their money inefficiently or on programs not required to meet constitutional standards.

Critics pointed out that one of those possible judicial remedies would be to mandate that the local tax levy be increased to the statewide average that includes voter-approved supplementals.

"I don't know how you would do that — impose a tax on the people that has to be approved by the people that the people have refused to approve," conservative Republican Stan Hawkins of Ucon said. "This bill is deficient."

Twelve Democrats were initially joined by Hawkins and five other Republicans to kill the bill. But then Pocatello Republican Evan Frasure reconsidered and changed sides, giving the GOP leadership the narrowest of victories. The other dissenting Republicans — were — Education Chairman John Hansen of Idaho Falls, Laird Noh of Kimberly, Gary Schroeder of Moscow and Rex Furness of Rigby.

Supporters conceded that the bill would put into law the defense the Legislature has used in the pending lawsuit — that any school failing to provide the constitutional guaranteed thorough education is failing because of its own management practices, not because of inadequate state aid.

The state currently diverts nearly half of all its general tax revenue to education.

But Schroeder questioned the bill's constitutionality, saying, "We as legislators can't legislate away constitutional guarantees, and we can't legislate obstacles between those constitutional guarantees and the courts."

By a much-wider-margin, the Senate also approved and sent to Andrus legislation precluding any court challenge to the amount of money the Legislature appropriates or how it appropriates it.

"This does not prohibit the courts, and constitutionally could not prohibit the courts, from making judgments that force the Legislature to make a policy decision,' Senate President Jerry Twiggs said.

"What it does prevent the courts from doing is making those policy decisions," he said. "It leaves these questions that should be held in the legislative arena in the legislative arena."

Only 10 senators opposed that bill, calling it nothing more than an attempt by the legislative branch to restrict the scope of review the judicial branch can exercise.

"It may work," Democrat Denny Davis of Coeur d'Alene said. 'It may not."

Inmate's last words claim jailers withheld medicine

Jail officials deny withholding the medication.

The 58-year-old burglar and heroin addict with a history of heart trouble suffered a heart attack just after pleading guilty in 3rd District Court Monday afternoon. He was pronounced dead at University Hospital.

Abston was taken from the courtroom into an adjacent holding area. Before losing consciousness, he told his attorney, Carolos Esqueda, that he needed his nitroglycerin pills. Abston said jailers had not allowed him to bring the medication to court.

"I don't think this needed to happen," Esqueda said Wednesday. "He should have had his medication with him."

If Abston did not have his pills, it was by his own choice, said Capt. David Glad.

Nitroglycerin is one of the few drugs jail inmates are allowed to have with them at all times, he said. Medical personnel specifically tell inmates to keep the pills on their persons.

Glad said his officers made every effort to keep Abston alive.

The jail officer in the courtroom called the jail and asked medical personnel for help and jail emergency medical technicians responded to the call.

They were performing CPR on Abston when paramedics arrived and took over.

An autopsy confirmed that he died of heart failure.

Authorities claim Abston and his wife supported their heroin habits by breaking into Wasatch Front storage sheds, stealing property and pawning it.

Panhandle doctors ready to establish health plan

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Doctors in Idaho's five northernmost counties plan to establish their own managed-care health insurance program with area hospitals.

The system would be nonprofit, include any doctors interested and all the area's hospitals, and market its insurance plan to people living and working in the Panhandle. A similar plan has been launched in south-central Idaho.

"This is the only way to make sense out of what's become a very costly and chaotic monster with no direction," said Dr. Mike Dixon, chairman of the five-county task force that studied the venture's feasibility.

The task force also considered separate systems for doctors and hospitals and establishing a health maintenance organization that would have physicians operating their own insurance company.

But it presented only the physician/hospital organization concept this week at a Coeur d'Alene meeting that attracted about 100 doctors.

"What they presented were not really options," said Dr. Juergen Bertram, an oncologist at the North Idaho Cancer Center. "I'm interested in what they're talking about, but I want more information. Then I'll be in a situation to make a more informed decision."

Dixon said doctors raised several concerns at the meeting. Some are worried that forming a Panhandle managed-care organization by the end of summer is too big a step. Others are not sure communities will support it.

The task force plan calls for one board to oversee the five-county system, with doctors, communities and hospitals represented. Each county also will have its own board to tailor health care to local needs, Dixon said.

Health-care workers who join the system will help establish a reimbursement schedule and benefits package, and Dixon said the system will contract with an insurance company to market the plans to local businesses and individuals.

Members will pay a flat fee per month, and the money will be divided among the health-care providers for salaries and expenses.

"Our goal is to pool our efforts and knowledge and facilities to provide the best care we can at as low a cost as possible," he said.

BOISE (AP) — The attorney general's office is investigating a telephone death threat to state Sen. Mary Lloyd at the Statehouse.

The Pocatello Democrat said a man called about 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and complained about her support of a bill extending the statute of limitations for prosecution of child sexual abuse.

"It was a very threatening phone call," Lloyd said. "He threatened to kill me."

Senate leaders asked the attorney general's office to take security precautions to protect Lloyd.

"I told the attorney general's office that I wanted to see whatever needed to be done to assure Senator Lloyd's safety," Senate President Pro Tem Jerry Twiggs, R-Blackfoot, said. "It shook me up, too. I feel a responsibility to all members of the Senate."

The call came through the legislative switchboard and was transferred to Lloyd's desk on the Senate floor. Investigators are checking out a name the man gave to switchboard operators. But attorney general spokesman Jake Putnam said Thursday that the name was probably false and there were no suspects.

Lloyd was visibly shaken after the incident. She completed the morning Senate floor session and attended afternoon committee hearings, but left the Statehouse a few hours before the Senate adjourned late Wednesday afternoon.

Scrawny cat survives long trip from Korea to Washington

A scrawny, blue-eyed cat traveled about 6,000 miles and spent more than three weeks at sea in a chilly corner of a container shipped to a Mount Vernon warehouse.

The black cat was christened Hanjin for the name of the Korean shipping line painted in huge white letters on the container's side. The cat was found Sunday by Steve Wells, who owns Mobile Merchandisers Inc., when he opened the steel box to unload a shipment of display stands.

"All of a sudden, it was up there staring at me," Wells said.

"I said, 'What do we have here?'"

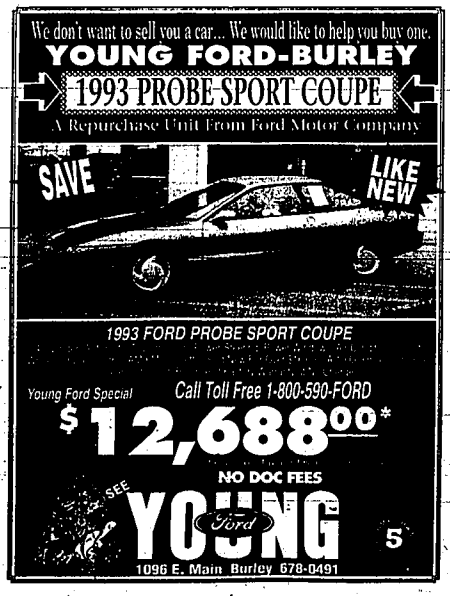

Wells fed the frightened animal a bit of dried doughnut and water. He closed up the container and returned Monday with cat food. Hanjin grabbed a few bites, then stole farther back into the container. Warehouse manager Bob Stickle carefully emptied the container box by box to expose the cat's hiding place.

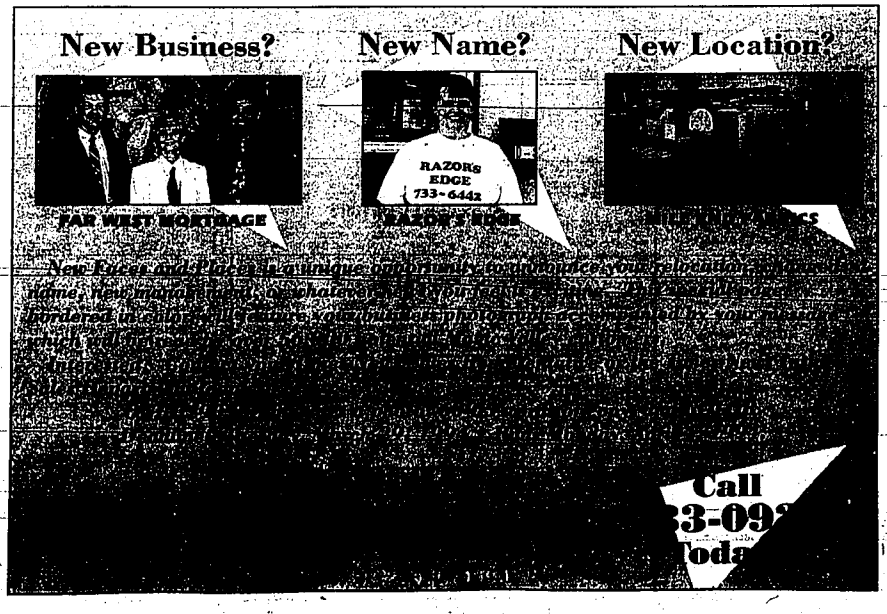

Veterinarian Gary Johnson, wearing thick welder's gloves, carefully plucked the cat Monday from its nest of shredded cardboard at the container's far end.

"Just a baby, aren't you?" Johnson said, cradling it in his arms. He took the cat to his Highland Animal Clinic, where it was given food, water and a hot pad to sleep on.

"She's doing OK so far," said Mary Emmett, a veterinary technician. "I'm surprised she's doing so well. Poor little thing."

The Riverboat Ragtime Revue takes an affectionate look at 1890-1910 America.

Plagued by flagging ticket sales, aging audiences, concert group courts families

By Denise Turner
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS – Community Concerts is targeting a younger market – in tune with the times.

In recent years, rumblings have been reported across the country – complaints about the graying of Community Concerts audiences, predictions that the organization will die out before the next generation takes root. Earlier this month, the Idaho Statesman of Boise ran a story about its Community Concerts group, citing unsold memberships and the absence of young people at performances.

"We started noticing this here about three years ago," said Twin Falls Community Concerts co-chairman Dave Nelson. "We knew we had to do something to focus on getting young people more involved."

Nelson began with his 12-member board of directors, recruiting several new members who are in their 30s, 40s and early 50s. And, since each local division of Community Concerts chooses its own performers, Nelson and his board set out to find concerts that would attract all age groups.

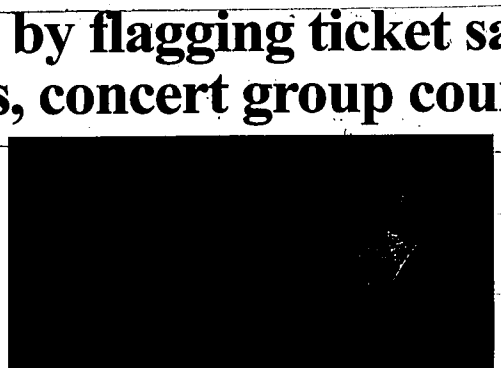

This year's season is a prime example. The Soloists of St. Petersburg is pure classical. Guitarist Terrence Farrell plays everything from classical to contemporary. Dale Gonyea is a classically trained pianist who mixes in comedy – a la Victor Borge. And the Riverboat Ragtime Revue is 100 percent family fun.

"Even our older volunteers are saying, 'I can sell this to everybody,' " Nelson said. "We are offering classical concerts, so we are not compromising the niche we've created by broadening our appeal."

Last season, area Community Concerts volunteers found yet another way to involve young people. Their Dallas Brass group brought kids from local school bands right onto the stage to play along. And violinist Scott Yoo encouraged young people during his concert, even to the extent of taking time out to explain the instruments to them.

"The artists are willing to do workshops for young people, and we would Dale Gonyea, top, who is scheduled to perform March next year, uses his piano as a springboard for comedy. Classical guitarist Terrence Farrell's concert is set for January 1995.

What's coming this season?

The Times-News

The Magic Valley Community Concert Association has booked four concerts for its 1994-95 season.

• The Soloists of St. Petersburg, an all-string ensemble of 16, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 4 at the College of Southern Idaho. The group is comprised of instrumentalists who are graduates of the oldest music conservatory in Russia, the renowned Rimsky-Korsakov Conservatory of St. Petersburg.

• Classical guitarist Terrence Farrell will perform at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 23, 1995, at the College of Southern Idaho. Farrell has won acclaim for his concerts, TV appearances and recordings. His repertoire stretches from classical to romantic to contemporary.

• Dale Gonyea, a classically trained pianist, will perform at 7:30 p.m. March 20, 1995 at Jerome High School. He uses his piano as a springboard for comedy, much like Victor Borge.

• The Riverboat Ragtime Revue, set for 7:30 p.m. April 3, 1995, at the College of Southern Idaho, is billed as an affectionate look at 1890-1910 America. It features turn-of-the-century tunes, sprightly dances, sparkling piano and banjo and top hats, white gloves, frills and parasols. It's a night on The River Queen somewhere on the Mississippi in the early 1900s.

A season membership is priced at $30 for adults, $15 for students and $65 for families.

Memberships are available from the Magic Valley Arts Council Office; Little Red Hen in the Magic Valley Mall; Sav-Mor Drug in downtown Twin Falls; Aldrich Bowler, 837-6527; Kathryn Cooper, 536-6434; Lane Duryee, 324-3034; Rosemary Mathews, 543-4838; Marian Oncida, 886-7635; Margaret Neiwirth, 423-5560; Judy Shotwell, 326-5284 and Dave Nelson, 733-8323 (days) or 733-4898 (evenings).

Checks for memberships may also be mailed to the Magic Valley Community Concert Association, 524 Sunrise Blvd. N., Twin Falls 83301.

At 18, fiddling champ seeks new challenges

By Terrell Williams
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN — Fiddling with success? At 18, Roberta Rast does it every day.

A Hagerman High School senior, Rast is looking for an education to match her accomplishments. She's already won the Grand Masters Fiddling Championship.

At age 16.

"I love to play," Rast said amid rollicking renditions of "Sally Goodin' " at her home near the Idaho State Fish Hatchery recently. "I always look forward to the next song I'm going to learn."

But Rast hasn't decided whether she wants a degree in music.

'I practiced every day, but most of it has come pretty easy to me.'

— Roberta Rast, Hagerman senior

"I really wish I could major in fiddling," she said.

In a way, Rast has really been doing that for years, ever since she set her sights on the national championship after her old sister, Danita, won it in 1990 at the age of 19.

In 1992, after a decade of practice, Roberta won her way to the national finals in Nashville, Tenn., for the third time.

At home in Hagerman were too many of her fiddling trophies to fit on top of the piano. Roberta's dozens of titles ranged from 1983 Idaho State Small Fry second-place winner at age 7, to National Old Time Fiddling Champion in Weiser in both 1991 and '92.

But the Nashville Grand Masters was her dream. By tens, fives and pairs, some 50 contestants were eliminated until only two remained. One was Roberta.

And, to the crowd's delight, the other was Danita.

A previous winner being challenged by her kid sister for the championship was unprecedented, and the audience was hushed with excitement as each girl stepped forward to play her best tune.

Roberta recalls the suspense that the master of ceremonies deliberately built up before announcing the winner. Who will win the $1,500 prize money and the bronze sculpture trophy valued at $1,200?

"They made us wait as long as possible," she recalled with a laugh. "He stalled around and said, 'Oh, ... two sisters ...'"

Finally, Danita was named as runner-up, and the two girls hugged each other

Spanish monks record hit of chants

Orange County Register

They wear brown hooded robes and don't like photos. They don't give interviews. They certainly don't tour.

They are monks, if you haven't already guessed, who live and worship in a secluded Benedictine monastery near the town of Burgos in northern Spain. They are also, much to nearly everyone's surprise, international recording stars with a hit record.

Their latest album of Gregorian chant became a recording sensation in Spain, spending five weeks at No. 1 on Spain's pop charts before spreading to the rest of Europe, where it is 18th on Billboard's European chart — nestled among Michael Bolton and Aerosmith.

The monks' U.S. label is Angel Records (would there be any other?), which is rolling out "Chant" this week, backed by a marketing blitz more typical of the cloistered Michael Jackson than cloistered monks.

A print and cable-television campaign will promote the recording when it reaches stores. Radio programs are giving the album advance airplay. A single is in the offing, and a marketing slogan has been coined — "Prepare for the Millennium." Promotional merchandise will include brown T-shirts — hooded, of course.

Angel is banking that in the United States, "Chant" will equal or better its European sales. More than 300,000 units have been sold in Spain, and early orders in the United States are already a fourth of the way to a gold record — 500,000 copies.

"Even my toughest sales reps are telling me the sky's the limit on this one," said Steve Murphy, president of Angel Records.

The appeal of the monks' austere plainchant, unaccompanied sung liturgy that dates to the early mists of Western music more than a thousand years ago, somehow has struck a chord with modern audiences.

The popularity comes amid the success of other recording projects that have exploited the ambience of exotic and remote vocal sounds. Romanian-spawned Enigma mixed plainchant with a dance beat and came up with the hit "Sadeness" recently.

Andrew Jones

Ryan Jones

JEROME – Ryan E. Jones and Andrew D. Jones have completed the requirements to earn Eagle Scout awards through the Boy Scouts of America.

The awards will be presented to Ryan and Andrew at a court of honor set for 3 p.m. Saturday at the Jerome LDS 3rd Ward Church, 825 E. Ave. B.

To earn the award, scouts must complete 21 merit badges and an Eagle project. For his project, Ryan led troop members in cleaning the flower beds and planting flowers at the senior citizen center. Andrew's project was chipping and disposing of Christmas trees.

Andrew is 17 and a junior at Jerome High School. He enjoys musical theater and has been involved in JUMP Co. and Dilettantes productions. He also plays piano and violin, sings and dances. He is employed at Gem Spraying Service.

Ryan is 18 and a senior at Jerome High School. He is an accomplished pianist and singer. He likes to go snowboarding with his friends and his employed at Target.

Andrew and Ryan are the sons of Earl and Janice Jones of Jerome and the grandsons of Warran and Eva Swank of Nampa and Melvin and Lenora Jones of Wendell.

'Mega Man' gets violent

Video game of week

By Roy Bassave
Knight-Ridder News Service

Formats: Super Nintendo.

Price, manufacturer: $69.99, Capcom.

Recommended ages: 8 and up.

How the game works: Dr. Cain tries to implement the late Dr. Light's designs into the new series of Reploids but something goes wrong. The Reploids threaten to take over Earth in the 21st century. To combat this threat, a new Mega Man X robot is created to stop them with a wide array of weapons — a laser, a tornado, a flame thrower and more. This one-player game starts at the very difficult intro level. If you get past that, you'll get to choose which of eight Reploids to battle first in 12 levels of play. To complicate matters, the game screen is filled with floating and land obstacles. To advance you must use very specific combinations and weapons to save Earth.

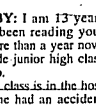

Good points, bad points: This 12-MEG cartridge delivers good graphics, special effects and sound. Only drawback is that Mega Man X is smaller, like Mario. Includes a password feature, which allows you to restart the game at the point of your last defeat. Because this game moves at a rapid pace, your jumps must be timed or Mega Man X is through. For best play, hone your coordination skills, so practice, practice, practice.

The Verdict: As in most shooting games, violence is the key to winning, but Capcom's game gives no points for destroying the enemy.

Rules of road send dad to head of class

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and have been reading your column for more than a year now. My eighth-grade junior high class needs your help.

A boy in our class is in the hospital because he had an accident on his bicycle with a car. Our teacher talked about it in class. She said we should always ride with our bikes facing the traffic – like the way we walk on the road.

Dear Abby
Abigail VanBuren

I told my class that my father said we should always ride our bikes on the right side – with the traffic. He said it is safer, and besides, that's the law.

Not everyone agrees. I told them that Dear Abby has lots of experts and we should ask you. Then they elected me to write to you.

Will you please check with your experts and tell us which is the right way to ride our bikes – with the traffic, or facing the traffic? Our teacher said she will put your answer on the bulletin board.

– MRS. BRYAN'S CLASS

DEAR CLASS: Your father was right. According to the California Highway Patrol, "Bicycle riders and automobile drivers follow the same rules and have the same rights, and bicyclists should always ride with the traffic – in the same direction as the cars. Cyclists using the wrong side of the road are a common cause of bicycle accidents."

DEAR READERS: Here are some responses to the tongue-in-cheek poem "Eleven O'Clock Mass" about the Irish Catholics trudging to church Sunday morning while the Jews sleep in. I apologize to any and all my Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Moslem readers who took it seriously and found the poem offensive. I assumed that all my readers would realize that it was intended as a lighthearted bit of humor.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from an "Abby Fan" who wanted to know if your Catholic and Jewish readers would enjoy her poem concerning the "greatness of being a Jew" to sleep in on Sunday morning while her Irish Catholic friends trudged by and tramped on icy streets to go to Mass.

I think it is great to be an Irish Catholic and have faith in God and religion to give one day a week to honor God's glory. I wonder if "Abby Fan" would brave blizzards – or sunny weather, for that matter – to get up and attend synagogue on our Shabbat (Saturday morning or Friday evening). We Jews also celebrate the Sabbath with religious attendance.

I think Catholics, Protestants, Moslems and Jews are great when they give homage and respect to the 10 Commandments – "Remember the Sabbath and keep it holy."

– RABBI ARNOLD STIEBEL, TEMPLE EMANU-EL, RENO, NEV.

P.S. Many Jews walk miles to synagogues each and every Sabbath and Holy Day. And many attend "minyans" (a quorum of 10 adult Jews required for communal worship) twice each day, each and every day of the week.

DEAR ABBY: As a practicing Jew, I strongly resent the inclusion of the poem in your column about an Irish Catholic going to Mass on a snowy Sunday morning while a Jew remains in bed. The implication that Jews do not brave the elements to attend worship at the synagogue is insulting.

"Abby Fan" asked you to print the poem if you thought that your Catholic and Jewish readers would enjoy it. Frankly, Abby, I for one definitely did not enjoy reading that poem. I believe that you owe all of your readers – Catholic, Jewish, Protestant and Moslem – an apology.

– LESTER D. HEITLINGER, TAMPA, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: It seems that "Abby Fan," who wrote the poem "Eleven O'Clock Mass," should have added one more stanza in order to make it come out even. A suggestion:

"But won't those Catholics
"Laugh at me
"When the weather
"Turns bad on Saturdee?"

Unless, of course, the writer is not in the habit of going to the synagogue regularly.

– GEORGE J. MOLL, BATESVILLE, IND.

love to offer those if we could sell out our seasons and have some funds left over for the extra fees," Nelson said. "We are doing better, but we still need to sell more memberships."

"Memberships" is a key word. The phrase "single-concert ticket" is never spoken by Community Concerts staff. That's a sore point for some of the organization's prospective consumers.

But that's an upper management decision, and its been that way since the beginning, almost 70 years ago. The idea is that performers' fees can be guaranteed in advance under such an arrangement and that season membership prices can be kept low.

"We do offer the reciprocal agreement," Nelson said, with season ticket buyers able to use their cards to attend Community Concerts in any state across the country. Currently, there are more than 500 active Community Concert Associations nationwide.

This year's four-concert season stacked up artists' fees of $15,250 for the Magic Valley Community Concert Association. Compare that with 1936, when the Twin Falls group paid out $1,650 to artists for three concerts.

Even now, the costs are low, Nelson said, because of the combined buying power represented by Community Concerts.

And, though the entertainers are not usually household names, Community Concerts tags up-and-coming artists with lots of potential.

For example, the Joffrey Theatre Ballet Company performed in Twin Falls during the 1959-60 season. And the Norman Luboff Choir was here in 1975-76.

"When you think about it," Nelson said, "our family membership is a big bargain."

That's family membership – with the emphasis on family.

Fiddling

and cried. "She was my idol," Roberta said. "I didn't think I could ever beat her."

"Winning doesn't mean I'm a better fiddler by any means," she added. "It just depends on what the judges like that day."

By tradition, the Nashville Grand Masters Champion returns in June the following year to perform at the Grand Ole Opry.

Last summer, the spotlight turned to Roberta.

Backstage, in her flashy purple western shirt, colored jeans and new boots, the Hagerman teen-ager felt nervous. She had spent the day signing autographs and visiting in The Nashville Network television interview with Porter Waggoner.

But now it was time to show her stuff.

Backed by two professional guitarmen and a hot bass player, Roberta took the stage and played "Sally Goodin," sawing two strings together in a fast-swinging tempo.

"Once I got out there, I was totally relaxed. I just played like I always do," she said. "They call it 'getting in the groove.' Your blood gets going and you don't think about anything."

She's had a lot of practice.

When Roberta was a child growing up in the secluded mountain town of Mackay, her three older sisters were given free lessons by Denzil Marker, an old-time fiddler who was anxious to keep the old tunes alive. At musical gatherings, with everyone playing along, Roberta was anxious to learn the fiddle.

"In Mackay, not much else was going on," she said: "There were two or three families that played together about once a week."

When the Rasts moved to Nampa, Roberta, age 6, began to take fiddle lessons, where her desire to play those mountain hoe-downs came shining through. In the fourth grade, she also joined the orchestra and learned to play classical violin.

"The two (styles) go hand in hand," said Roberta, who at age 14, was named concertmaster in the Idaho Junior High Orchestra and last year made the All Northwest High School Orchestra. "Fiddling's a lot faster. You have to jump around a lot."

Playing the violin is precise, she explained, while fiddling seems to have more emphasis on rhythm, style and feeling.

The only difference between the two instruments, she noted, is that the bridge of a fiddle is lower, so that the strings are closer to the neck to make it easier for the fingers to jump from string to string.

In 1983, the Rast family began to travel around the country to enter the four sisters in fiddling contests. Roberta followed her older sisters' successes and began to win almost everything she entered.

Through the years, in half a dozen states from Oregon to Texas, she won trophies in pee-wee, junior-junior, junior, and open divisions. In Redding, Calif., she won the top junior title and her prize was a new handmade fiddle valued at $4,500. The instrument is still her pride and joy.

For Roberta, the road to national success has not been all that hard.

"Everybody tells me it's natural talent I was blessed with," she said. "I practiced every day, but most of it has come pretty easy to me. I didn't have to practice a million hours."

Forester Sisters' road show's a family affair

By Denise Turner
Times-News writer

JACKPOT – Picture going on summer vacation with your three sisters, their husbands and assorted children. Could you last two weeks? The Forester Sisters live like that almost all the time.

"This road trip, we have all seven of our children with us," said Kathy Forester, in a Wednesday phone interview between shows at Cactus Petes. "We've been out a month, and we are doing a lot of schoolwork."

The Forester Sisters are changing a lot of diapers, too. The kids are 1, 1, almost 2, 3, almost 4, 5 and 10. Getting tired yet?

It's always been family first with the Forester clan, all the way back to Lookout Mountain, Ga., where the famous siblings were raised – and where they still live. Surrounded by extended family, the sisters performed as children at local churches, parties and shows.

The Forester Sisters signed with Warner Brothers in 1984 and recorded their first country music single, "(That's What You Do) When You're In Love." It hit the Top 10 running. Their next record, "I Fell In Love Again Last Night," went all the way to number one.

The string continued for six years, as the sisters became the first act to place each of their first 14 singles in Billboard's Top 10. In the process, they turned out five number one singles, including "Just In Case," "You Again" and "Mama's Never Seen Those Eyes." For their efforts, they received Vocal Group of the Year honors from the Academy of Country Music.

"When we first started touring, we let ourselves be booked 300 days a year, 500 miles a night," said Kathy Forester, with a laugh. "We didn't know any better then."

The sisters work between 150 and 200 days a year now, and life generally runs along smoothly.

Two of the Forester Sisters' husbands have managed their wives' road tours. Two of them are currently playing in the band.

"We've learned when people need to be left alone," Kathy Forester said of her touring entourage, "and we always go back to rural Georgia, where there is no music business and where we are really grounded."

All four of the sisters attended college. Kathy, 39, has a master's degree. June, 37, has a bachelor's degree. Kim, 33, and Christy, 31, dropped out, but not until their senior years.

"When we first started (in the music business), our parents discouraged us," Kathy Forester said, "but, when the breaks started coming, they supported us."

Right now, Mom and Dad Forester are back home in Georgia, delivering calves.

When the Forester Sisters complete this road tour, they plan to record an album featuring strong vocals and new songs they have written themselves. They are going to record, this time, on their own label.

"Most people think we are the sweet little girls next door," Kathy Forester said, "but we are all very strong women who run our own businesses – and we are more intelligent than people think."

Cactus Petes shows set

The Forester Sisters will perform two shows a night today through Sunday and Tuesday through Thursday at Cactus Petes Resort Casino in Jackpot.

The 8 p.m. show is a dinner show, and the 11 p.m. show is a cocktail show. Prices for the dinner show start at $19.95 on Fridays and Saturdays; $14.95 on Sundays and weeknights. There's a $12.50 cover charge for the cocktail show on weekends; $10 on weeknights. For reservations or information, call 1-800-821-1103.

Author finds fault on the USS Enterprise

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Some might say Phil Farrand, author of "The Nitpicker's Guide for Next Generation Trekkers," has way too much time on his hands.

How else do you explain watching six years' worth of "Star Trek: The Next Generation" episodes over and over, eight or nine hours a day for months, looking for bloopers, flubs and technical mistakes?

"I have had people write me and ask, 'Why did you do this?'" Farrand said with a hearty laugh.

The answer, says this admitted "incredibly die-hard and slightly lunatic" fan of the "Next Generation" TV series, is that many devoted fans of "Star Trek" and its successor are nitpickers at heart, too.

Since Farrand's 433-page book hit the stores last December, he's received as many as 100 letters a week from fans who share his penchant for spotting mistakes. "Some of them write to say, 'Thank you. I've done this, too, and people always look at me weird. It's wonderful to know there's other people who do this.' "

The errors may fly over the heads of casual viewers, but Farrand and his breed apply a Vulcanlike logic to viewing. Nitpicking "gives you an active role to play while you're watching the show," Farrand said. "You can watch it and go, 'Aaahhhh! You messed up again!' "

Farrand, 35, became enchanted with Capt. Kirk, Spock, Dr. McCoy and the rest of the "Star Trek" crew growing up in the Philippines, where his parents were Assemblies of God missionaries.

He fondly remembers the first nit he ever picked with the "Next Generation" series. It came in an episode titled "The Offspring" in the show's third season.

Young Wesley Crusher is visiting the android Data in a laboratory when the voice of Dr. Crusher, his mother, cuts in, reminding him he's supposed to be getting a haircut.

Wesley mutters a smart-aleck remark, apparently after his mother had signed off. But he didn't touch his chest badge or a panel somewhere to end the conversation. Why, Farrand wondered, didn't

Dr. Crusher hear the remark?

The incident touched off spirited discussion among Farrand and his Trekker friends about just how communicators worked.

"We finally came to the disconcerting conclusion that in fact nobody knew how these things worked, that they just worked however the actors and directors and the writers happened to feel like they should work on that particular day," he said.

Farrand, who formerly worked as a computer programmer and as a desktop music publisher before pursuing a writing career, thought legions of other Trekkers might have similar questions.

A book producer liked his idea for a "Next Generation" nitpicker's guide. Some two years and hundreds of hours of frame-by-frame video analysis later, "The Nitpicker's Guide for Next Generation Trekkers" was born.

Sales have been "phenomenal," says Jeanne Cavelos, a spokeswoman for Dell Publishing in New York. Nearly 80,000 copies have been shipped to bookstores, and a fifth printing is planned, she said.

'Generation's' top bloopers

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The top 10 bloopers from the first six seasons of "Star Trek: The Next Generation," as compiled by Phil Farrand, author of "The Nitpicker's Guide for Next Generation Trekkers":

2. "Code of Honor." For the Enterprise to take delivery of a much-needed vaccine, Yar must battle to the death with Yareena. During the entire fight, Yar's weapon — a metal bar covered with spikes — covers her left hand and arm. At the very end of the battle, Yar falls on a lifeless Yareena and is transported to the Enterprise. When Yar materializes, the weapon is on her right hand.

3. "Too Short a Season." As Picard and Riker leave the main bridge to greet Admiral Jameson, they use the turbolift near the captain's ready room. Just before boarding the turbolift, Picard contorts his face and then immediately resumes his normal somber expression.

4. "Heart of Glory." When discussing the Klingon they've rescued from a damaged freighter, Picard says to Riker: "There is more to this than we've been told. Why was the Tarellian ship so far off course?" The ship wasn't Tarellian, it was Talarian.

5. "Symbiosis." Near the end of this episode, Picard and Crusher leave a cargo bay. As the cargo bay doors close, Yar — who was killed off in an earlier episode — appears far in the background, waving goodbye to fans.

Briefly in the arts

Valley Singers perform in Burley

BURLEY – The Valley Singers will present their Spring Concert at 8 p.m. today in the auditorium at the Burley High School.

"A Celebration of Spring" features guest soloists Karen Houst and Rebecca Harris, both soprano; and Robert Thompson, baritone; and the double quartet, Soft Touch. The group is under the direction of Alan Hale.

Tickets are $3 per person or $5 per family.

Holman takes shot at symphony

TWIN FALLS – Nathan Holman will leave Saturday for Los Angeles, where he will audition for the Disney Young Musician's Symphony Orchestra.

The orchestra is for children under age 12. Nathan will audition on the violin. If chosen, he will return to California for 10 days, all expenses paid, to work with professional musicians on a concert that will be filmed for the Disney Channel.

Nathan, 10, is the son of Craig and Stephanie Holman of Twin Falls. He is a fourth-grader at Sawtooth Elementary School, where he active in sports. He is also a member of the Magic Valley Y Swim Team. Nathan has been taking violin from Julienne Slaughter of Twin Falls for the past four years.

Filer youths selected for concert

POCATELLO – The Idaho All-State Band, Choir and Orchestra will present a concert at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Reed Gym at Idaho State University.

David Severe, Gordon Swinth, Kristen Reinke, Kandis Griff and Heidi Richards, all of Filer High School, have been chosen to participate in the concert, which is part of the Idaho Music Educators Inservice Conference being held in Pocatello through Saturday. The honor of participating is awarded only to the finest student musicians who have met audition requirements established by the Idaho Music Educators Association.

The Idaho Music Educators Association is affiliated with the Music Educators National Conference located in Reston, Va. MENC is the largest nonprofit organization dedicated to the understanding of music education. Its program of publications, public relations, meetings, conventions and other special programs provides a forum for the exchange of ideas among its 55,000 members.

Chamber music set Sunday at CSI

TWIN FALLS – The College of Southern Idaho Music Department will present a chamber concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium at the Fine Arts Center.

Performers at the free concert include the Magic Valley Lyric Players (duo piano) of Karmelle Whitaker Nye and Sue Coleman Miller; the Pro Art Singers of Camille Cox, Linda Stephenson, Rhonda Wong, Milton Barrus, Derald Glenn and Carson Wong; and the Jan Olson Trio.

Library plans activities for children

TWIN FALLS – The Children's Services Department at the Twin Falls Public Library will conclude its celebration of National Peanut Month with a Peanut Butter Program set for 4 p.m. Tuesday.

The presentation includes a dramatic adaptation of Shel Silverstein's narrative poem, "Peanut Butter Sandwich," with Jim Martin as the King, who – more than anything else – loves peanut butter sandwiches; and a reader's theater rendition of "A Peanut Butter Sandwich," as taken from Beverly Cleary's "Mouse and the Motorcycle," where Keith and Ralph the Mouse have become fast friends who both love motorcycles and peanut butter sandwiches.

Add these to a sing-along, play rhymes and jumprope rhymes and be part of a "nutty" celebration. All children, kindergarten through sixth grade, are invited.

The library has also planned a Lapsit program for children ages 18-36 months, accompanied by an adult, for 10:30 a.m. Tuesdays beginning April 5. The event has limited registration, which is open now.

A Preschool Storytime activity for 3- to 5-year olds is set to begin April 8. Drop-ins are welcome; no registration is necessary.

Barton's plans egg hunt for adults

JACKPOT, Nev. – Barton's Club 93 has planned an Adult Easter Egg Hunt for noon to 11 p.m. April 2.

Egg hunters must be 21 years old. All eggs are guaranteed to be cash winners. Drawings will be held every half hour. Participants will have a chance to win $1,000.

Local firm produced INDIE nominee

TWIN FALLS – "Anne," a collection of music from the "Anne of Green Gables" and "Anne of Avonlea" movies, is among the recordings nominated for Best Soundtrack for the 1993 INDIE Awards.

The 1993 INDIE Awards will be presented at the National Association of Independent Record Distributors and Manufacturers annual meeting, which is planned for May at the Palmer House in Chicago. The awards were established in 1978 to honor artistic excellence in the independent music community. Previous winners include Richard Thompson, Sweet Honey in the Rock and John Prine.

Although films made from Lucy Maude Montgomery's books have been popular on The Disney Channel and PBS "Wonderworks" series, Anne" was released for the first time in the United States in 1993. The soundtrack by Hagood Hardy is receiving airplay on radio stations throughout North America.

"Anne" is available on compact disc and cassette at book, music and gift stores throughout the Magic Valley. The recording was produced by Channel Productions in Twin Falls.

Chorale performs concert in Boise

BOISE – The Boise Master Chorale will present its final concert of the 1993-94 season at 7:30 p.m. April 5 at the First United Methodist Church, 11th and Franklin streets.

The chorale will perform Mendelssohn's Elijah Oratorio. The performance features guest artist Clayne Robison, professor of music at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, as Elijah. Members of the Boise Philharmonic will join the Master Chorale in the presentation.

The Boise Master Chorale is composed of 130 auditioned singers who live in the Treasure Valley. It is directed by Greg Detweiler, associate professor of conducting and voice at Albertson College of Idaho.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $8.50 for seniors and students and are available at all Select-a-Seat outlets.

The event is sponsored by the Laura Moore Cunningham Foundation, Ore-Ida, First Security Bank and Mutual of New York.

'Fabricated Nature' kicks off show

BOISE – The Boise Art Museum's 1994-95 exhibition schedule is set to begin in April.

"Fabricated Nature" will be displayed from April 9 to June 5. The display focuses on the use of industrial materials in contemporary American sculpture. Sculptures are naturalistic in shape but fabricated from such things as rubber hosing, epoxy, fiberglass, hardware cloth, wire cable, resin, polyethylene, pig iron and asphalt. The artists' intent is to convey both personal and environmental concerns.

The museum is located at 670 S. Julia Davis Drive. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon to 5 p.m. on weekends. It is also open on Mondays from June through August. For more information, call 1-208-345-8330.

Montgomery grabs onto success

Knight-Ridder News Service

LEXINGTON, Ky. — If life's a dance, John Michael Montgomery has had his toes stepped on a lot.

For years, the country singer's life was as grueling as if he had been hoofing it in a dance marathon with a left-footed partner.

Apparently it all paid off.

Montgomery, 29, has reached the pinnacle of the country music industry:

• His records grab the hit charts' top slots and hang on like snapping turtles waiting for thunder. Montgomery's second album, "Kickin' It Up," was released Jan. 25 and shot to No. 1 on Billboard magazines's country album list and to No. 1 on its Billboard 200 pop album list, the latter a feat equaled in country annals only by Garth Brooks and Billy Ray Cyrus.

Its initial single, "I Swear," held the No. 1 spot on the country charts for three weeks.

The video for another of the album's tunes, "Rope the Moon," is on Country Music Television now and the single itself, released to radio stations March 14, promises to become a big hit, too.

• USA Today reports that People magazine will name the singer one of the world's 50 most beautiful people in a May issue.

• Thousands of young female fans swoon over Montgomery, mesmerized by his canyon-like dimples and bedroom ballads. His biggest audience is 18- to 24-year-old women, unusually young demographics for a country singer.

"He could swoop down and take them all," said Shan Justice, a friend and a former member of Montgomery's band.

• Montgomery's manager, Estill Sowards, says offers are rolling in from film producers who want to make Montgomery a matinee idol.

And so on.

In short, Montgomery is a star. Some music industry insiders speculate that he could become a megastar on the order of Brooks. "He definitely could reach Garth-dom," said Charlie Crowe, a Lexington guitarist who toured with Montgomery's band before leaving in December to play for country duo Brooks & Dunn (no relation to Garth Brooks).

Those who know Montgomery say he deserves the breaks. They describe him as unusually gifted musically and unusually likable, too — a rare combination.

He still shows up frequently at Lexington's Austin City Saloon, the local bar where he used to play, and jams with the house band.

"He's one of the nicest guys I've ever met," said Angie Woodward, co-manager of Lexington's Disc Jockey Records store, who has known Montgomery for years. "He's very laid back. But at the same time ... I've seen him have such a good time that he'll stay up all night, if that's what people want him to do."

He was born Jan. 20, 1965, in Danville, Ky., to Harold and Carol Montgomery, who were divorced in 1982. Each since has remarried.

John Michael was the quiet, determined one.

"John was about 4 before he ever talked," said Carol Hasty, his mom.

By day, Harold Montgomery worked as a TV repairman or a meat cutter. Carol, called "Snookie," was a meat cutter, too.

Their real life, though, happened at night: Harold and Carol — along with members of their country band, Harold Montgomery and the Kentucky River Express — toured a non-stop circuit of Central Kentucky honky-tonks and VFWs.

John Michael Montgomery won Best New Country Artist at the American Music Awards in February in Los Angeles.

Early in school, he was an A student. But when he was in the fifth grade, his father's TV repair shop in Nicholasville, Ky., folded and the family returned to Danville.

Hasty said the family was so penniless that the students in John Michael's new school made fun of his clothes. By the sixth grade he was miserable. His school work declined; he failed.

There were other, more amusing, sources of unhappiness. His trademark dimples, inherited from his mother, were a bane. "I used to hate them," he said. "When you're a kid, your jaws get pulled on right and left. ... It's a hard way to live."

Whatever the family's problems, John Michael adored and patterned his life after his parents, particularly Harold, whom he calls the world's best father.

"My dad's my biggest idol. My mom, too," he said. "They are at the top of the list, over everybody. ... My dad's got the biggest heart in the world."

By the time John Michael was 15, he had joined his parents' band as a guitar player. Brother Eddie soon replaced Carol as drummer.

The boys played rock 'n' roll tunes between their father's renditions of old country standards.

"Sometimes I just didn't go to school because I couldn't get a shower," John Michael said. "Sometimes I was just worn out."

He missed more than 70 days of classes that year, failed an English course and didn't graduate.

"School was always easy for me," he said. "It was just getting there" that was the problem. He later earned a GED.

Also during John Michael's teenage years, Harold's and Carol's marriage fell apart. For six months the Montgomery men resided in Harold's TV-repair shop.

They drove to their shows in a 1976 Chevrolet station wagon that had Jeep tires on it, with equipment lashed to the luggage racks.

Eventually, Harold quit the band and moved away.

Country notes

After their father left, John Michael and Eddie started a group called Early Tymz and then another called John Michael Montgomery and Young Country.

The bands played for as little as a few hundred dollars a week, split among several musicians.

Eddie and John Michael frequently shared apartments and expenses with band members. They celebrated their youth and freedom.

"In our drinking days, we'd all have a couple and get crazy," said Justice, who eventually joined the band and lived with the Montgomerys. "And John would, too."

But he said John Michael was more self-controlled than many.

For three years, Montgomery dated Kelly Welch, a hair stylist whose last name now is Combs. (She married another man four years ago.)

A recording deal hit Montgomery as unexpectedly as a sucker-punch. Nashville came to him.

In October 1990, manager Estill Sowards caught Montgomery's performance at the Congress Inn — a break from the band's standing gig at Austin City.

"This guy's a star," Sowards recalls thinking that night.

Sowards asked to manage Montgomery's career and promised to land him a recording contract.

The singer wasn't wowed.

"I'm like, 'yeah,'" Montgomery recalled. "I'm like, 'right.'"

Within no time, though, Sowards began bringing Atlantic Records executives to Lexington to meet Montgomery. They were as blown away as Sowards.

Montgomery signed with Atlantic in January 1991, a one-song deal that soon was expanded.

After that initial rush, though, he still was playing Austin City and waiting for something to happen. For a year and a half.

It took that long for Atlantic to find him good songs, record them, film a music video or two and plan a marketing campaign.

"Life's a Dance," the single and video, were released in September 1992. The album of the same name came out the next month.

All Montgomery wanted was for the single to make the country Top 40 — to hear his name on Bob Kingsley's "American Country Countdown" national radio show.

"My ears stayed glued to the radio," he said.

He eventually heard it. The song slowly climbed all the way to No. 4. Things got even better. The album's second single, a ballad called "I Love the Way You Love Me," hit the top slot.

Montgomery had arrived.

L.M. Boyd
What's what?

Some career sailors only get sick in choppy water, some only on long smooth swells, and some, never nauseous aboard ship, suffer miserably in certain aircraft. Roller coaster fanatics, many can't stand whip cars, and vice versa. Motion sickness oftentimes is specific to the motion, says a medical expert.

A "quarrel" is a short arrow, a square needle, a pane of glass, a tile, a stone mason's chisel, a glazier's diamond, a place to get stone such as a quarry, the stone itself, and... Quite so, an argument.

Average time a widow remains a widow is 11 years.

Q. When did the Chinese introduce chopsticks?

A. During the Chou Dynasty, appropriately. No, too flip. A century or so before the birth of Christ.

Those who claim to read significance in handwriting contend the woman whose script slants backwards tends to be meticulous in minor matters but a bit careless in her relationship with men. They go on to say such a woman may be impressed too little by character and too much by money, prestige or good looks.

Q. What was F. Scott Fitzgerald's preferred hard liquor?

A. Gin. He called it "the writer's vice." Maybe so. It was Ernest Hemingway's drink, as well. He called it "the giant killer." List William Faulkner here, too. He didn't call it anything. Just for more of it.

Q. Where'd we get the name of that green color called "teal?"

A. From green patches on the head and wings of that littlest duck called the teal.

An anteater can stick out its tongue 160 times a minute, and nobody in kindergarten can even come close.

Q. What do the psychologists call that phenomenon that makes some people drunk when they think they've been drinking liquor even if no liquor was in their drinks?

A. "The Expectancy Effect."

Horoscope

IF MARCH 25 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You are spiritual, sensitive, psychic, many claim you are an "elitist." You appear soft on the inside but are tough inside — you'll fight when cause is right. You are an original thinker, can transform the abstract into the practical, recognizable. Major domestic adjustment due, could include actual change of residence, marital status.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Some will dub you "ultra-critic." Emphasis is on selectivity, quality, improved working conditions. Those who attempt to deceive will be caught red-handed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You'll exude sensuality, sex appeal — deadline exists, job gets done, reward due within 48 hours. Older individual lends benefit of experience, helps with added responsibility. Time out!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The very property, home you've been seeking is available. Focus on family, renewal of faith, ability to be rid of losing proposition. Previous rules no longer apply.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Answer to question: Affirmative, break free, be innovative, courageous, participate in pioneering project. Love relationship controversial, inspiring.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Within 24 hours needed documents will be in your hands. Spotlight on money, payments, collections, promises fulfilled — at last. Emphasize unorthodox approach — surprise your opponent.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Vindication! What you sought, fought for proves worthwhile. Diversify, ask questions, add to wardrobe. Long-distance communication relates to journey, social affair.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Scenario features hospitals, institutions, theaters, art galleries — be in touch with individual temporarily immobile. Within 24 hours financial logjam removed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Check Libra message. Focus on communication, advertising, getting message across. You'll win friends, influence people. Utilize powers of persuasion. Go directly to source — take initiative.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What was lost will be voluntarily returned — family member involved, no harm was planned but experience was frustrating. Renovation due — check home appliances. Taurus represented.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Financial "involvement" rectified. Time limitation exists, bring order out of chaos. Older individual says, "I won't let you go again!" Cancer native provides missing link.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Face one who hurls accusations — you'll gain support. Protect legal rights, let others know where you stand, don't shrink from necessary battle. Marital status figures in dramatic scenario.

Whatever happened to Claudette Colbert?

Knight-Ridder News Service

Whatever happened to Claudette Colbert? She was such a lovely person but we haven't heard anything about her lately. — E.W., Tulsa, Okla.

STATS: Born Sept. 13, 1903, in Paris as Claudette Lilly Chauchoin. Attended public schools in New York City. Married actor/director Norman Foster, 1928-35; Dr. Joel Pressman, 1935-68.

Colbert

Then and now

IN EARLY YEARS: Colbert was 6 when she arrived in the U.S. After high school she studied art intending to be a fashion designer. She changed her name to Colbert in 1923. Made her first movie, a silent film, "For the Love of Mike," in 1927. Her real movie career started with "The Hole in the Wall" in 1929. In 1934, she won the Academy Award for "It Happened One Night," and was nominated for an Oscar in 1945 for "Since You Went Away." She made nearly 50 features before leaving the screen after "Parrish" in 1961.

FAMOUS FOR: Her skill in sophisticated comedy and a Hollywood legend she denies, that she would never allow herself to be photographed from the right side — to hide a bump on her nose, the result of being broken twice when she was young.

IN RECENT YEARS: Colbert has divided her time between the theater and her home in Barbados. In 1987, she made her TV debut in the miniseries "The Two Mrs. Grenvilles." She suffered a stroke at her home in March 1993.

'The Paper:' Extra! Slick pix sells tix

By Philip Wuntch
Dallas Morning News

Ron Howard's "The Paper" could become a classic of pop entertainment. It proves that lightweight entertainment, if delivered at just the right pitch, can pack a heavyweight punch.

Howard had sizable hits with "Parenthood," "Cocoon" and "Splash," but the critics qualified their praise for all three. The director — who, as everyone knows, grew up in America's living rooms as Andy Griffith's son Opie — had the sitcom habit of solving serious problems with one-liners.

"The Paper," to some extent, is guilty of such simplicity, and the most self-important journalists probably will sneer at it. But the movie's pace is furious, its dialogue sharp and its characterizations both appealing and relatively honest.

Like all Howard films, "The Paper" has a happy ending, but the screenplay makes it clear that this happy ending is for one day only. After all, newspapers reflect life: You never know what tomorrow's headlines will bring.

The New York Sun is no ordinary newspaper, or at least that's what we serious journalists will tell you. The Sun thrives on sensationalism, with design and content that rival the checkout-counter tabloids, and the screenplay gives tabloid journalists credit for more honorable intentions than many actually possess.

Sun columnist Dan McDougal (Randy Quaid) carries a gun because he's certain the New York parking commissioner wishes him dead. McDougal frequently sleeps on his editor's couch and exists on a diet of liquor and Pepto-Bismol.

Managing editor Alicia Clark (Glenn Close) would seem to be McDougal's opposite. Although she edits a sleazy paper, she longs for money and social ascendancy, and, oh yes, she has a rapacious sexual appetite. She's constantly aware of the newspaper's bottom line and gladly would print a sensational lie if it would sell papers. The Sun can always print a retraction — and make it just as sensational.

Editor-in-chief Bernie White (Robert Duvall) is a time-weathered mixture of saltiness and softness. He's frequently at odds with Alicia but has survived tougher adversaries than even she.

Besides, he's got other problems, such as prostate cancer and a daughter who's never forgiven him for being chronically unfaithful to her mother.

But the film's centerpiece is Henry Hackett (Michael Keaton), the metro editor with a conscience — which the screenplay suggests is not a trait shared by all ink-stained wretches. He resists running a sensational story implicating two African-American teens in a murder even though Alicia insists that the Sun publish it, enjoy the inevitable newsstand sales and print a rose-colored retraction the next day. Tempers erupt into a punching-and-kicking spree.

But Henry also has other things on his mind. His wife, Marty (Marisa Tomei), is expecting their first child at any time, and she alternates between understandably demanding Henry's support and missing her job as a crackerjack Sun reporter.

In synopsis form, these characters uncomfortably resemble TV sitcom staples, but they're performed with individuality and finesse.

Keaton gives the best, most manic performance of his career; he plays Henry with such verbal and physical wit that his high morals never seem stuffy. Henry is definitely a good guy, but he probably would laugh in the face of anyone who said so.

Keaton and Tomei enjoy a strong rapport, and Tomei turns Marty into something more than the stereotypically nervous expectant mother. Her mood swings are entirely believable, and the way she makes a face at the name "Alicia" is delightful.

Nor is Close's Alicia a cliche. The actress humanizes the character without unduly softening her. You sense that she's had to fight for every advancement and that she's been criticized for actions that a man might be admired for. But she's still a villainess, albeit a very human one, and a last-minute, character-saving phone call seems unnecessary.

Duvall's quiet, resolute sadness compensates for his self-conscious artiness in the flop "Wrestling Ernest Hemingway." His Bernie White is hardly a Lou Grant clone, and the tarnished dignity Duvall invests in the character is completely moving.

The clever screenplay, co-written by brothers David and Stephen Koepp (Stephen is a senior editor at Time) does have its unapologetic cliches, however. Quaid's columnist, although well-played, is a blatant throwback to the newspaper writers who used to populate old movies. Spalding Gray's overly articulate Sentinel editor-is-also-a-caricature, but it's played so hilariously that few will object.

"The Paper" rekindles the love we feel for old-fashioned movies — it even has "THE END" printed over its final scene. But its tempo and sprightliness are completely contemporary. This is one film you will want to see more than once. (Mall Cinema).

Movie review

Awards give movies new life, chance for another round at the theaters

AP photo

'In the Name of the Father' should be on video by mid-summer.

So when do video collectors get to own, or at least rent, the films that won the big Oscars this week? The short answer: Don't hold your breath.

Of the major winners, only "The Fugitive," with best supporting actor Tommy Lee Jones, is on video now. "The Piano" (best actress, best supporting actress, best original screenplay) is due May 25.

But most of this year's winners are still in their original theatrical runs. In other years, many winners had ended their runs by the time they won, which allowed them to be brought back for triumphal victory laps through theaters before heading to home video.

This year, "Schindler's List" (best picture, best director and five others) could well run for months, as could "Philadelphia" (best actor, best original song). Don't expect to see them on video shelves till midsummer at the earliest. "The Age of Innocence" (costume design) could be along in a month or two.

Some of the Oscar also-rans are another matter. "What's Love Got to Do With It" and "In the Line of Fire" already are on home video, "Fearless" is due out April 6 and "The Remains of the Day" is expected May 4. Other films such as "In the Name of the Father" and "Six Degrees of Separation" will be in stores by midsummer.

The other big question is about the thunderous arrival of all-time box-office champ "Jurassic Park," which took three technical Oscars. No firm date, but don't be surprised if T. Rex is roaring around your local video store by Labor Day.

Magazine celebrates best of B's

The Baltimore Sun

BALTIMORE — You gotta love a magazine that goes from having Tyrannosaurus rex on the cover of its first issue to Mamie Van Doren on its second — especially one run by a guy who also hawks copies of the five feature films he has directed, including "Deadly Neighbor," "Night Beast" and "Blood Massacre."

Movie Club magazine is a bimonthly periodical dedicated to what Don Dohler, its editor-publisher, calls "classic independent and B-movies, with a slant toward the horror, fantasy and sci-fi genres."

What that translates to is a magazine that moves, within a single issue, from an article on "The Fugitive" television series and movie to a survey of juvenile delinquent flicks from the 1950s — hence the photo of Van Doren, curvaceous star of "Untamed Youth" — to an appreciation of the late Vincent Price.

It's also a magazine that has the temerity to suggest that "Jurassic Park" is no more than a "mediocre money-making machine" and list 11 superior "dino-films."

So far, six magazine distributors in the United States and Canada have agreed to handle Movie Club, making it available at newsstands throughout the country.

With a cover price of $3.50 and a subscription rate of $15.75 per year, the magazine has a circulation of nearly 10,000, says Dohler, who publishes Movie Club out of his home in Perry Hall, a village near Baltimore.

Movie Club isn't Dohler's first foray into the magazine field. As a teen-ager, he produced "my own little-ditto[ed] fanzine," WHO!, featuring work by such artists as Jay Lynch, Skip Williamson and Art Spiegelman — names Dohler says should be familiar to readers of underground and independent comic books.

He later developed Cinemagic, a magazine devoted to special effects in the movies, and Amazing Cinema, and wrote two books: "Film Magic" and the two-volume "Stop Motion Animation."

Ike 'n' Tina Turner reach local video shelves

The Times-News

New movies this week in Twin Falls video stores:

"What's Love Got to Do With It?" (R) Great ambition often goes into making film biographies, but the finished work tends to reveal how difficult it is to turn the even the most interesting life into art: "Chaplin" and "Malcolm X" tried to say too much; "Hoffa" and "The Babe" managed to say nothing at all.

But "What's Love Go to Do With It," based on Tina Turner's book "I, Tina," is a pleasant surprise. The film is no masterpiece, but it's less cluttered than "Hoffa" and "The Babe" and more entertaining than either "Chaplin" or "Malcolm X." At its best, it's as tough and flashy as the woman it celebrates.

Her story is a natural, almost something Alice Walker could have written.

"What's Love Go to Do With It" chronicles the singer's transformation from country girl to R&B sex symbol to international pop star. It also shows her graduation from the "Ike Turner Academy" — from innocent teen-ager to battered wife to independent woman.

Born Anna Mae Bullock in rural Tennessee in 1939, Turner was a plantation manager's daughter whose parents divorced when she was 11. She lived for a while with her grandmother and rejoined her mother in St. Louis in the mid-1950s.

Anna and Ike met at a St. Louis juke joint in 1956, when he was the leader of a popular blues band and she was an aspiring singer. The chemistry, at least the stage chemistry, was right from the start. When a scheduled vocalist failed to show for a session in 1959, Anna — soon to be renamed Tina — stepped in.

As the movie's title makes clear, love seemed the least of what kept this unhappy couple together for 20 years.

At first it was the professional pairing of a naive, but ambitious singer with a sophisticated, ambitious musician. But friendship turned into romance, romance gave way to violence and all the fame and money in the world couldn't save Tina from what happened.

It was a terrible trap. The moody, suspicious Ike was convinced that Tina would abandon him and seemed compelled to make that happen. The insecure Tina, remembering how her own parents walked out on her, feared doing the same thing to her children. Not until 1976, when a bloodied Tina sneaked out of her hotel and dashed to a nearby Ramada Inn, did she finally leave Ike for good.

The film runs 120 minutes and writer Kate Lanier and director Brian Gibson do a good job compressing events and keeping things moving. The live performances, especially "Proud Mary," are great fun, and the first scene is a classic: little Anna Mae hams it up in choir practice as if she were a Las Vegas showgirl and is removed from the premises, singing away.

Angela Bassett, who was nominated for an Oscar for the thankless job of playing a "living legend," does such a good job at capturing Tina's onstage dynamism and offstage despair you almost don't notice when the real Turner materializes at film's end. (Quibblers might note Bassett's well-toned arms seem out of a place in the pre-aerobic years.)

The character of Ike needs fleshing out, but Oscar-nominee Laurence Fishburne doesn't allow him to become a cardboard villain. No actor could make Ike a likable character, but Fishburne at least tries to make you understand him. Even in the most brutal scenes, you never lose sight of the confused, frightened man setting himself up for his own fall. (Associated Press) (Great American Video, Video West).

Expect plenty of - er - fertilizer to go with big shows rest of year

Knight-Ridder News Service

As usual with a warm-weather crop, expect plenty of, er, fertilizer, too.

Look for Julia Roberts as a hot shot newspaper reporter, Charlie Sheen as a devil-may-care skydiving instructor, Keenen Ivory Wayans as a down-on-his-luck private investigator, Meg Ryan as an alcoholic wife and Pauly Shore as an army reservist.

Notice a posse of westerns, two movies from Quentin Tarantino, one now based on a book by Michigan author Jim Harrison and another in the fall, doubles of Bruce Willis, Rosie O'Donnell, Drew Barrymore, and Jack Palance in triplicate.

Peek ahead at advance word on fall and winter films that promise to be weird or wonderful.

Michelle Pfeiffer shows up when summer wanes as "a compassionate ex-Marine who leaves behind 10 years in the service to become an inner city high school teacher" (and we thought she was miscast in "Age of Innocence").

Tim Robbins and Morgan Freeman star in an "extraordinary tale of hope, survival and friendship ... inside a maximum security prison."

Meanwhile, back to the present. Opening Friday: "D2: The Mighty Ducks Are Back."

REALLY BIG SHOWS

"The Flintstones:" John Goodman as Fred and Elizabeth Taylor as his mother-in-law? Need we say more? Well, OK. Rosie O'Donnell, Rick Moranis, Elizabeth Perkins, Halle Berry and dinosaurs from Spielberg's Amblin Entertainment. Big, yes. But will it work? Bear in mind "The Beverly Hillbillies." May 27.

"Wolf:" Mike Nichols directs; Jack Nicholson howls. A New York book editor turns lupine and feral. With Michelle Pfeiffer, James Spader, Kate Nelligan. June 24.

"The Lion King:" Major summer animation from Disney. Simba the cub grows up to be king of the beasts after gamboling with childhood chums, Pumbaa, a dim-witted warthog, and Timon, a fast-talking meerkat. Songs by lyricist Tim Rice ("Evita," "Jesus Christ Superstar," and Oscar-winner for "Aladdin") and Elton John. June 24.

"I Love Trouble:" Big names Julia Roberts and Nick Nolte are rival reporters working for competing Chicago papers in what's being billed as a screwball comedy. Promises, promises. June 29.

"Forrest Gump:" Robert Zemeckis directs Tom Hanks as an innocent who stumbles into celebrity as an All-America football player, a decorated war hero and a prosperous businessman. With Robin Wright, Sally Field. July 22.

"Wyatt Earp:" Epic western from Lawrence Kasdan. In the background — the American West from the 1860s to the turn of the century. In the foreground — the life of Earp, from youth to middle age. In the cast — Kevin Costner, Dennis Quaid, Gene Hackman, Catherine O'Hara, Isabella Rossellini. June 24.

"Natural Born Killers:" Could be a sleeper, written by Quentin Tarantino, directed by Oliver Stone and starring Woody Harrelson, Juliette Lewis, Robert Downey Jr., Jack Palance, Tommy Lee Jones in a satire examining violence, murder and the American media. August 5.

BIG FOR KIDS

"Thumbelina:" Don Bluth's animated romantic adventure with songs by Barry Manilow. Adults beware — it's described as "the many adventures experienced by the tiny heroine as she struggles in the big, wide world ..." March 30.

"Lassie:" The '90s version. A family leaves the city in search of rural bliss. With all that long hair being shed, let's hope they bring the vacuum cleaner, too. June 10.

"The Little Rascals:" Spanky, Alfalfa and Our Gang (and the kids who won the casting search) with Penelope Spheeris ("Wayne's World") directing. Late summer/early fall.

"Black Beauty:" Live-action adaptation written and directed by Caroline Thompson ("Edward Scissorhands") with Sean Bean and David Thewlis ("Naked"). July 15.

SPORTING KIDS

"Angels in the Outfield:" The Angels baseball team is losing until an 8-year-old kid has a vision of angels on the field. With Danny Glover. July.

"Little Big League:" A 12-year-old kid inherits the slumping Minnesota Twins from grandfather and becomes the youngest owner-manager in baseball history. Columbia. Summer.

"3 Ninjas Kick Back:" A trio of baseball-loving, American mini-ninjas move to Japan. May 6.

"The Next Karate Kid" is an 18-year-old girl, played by newcomer Julie Pierce. It's called mixing genres. Summer.

"Major League II:" Well, they do behave like kids. Summer.

FOR BIG KIDS

"In the Army Now:" Pauly Shore enlists. Summer

"Camp Nowhere:" Teen-agers invent their own camp. Summer.

"PCU:" A freshman who arrives at Port Chester University; the abbreviation tells the tale. Directed by Paul Schiff ("My Cousin Vinny," "Young Guns I and II"). April 29.

"It's Pat:" Julia Sweeny, David Foley. Androgeny amok. May.

FEEL GOOD AND FUN

"Renaissance Man:" Screenwriter Jim Bernstein got a major movie made based loosely on his own experiences teaching Shakespeare to soldiers, and then they cast Danny DeVito to play him. With Gregory Hines, Marky Mark, Penny Marshall directs. June 10.

"Cop Tips Waitress:" Bridget Fonda and Nicolas Cage, and guess which is which. The plot is about $2 million dollars. June 17.

"City Slickers II:" Another trail ride with Billy Crystal, Jack Palance, Daniel Stern, Jon Lovitz. June 10.

"With Honors:" Harvard students (Brendan Fraser, Patrick Dempsey, Josh Hamilton) learn from a homeless man (Joe Pesci). Directed by Alek Keshishian of Madonna fame. April 29.

"The Cowboy Way:" A saddle-sore tale of modern-day rodeo cowboys from New Mexico on the loose in New York City. Woody Harrelson and Kiefer Sutherland are the yokels. June 3.

FAMILIES/FUN

"Crooklyn:" Spike Lee's comedy about life in a Brooklyn family during the '70s. Starring Lee, his sister Joie Lee and Alfre Woodward. May 13.

"Cops and Robbersons:" Suburban family plays host to grizzled cop during stakeout. Chevy Chase, Jack Palance, Dianne Wiest. April 15.

"Corrina, Corrina:" Ray Liotta is a newly widowed father who hires Whoopi Goldberg as Corrina to look after his little daughter. May 6.

FAMILIES/UN-FUN

"Twist-of-Fate:" Steve Martin wrote and stars in drama about a father's efforts to keep his adopted daughter in face of demands from biological father. Since when did we have to pay to see TV movies-of-the week? With Catherine O'Hara, Gabriel Byrne. Summer.

"The River Wild:" Meryl Streep and Kevin Bacon are a troubled couple who take their young son on white-water rafting trip to save their marriage. Marriage counseling would be less exciting but more efficient. July 4.

PAIRING OFF

"When a Man Loves a Woman:" Andy Garcia, Meg Ryan, marriage, alcoholism, Al Franken, not necessarily in that order. April 22.

"Just in Time:" Boy meets, loses, gets girl story with two of the most appealing boys and girls in the business: Marisa Tomei and Robert Downey Jr. July.

"Holy Matrimony:" A crooked married couple (Patricia Arquette, Tate Donavan) hide out in a secluded religious community. Leonard Nimoy directs. April.

GONE WEST

THRILLS, CHILLS, EROTICA, ET CETERA

"Pulp Fiction:" Quentin Tarantino is writer and director of this crime anthology about America's big-city subculture. Promised are intersecting stories of small-time criminal life with mondo blood, lust, greed and wit. Just another Tarantino romp with a prize cast including Harvey Keitel, Tim Roth, Bruce Willis, John Travolta, Uma Thurman, Christopher Walken, Samuel L. Jackson, Eric Stoltz, Amanda Plummer. August.

"The Innocent:" A young Englishman in Berlin after the war in danger and in love. A promising political thriller from writer Ian McEwan and director John Schlesinger, with Anthony Hopkins, Campbell Scott, Isabella Rossellini. April.

"Clear and Present Danger:" Harrison Ford reprising his CIA role. From Tom Clancy, with Willem Dafoe, Anne Archer and James Earl Jones. Summer

"Color of Night:" Bruce Willis is a psychiatrist who gets involved in romantic games with one patient and deadly games with another. Never mind that it sounds like a dud. It's directed by Richard Rush, who made "The Stunt Man," a dazzling, dark, delicious comedy. With Scott Bakula, Jane March, Ruben Blades, Lesley Ann Warren. April 8.

Knight Ridder News Service

Fans of alternative music were once forced to slither out of their homes late at night to hear their favorite underground sounds.

The clubs were dark and atmospheric; the people severe and draped in black; the sounds edgy and nonconformist.

But that was when alternative was still alternative. Now it's anything but, as the music has risen to mainstream appeal.

You want proof of its potency?

These alternative acts and their ilk are performing on "The Tonight Show" and "Saturday Night Live," graduating from MTV's "Alternative Nation" to its regular playlist, and receiving Grammy nominations along with more radio-friendly artists such as Whitney Houston and Billy Joel. R.E.M. is a standard Grammy nominee.

Lollapalooza, the annual all-day alternative musicfest, is entering its fourth year this summer and is one of the year's most anticipated tours.

Can this music still be called alternative, which many say doesn't have an exact definition? The Time cover story of Oct. 25, 1993, said the music "rejects the commercial values of mainstream pop."

Some alternative music fans are saying no, it's not still alternative. As a result, alternative bands at the height of their careers are being shunned by loyal fans much the same way black artists Lionel Richie and the Pointer Sisters were shunned by black fans after crossing over to white audiences in the '80s.

Bono of U2, accepting a Grammy earlier this month for Best Alternative Album for "Zooropa," boldly said in his acceptance speech he'd continue to "(expletive) the mainstream."

It sounded like an effort to tighten his alternative ties. Alternative, also known as progressive or modern music, is really an umbrella term that encompasses a variety of sounds including grunge, industrial, punk, modern folk, techno-and-house — most of which are entire scenes unto themselves.

An observer of those scenes, Michael Shea, says alternative music can't really be defined, but a band is more likely to be labeled alternative if it has a "rough, anti-establishment image in some way" in its music or look.

"If you go to those concerts and more than 50 percent of that audience still looks weird, then that band is alternative," says Shea, publisher of Cleveland's Alternative Press magazine.

"There's a lot of controversy over the word 'alternative.' People are wrestling with that label," says Angela VerDuyn, general manager and disc jockey at the Smart Bar in Cleveland, where on Friday and Saturday nights, hundreds of young adults crowd in her club for alternative dance and rock parties hosted by radio station WENZ.

"It's now mainstream. It's not really alternative anymore. Everything that starts up underground ends up being commercial if they're successful. They woo the masses," says VerDuyn.

"That's why Depeche Mode came up with (1987's) 'Music for the Masses.' Are they selling out or are a larger amount of people a part of their statement?"

Today's youth have embraced this music and claimed it as their own.

Rock beat

The music is more than just something to listen to.

"It's definitely a way of life. Some dress the look, buy all the (music) and T-shirts and try to go along with any philosophical view an artist conjures up," says Shea of Alternative Press.

Growing or slowing? There's no question there.

"I don't know if it's ever going to peak," says publisher Shea.

Alternative music is growing even if the grunge scene that grew out of it is on wobbly legs.

Grunge was a label foisted upon acts like Pearl Jam, Nirvana, Soundgarden and other Seattle-area bands (by an overenterprising rock journalist, no doubt). The tag was meant to not only identify the bands — supposedly tortured souls upset by the stardom they finally achieved — but a way of being associated with it, including angst-ridden teens dressed in flannel.

Proving it has outgrown grunge and survived any backlash, Pearl Jam has gone on to sell a whopping 5 million copies of its latest "Vs."

Most other alternative releases are doing well, too.

Blind Melon has sold 2 million with its latest. Smashing Pumpkins, 10,000 Maniacs and Nirvana have hit the 1 million mark; Counting Crows and the Breeders are gold (500,000 copies sold); and new releases from Tori Amos, Soundgarden, Beck, Dig, Enigma and Alice in Chains are expected to follow suit.

Nine Inch Nails (holders of, interestingly enough, a heavy-metal Grammy) just released "The Downward Spiral," and part of member Trent Reznor's deal with Interscope Records was that he get a label of his own. The result is the new Nothing Records out of Cleveland, with groups on the roster including Pop Will Eat Itself, Coil, Marilyn Manson and Prick.

The concert scene is unstoppable. Nirvana, Smashing Pumpkins and Pearl Jam are quick sell-outs. This year's Lollapalooza is expected to be the biggest yet. Rumored artists performing include Nirvana, Smashing Pumpkins, the Beastie Boys, the Breeders, A Tribe Called Quest and George Clinton, among others.

It could best 1992's $19 million gross with Pearl Jam and the Red Hot Chili Peppers. Other alternative acts expected to tour include Soundgarden, Stone Temple Pilots and the Spin Doctors.

"I see it getting bigger," Shea says of the alternative-music scene, though he's reluctant to point out the Next Big Thing.

Los Angeles Times

HOLLYWOOD — Welcome, Oscar, to the rock 'n' roll era.

Forty years after the recording debut of Elvis Presley, a best song Oscar was awarded to a pure rock songwriter — Bruce Springsteen — for the first time. Too bad they didn't have a second Oscar for Neil Young.

It was a magical moment when Springsteen stood in his tuxedo jacket at center stage and sang "Streets of Philadelphia," the touching ballad about a man whose body is being destroyed by AIDS: "I walked the avenue til My legs felt like stone I heard the voices of friends Vanished and gone"

The song not only set the mood in Jonathan Demme's film, "Philadelphia," but the simplicity of its presentation Monday night brought a chilling, topical urgency to the Oscar telecast.

As powerful as it was, Young — whose title song from the same film was also nominated — nearly matched the drama with with an equally heartfelt rendition of his own song. It was most fitting when Springsteen, in accepting his Oscar, said, "Neil, I'm gonna share this with you."

McReynolds, who hit a three-run homer in his first at-bat, was struck by Expos pitcher Tim Leary in the third inning. McReynolds never lost consciousness, although he was carried off the field on a stretcher and taken to a local hospital for observation.

There was no immediate report on McReynolds' condition, although the Mets said they did not believe he was seriously injured.

Hearing set for paraglider who landed at boxing match

LAS VEGAS — A May 12 hearing was set Thursday for James Miller, the self-proclaimed Fan Man who crashed his paraglider into the ropes during last November's heavyweight title fight between Riddick Bowe and Evander Holyfield.

Miller appeared in court for his arraignment on a gross misdemeanor charge that could land him up to a year in the county jail and a $2,000 fine.

India deals with bad draw as tennis tournament starts

NEW DELHI, India — Already an overwhelming underdog against the United States Davis Cup team, India couldn't even get the draw it hoped for in Friday's opening match.

India wanted to begin the best-of-5 World Group first-round series with its No. 1 player, Leander Paes, against Todd Martin, ranked ninth in the world but playing in his first Davis Cup.

Instead, India's Zeeshan Ali, a satellite-circuit player ranked No. 492, will play Jim Courier, ranked fifth.

Ali said he wasn't going to be intimidated. "I'm going to play tennis and not the name," he said. "I'm not overwhelmed by it."

Tigers rip Orangemen in OT

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Unranked at the start of the season and a 52-point loser in their second game, Norm Stewart's Missouri Tigers are now one win away from their first Final Four.

After Missouri blew an 11-point lead in the last five minutes of regulation, Melvin Booker scored seven of his 24 points in overtime as the Tigers beat Syracuse 98-88 Thursday night in the semifinals of the NCAA West Regional.

Booker's long 3-point shot opened the scoring in the overtime and put Missouri ahead for good. It was 92-85 after Kelly Thames barely beat the shot clock with a short jumper, but Adrian Autry's 3-point shot with 56.5 seconds left drew Syracuse within four points.

However, Missouri's Paul O'Liney then scored on two fast-break layups in a 20-second span to clinch the victory.

Autry made a short bank shot with 36.3 seconds left in regulation that tied the score at 79 and forced the overtime. Booker then missed a short jumper under heavy pressure in the final seconds.

Autry scored the final eight Syracuse points in regulation and 26 in the second half after going scoreless in the opening 20 minutes. He finished with 31.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Just when Duke needed help, Grant Hill stepped forward. Again.

The 6-foot-8 senior scored of 16 of his 22 points the second half, handed out six assists and grabbed nine rebounds Thursday night as the Blue Devils beat Marquette 59-49 in the semifinals of the NCAA Southeast Regional.

Second-seeded Duke will play the Kansas-Purdue winner for the regional championship Saturday.

Duke (26-5) trailed 26-25 at intermission after a first half in which Hill missed three of his first four shots. But he came out in the second half and quickly hit a 3-pointer that gave Duke a lead it never relinquished.

The sixth-seeded Warriors (24-9) had a chance to pull within two with two minutes left, but Cherokee Parks blocked Damon Key's shot. Hill took the ball and drove in for a layup that put Duke up 52-46, and Marquette never got any closer.

Purdue 83, Kansas 78

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Purdue didn't win as a one-man team. It was two players.

Glenn Robinson had 44 points and Cuonzo Martin added 29 Thursday night as the top-seeded Boilermakers moved within one game of the Final Four with an 83-78 victory over Kansas.

They will face second-seeded Duke for the Southeast Regional championship on Saturday. The Blue Devils (26-5) beat Marquette 59-49 in the other semifinal.

The Boilermakers (29-4) haven't been this far in the NCAA tournament since their last Final Four appearance in 1980. They advanced because Robinson dominated the first half with 30 points and Martin picked up the slack in the second half when

Tiger thinclads sweep meet

The Times-News

Results – D2

The Tigers boys beat Borah 113-83 while the Tiger girls finished ahead of the Lions 106-82. Twin Falls was third in both divisions with Wood River fourth.

The Tigers ran off due to their usual overpowering depth. In the girls division, Jerome and Borah had six first and Twin Falls five. In the boys, Jerome had 7, Borah 6 and Twin Falls 5.

"It appears we'd better find some field event help," Borah Coach Tim Severa said with a smile to Twin Falls' Duane Stands. Five of the Tiger firsts came in the field events.

The Tigers went 1-2-3 in the pole vault even without usual 15-foot plus Kevin Capps who passed until 14 feet and then didn't make his entry height.

Stands said he was satisfied with the Bruin boys showing, particularly with Pat Lam winning the long jump and Ben Benoit in the quarter. The Bruins, who were used to winning all the field events last year with Andy Lyda, found points hard to get after the 400.

In the girls division, it went about the same way with Jerome taking three firsts in the field events and a hurdle double from Cristy Golay. Alice Bailey won both weights.

Twin Falls picked up most of its points in four events where senior Nancy Emery and sophomore Melissa Ohloff provided most of the fireworks. Emery, defending 400 state champion, turned her specialty in 59.6 and won the 100 in 13.1 and the 200 in 27.2. Ohloff was second in the 400 and 200 and fourth in the 100. The sophomore broke into the winner's circle in the triple jump at 33-10.

In the longer events, Richfield's Becky Ward, running unattached, dropped eyelash wins to Erica Dallas of Borah. Ward appeared to let up in the closing strides of the 800 and Dallas nipped her at the wire. Both were given the same time in the 1600 with Dallas again winning.

Eagles start tournament undefeated

By Mike Maller
Times-News sports editor

TWIN FALLS – Rapping seven hits in the bottom of the seventh inning Thursday night, College of Southern Idaho turned a one-run baseball game with Tacoma Community College into an 11-3 run-rule rout.

Round-robin action in the CSI Classic resumes at 11 a.m. today at Frontier and Bruin Fields. The Golden Eagles carry the only 2-0 mark after the first day of play. Chemeketa, Ore., ranks second at 1-0-1. Treasure Valley is 1-1, Tacoma 0-1-1 and Skagit Valley 0-2.

Chemeketa plays Skagit Valley at Frontier and Tacoma faces Treasure Valley at Bruin at 11 a.m. The 2:30 p.m. games set CSI against TVCC at Frontier and Skagit against Tacoma at Bruin. At 6 p.m., the Eagles play Chemeketa at Frontier.

CSI 11, Tacoma 3

CSI starter Craig Peck held the Titans to six hits and a walk over six innings to raise his record to 3-1. Only one of the three runs he surrendered was earned. Jedd Soto picked up his second save by getting three outs and then watching his teammates hit the ball all over the ballpark.

"I thought Peckster threw a great ballgame," said CSI Coach Jim Walker. "There's a big difference when the pitcher is battling out there. Its a whole different ballgame when you get a good pitching performance."

Doubles by Devin Chavez and Garman staked Peck to a 3-0 lead in the first. Tacoma answered with a solo home run by Jay Moriarity in the third, but gave that run back with four walks in the fourth.

An infield error by CSI in the fifth brought across one run and set up another to score on Darren Norlund's popup double that dropped just inside the right field foul line.

Then Aaron Brown started the bottom of the seventh with a triple to right. The Titan pitcher slipped trying to pick up Erik Highland's roller for another hit. Brad Beck hit a fly to right that the outfielder lost in the lights for a double. After that, the Eagles returned to ripping the ball to pile up the remaining runs.

"It's a real contrast as far as the hits in the two games (comparing with the 11-1 win

Jones paces Kansas State past Fresno State

The Associated Press

NIT

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Askia Jones struck for 62 points in just 28 minutes — the high game in the country this season — and tied an NCAA record with 14 3-pointers to send Kansas State to a 115-77 romp over Fresno State Thursday night in the quarterfinals of the NIT.

The Wildcats (20-12) advance to New York to face Vanderbilt in the semifinals.

Jones broke the NCAA season high of 54 points set by Eddie Benton of Vermont against Drexel on Jan. 29.

For the game, he was 14-for-18 on 3-pointers. He went 18-for-25 from the floor and 12-for-16 from the line.

Jones' 14 3-pointers tied the NCAA Division I record set by Dave Jamerson of Ohio in 1989. The senior from San Antonio scored 45 points in the second half. Of the seven 3-pointers he made in less than five minutes, six were consecutive.

He also broke a slew of Big Eight records, including the 61 points scored by Oklahoma's Wayman Tisdale in 1983. Kansas State tied an NCAA record for 3-pointers in a game, making 23 of 36. Lamar got the record last year against Louisiana Tech.

Kansas State led 45-26 at the half, but after Jones got hot the Wildcats led 78-48 with 12:35 to play.

Jones, who had been pulled by coach Dana Altman, re-entered the game with about nine minutes left and hit a foul shot and three more 3-pointers before being pulled again.

With 2:20 left, Altman put him back in and the Fresno State assistant coaches raised their hands and looked to Altman, as if to ask "Why?" Jones had already scored 57 points.

Altman looked back at them and said, "He's going after a record."

Siena 75, Bradley 62

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Two weeks ago, Siena thought its basketball season was probably over.

But thanks to Doremus Bennerman, the Saints are making their first trip to National Invitation Tournament's Final Four.

Bennerman scored 34 points — the third straight game in which he has broken 30 — to lead Siena to a 75-62 victory Thursday over Bradley in the quarterfinals of the NIT.

Bradley (23-8), which had all its losses come on the road, shot just 39.7 percent, including 4 of 19 from 3-point range.

After losing in the semifinals of Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference tournament earlier this month, the Saints supposedly had only an outside chance to make the NIT.

Dodgers' bats hot, defense cold

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Raul Mondesi hit a grand slam and an RBI double, leading the rampaging Los Angeles Dodgers to a 14-9 victory Thursday over the Florida Marlins.

Combined with Wednesday's 18-10 victory over the New York Yankees, the Dodgers have scored 32 runs on 38 hits in two games — enough to win twice despite allowing 19 runs.

Mondesi's homer — his fourth off David Weathers — was the big hit in a five-run first inning.

Orioles 1, Blue Jays 0

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Mark Williamson pitched scoreless relief after replacing the injured Arthur Rhodes, and Tim Hulett had an RBI single.

Rhodes left in the second inning after being hit in the right thigh by a liner off the bat of Ed Sprague. The injury was not believed to be serious. Williamson allowed three hits while striking out two in 3 1-3 innings.

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. (AP) — Kelly Stinnett's grand slam highlighted a six-run third inning during which New York's Kevin McReynolds was beaned but apparently not seriously injured.

Mc Reynolds was hit behind the left ear by Montreal's Tim Leary in what Mets manager Dallas Green said was retaliation for a three-run homer in the first. Leary denied intent. Jeff McKnight and Tim Bogar homered for the Mets.

New York Yankees' Pat Kelly attempts a bunt against the Atlanta Braves during a spring training game Thursday in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. The Braves won, 8-7.

Rookie Midre Cummings' three-run homer sparked a five-run eighth inning, and Pittsburgh rallied to tie Detroit.

Junior Felix hit two of Detroit's five home runs and drove in six runs.

After Cummings' homer made it 10-8 against Strom Davis, Frank Bolick hit an RBI triple and scored the tying run on Orlando Merced's single.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Ramon Caraballo's two-out, run-scoring single off Steve Howe in the 10th inning gave Atlanta the victory.

Matt Nokes hit two home runs for the Yankees. He connected in the eighth, then added a two-out, three-run shot in a four-run ninth against Mike Birkbeck. New York's Luis Polonia went 3-for-4 with two a two-run double before Lenny Dykstra's RBI hit.

Giants 8, Angels 5

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Jeff Reed's home run ignited a three-run ninth inning that enabled San Francisco to hand California its eighth consecutive loss. The Giants' Darren Lewis had three hits, and Matt Williams raised his average to .386 with a 2-for-3 day that included a solo homer. The Angels' spring record fell to 3-17, the worst in the majors.

Athletics 9, Mariners 1

PEORIA, Ariz. (AP) — Bob Welch pitched five shutout innings and Mark McGwire delivered an RBI single in his first spring game as Oakland won its seventh in a row.

The 37-year-old Welch lowered his ERA to 0.85 in five spring starts in his bid to come back from his 9-11 season in 1983. In five innings, he gave up five hits, walked one and struck out two.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Keith Lockhart and Harold Reynolds each hit two-run doubles in the second inning to lead San Diego. Lockhart and Reynolds, both non-roster invitees, are battling for a backup infielder spot on the Padres roster. Lockhart is batting .333 and Reynolds has hit just .209 in 15 games this spring.

Brewers 19, Cubs 8

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Kevin Seitzer, Greg Vaughn and John Jaha homered in a 23-hit Milwaukee attack and the Brewers scored seven runs in the fourth inning and five in the ninth to rout Chicago.

Royals 6, Reds 3

Rijo struck out seven in seven innings, but lost because of a lapse opening the sixth. Protecting a 2-1 lead, he walked Mike Macfarlane then gave up homers to Gaetti and Henderson.

Phillies 6, Red Sox 5

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Kevin Stocker drove in three runs, and Tommy Greene was strong over seven innings.

Trailing 4-2, the Phillies rallied for four runs in the sixth. Darren Daulton, who had three hits, and Pete Incaviglia singled. Tony Longmire had an RBI double and Stocker added

Sonics survive rally to beat Suns, 116-106

SEATTLE (AP) — Detlef Schrempf scored five of his season-high 27 points in the final 2½ minutes Thursday night as the Seattle SuperSonics survived a late Phoenix rally in a 116-106 victory.

Schrempf made 13 of 16 shots from the field, including nine straight at one point. His dunk with 2:16 left gave the Sonics a 107-99 lead, and he followed that with a baseline jumper with 1:41 left for a 109-100 advantage.

The Suns had erased most of a 27-point third-quarter deficit in a battle of the top two teams in the Pacific Division. The Sonics shot 71 percent from the field in building a 23-point halftime edge.

The Sonics converted 24 turnovers by the Suns into 30 points and beat Phoenix for the second time in three meetings. Two games remain between the teams.

The Suns limited the Sonics to 38 points in the second half and cut into a 84-57 deficit. Joe Kleine led the comeback as Phoenix outscored the Suns 21-7 to close to 103-93 with 6:04 remaining. Kleine had eight points during the run.

Nuggets 113, Heat 101

DENVER (AP) — Dikembe Mutombo had 20 points, 16 rebounds and eight of Denver's 11 blocked shots to pace the Nuggets to a 113-101 victory over the Miami Heat on Thursday night.

The victory was Denver's first over Miami since December 29, 1989. The Nuggets have won five of their last six games and nine of their last 10 at home.

Denver never trailed and led by as many as 24 points, the last time at 99-75 with 8:39 left to play. Mahmoud Abdul-Rauf scored 25 points and Reggie Williams and Brian Williams each added 13 for the Nuggets.

Rockets 113, Lakers 107

HOUSTON (AP) — Hakeem Olajuwon scored 15 of his 37 points in the fourth quarter, leading Houston to a 113-107 victory over Los Angeles on Thursday night in the Lakers' final game before Magic Johnson becomes their coach.

Assistant coach Bill Bertka ended a two-game stretch as interim coach since Randy Pfund was relieved of his duties. Johnson will take over Sunday when the Lakers play Milwaukee at Inglewood, Calif.

Olajuwon had 12 points at the half and 10 more in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter he took charge of the game, scoring seven straight points that boosted Houston to a 98-88 lead with 3:26 to play.

New York 123, Minnesota 106

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Hubert Davis scored a career-high 32 points as the New York Knicks clinched a playoff berth and extended their winning streak to 11 games with a 123-106 victory Thursday over the Minnesota Timberwolves.

Anthony Bonner matched his season-high with 17 points, Derek Harper scored 19 and Patrick Ewing 17. The Knicks shot 62 percent from the field and matched their highest point total of the season.

New York, who also won its fifth straight on the road, joined Atlanta as the only Eastern Conference teams to qualify for the playoffs. Both teams are 47-19. The 11-game win streak is New York's best in 21 seasons and the second longest in the team's 48-year history.

Celtics 123, Bullets 117 (OT)

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Dee Brown scored a career-high 38 points and Dino Radja added 20 Thursday night as the Boston Celtics snapped a six-game losing streak with a 123-117 overtime victory over the Washington Bullets.

Radja scored 11 points in the fourth period as the Celtics erased a deficit that was as high as 13 in the third quarter. But Washington's Tom Gugliotti hit a 3-pointer from the left corner tie the game 107-107 with 5.1 seconds left to force overtime.

Boston's Kevin Gamble, who had 15 points, got five in overtime as the Celtics won for only the third time in 22 games.

Martin made both ends of a 1-and-1 with 23 seconds left for a four-point lead and after Pearson missed a 3-pointer, Porter Roberts scored his first points of the game on two free throws for an 82-76 lead.

It was Robinson's ninth straight game over 30 points and his 18th of the season. For Martin, it was his season-high and three points off his career-best, set last season against Indiana.

Arizona 82, Louisville 70

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Arizona heard the critics who trashed West Coast basketball as second-rate. The Wildcats just didn't pay attention.

Arizona revived its slumping 3-point shooting behind Khalid Reeves' 29 points and five long-range baskets, defeating Louisville 82-70 Thursday night in an NCAA West Regional semifinal.

Arizona (28-5), the only team based in the West still in the tournament, is a game away from its first Final Four since 1988. The Wildcats lost to Oklahoma in the semifinals in their only Final Four appearance in school history.

There was much bashing of the West Coast's talent after big guns UCLA and California and six other western teams were ousted in the first round.

The Wildcats had contributed to the West's lowly reputation by underachieving the last two years, losing first-round games as a No. 2 seed last year and a No. 3 seed in 1992.

But they have rebounded this year with tournament victories over Loyola of Maryland, Virginia and Louisville.

All five starting Wildcats scored in double figures against the Cardinals. Reggie Geary had 12 points, while Damon Stoudamire, Ray Owes and Joseph Blair each had 11.

Defensively, Brian Keswick at third base was in the spotlight for CSI, making diving stops and chasing slow rollers to throw out six Titan batters in seven innings.

"That was a good game," Walker said. "I like that club. It's really nice to play a well-coached club."

CSI 11, Skagit Valley 1

Keswick belted a three-run homer to right to combine with a slew of errors by Skagit Valley that ended the run-rule victory in five innings.

Keswick's homer over the Cactus Petes sign and a single by Darrin Schorr were the only hits in the Eagles' five-run third. The Cardinal right fielder misplayed a Tyrone Brown line drive into a two-run triple in CSI's four-run fifth.

After Skagit touched starter Anthony Domino for four-straight singles in the bottom of the fourth, Art Dillihay took the mound in relief, got a pitcher-catcher-first base double play to end the rally and struck out the side in the fifth.

Chemeketa 5, TVCC 2

Four Treasure Valley errors in the fifth and sixth innings let the Chiefs push across all five of their runs.

After two errors in the fifth, Larry Turner singled home one run and Abino Vazquez two. The Chukars put two on in the sixth with errors. Those runs scored on a fielder's choice by Ben Bertrand and a hit by Jeff Stace.

Both Treasure Valley runs were also unearned.

TVCC 14, Skagit Valley 6

Troy Bidwall homered in the fifth and sixth innings to go with a double his first at-bat to spark the Chukars into scoring 11 times in the last three innings to win on the run rule.

Tacoma 9, Chemeketa 9

Chemeketa scored three times with two outs in the top of the ninth to gain the tie.

A two-out error, followed by a triple from Shane Britton, a double by Brian Manthe and a single from Stace brought home three runs for the Chiefs.

Colts kick quarterback to Atlanta

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Four days of NFL meetings ended Wednesday with a flurry of deals, one of which sent disgruntled quarterback Jeff George to Atlanta, another that certified Anthony Miller's status as a Denver Bronco.

As owners, coaches and club officials headed home, they took care of a bit of business — an adjustment of the team salary cap from $33.8 million to $34.2 million after an audit by accountants of team revenues.

"Maybe you just have to leave home to become the player and person you want to be," said George, who was only 14-35 as a starter with the Colts after being the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft in 1990.

The pick was made after Atlanta dealt George's rights to Indianapolis for Chris Hinton, Andre Rison and a No. 1 pick that became Mike Pritchard.

This time the Colts got Atlanta's No. 1 pick in next month's draft, giving them the second and seventh overall, and a third-rounder. Also, the Colts got a 1996 second-rounder that could become a No. 1 if George plays 75 percent of the plays in nine Falcons' victories in 1995.

"It was a deal that had to be made," said Bill Tobin, the Colts' new vice-president for pro personnel.

It's a new beginning for George, who alienated both fans and his teammates in Indianapolis with a still-unexplained 36-day holdout last summer. He also alienated teammates by publicly chewing them out after team mistakes.

He brings to Atlanta the last two years of a six-year, $15-million deal he signed when he was drafted and he joins a run-and-shoot offense run by June Jones, a quarterback guru and the team's new coach.

But skills have never been a problem for George, who last year completed 234 of 407 passes for 2,526 yards with eight touchdowns and six interceptions for a 4-12 team.

What has been a problem is winning and a tendency to move in the face of adversity — he transferred from Purdue to Illinois in college, has complained about his lack of protection and last year stayed out of camp for reasons he still left unexplained on Thursday.

The only other activity Thursday was what has become the annual "State of the Al" meeting — a session with Al Davis, owner of the Los Angeles Raiders.

Davis' main concern was the state of the Los Angeles Coliseum, damaged in the January earthquake. He hopes his team can play in a renovated Coliseum or in Dodger Stadium. But he said he has received overtures to play in Oakland, the Raiders' home until 1982.

The week of meetings was highlighted by the approval of the two-point conversion rule and the approval of Wayne Huizenga as the new owner of the Miami Dolphins. There was also early work on realignment and another spat between Jerry Jones, owner of the Dallas Cowboys and his coach, Jimmy Johnson.

"The biggest thing was that we could take action that looks to the future," commissioner Paul Tagliabue said.

Huizenga, who also owns baseball's Florida Marlins and hockey's Florida Panthers, was approved despite a rule against cross-ownership in other sports. His ownership was placed in trust for two years while the owners consider a change in that rule.

The two-point conversion was part of a rules package designed to get more touchdowns into the game. It also included moving kickoffs back to the 30-yard-line from the 35 and using a 1-inch tee for kickoffs rather than a 2- or 3-incher.

Realignment is designed to absorb Carolina and Jacksonville, the two expansion cities in 1995. Many owners believe there will be no agreement and Tagliabue will insert the teams in the two four-team divisions, the NFC West and AFC Central.

Knight-Ridder News Service

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. — After a couple of practice rounds early in the week, Greg Norman insisted that the Tournament Players Club course at Sawgrass wasn't going to play as ridiculously easy as some doomsayers were predicting.

But Norman destroyed his own argument — not to mention the course — on a perfect Thursday morning as he fired a nine-under-par 63 to tie the course record and stake himself to a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $2.5 million Players Championship.

Norman's masterful round of nine birdies and no bogeys tied the record set by Fred Couples in 1992. Norman missed only one fairway and one green and saved par once from a sand trap.

"This seemed very under control," Norman said of his round, which included a 30 (tying another course record) on the back nine. "I never forced a tee shot, never forced an iron. I had the ball going where I wanted it."

'It needs to be set up harder.'

— Tom Kite

Two strokes back were Colin Montgomerie, Jeff Maggert, Lee Janzen and Tom Kite, the chief doomsayer this week.

It was Kite who predicted Wednesday that the lush TPC course was playing far too easy and that some low scores were going to be shot.

He looked like a prophet after Thursday's morning rounds were finished.

"If this is a tournament that wants to call itself the fifth major, it needs to play like one," Kite said. "It needs to be set up harder."

(Kite may want to ask Calvin Peete whether he thinks the course is playing too easy: Peete shot an 85 Thursday, the worst score of the day.)

Norman wasn't foolish enough to call the course too difficult, especially after tying the course record. But as far as hitting the ball is concerned, he would like to see some roll on his drives — something that simply isn't going to happen as long as the fairways are this lush.

"There's zero controversy as far as the players are concerned," said Norman, 39, who lives in Hobe Sound. "It's just a little softer than we like. I know the greens will get firmer as the week goes on. I just hope the same thing happens to the fairways."

But he finished with four pars to call off the assault on the tour record book.

Janzen might have been the new course record-holder if it hadn't been for three lip-outs and a gag on a two-foot birdie try on No. 16.

Senior golfer disputes fund allegations

KINGWOOD, Texas (AP) — This year's Senior PGA Tour Doug Sanders Classic, which begins today, will be the last to carry the name of the pro golfer famous for his flamboyant style and rainbow wardrobe.

But it's not the way Sanders wanted to step down.

He's going out under a cloud because of alleged misuse of tournament charity funds, allegations he denies. He's also suffering from dystonia, a nerve disorder that causes involuntary movements and has affected his play.

"I'm hurt," Sanders says. "When you've done the things I've done for the city. When I think of all the dollars raised for charity. We've done a lot of good here.

"People can say what they want, but I can look myself in the mirror. I can face myself. I don't have to wonder about me."

Sanders has resigned from the charity board that oversees the distributions of money raised through the tournament. He'll also withdraw as the tournament host after this year's event.

Sanders reportedly received a salary of $220,000 the past three years to operate the tournament but he says that figure is misleading.

"I've been doing this for 16 years," Sanders says. "I've averaged $34,650 a year for those 16 years. I've paid my own travel expenses and done so many corporate outings I've lost count. The board said I should be receiving a salary, not me. I didn't vote on it."

PGA officials said the problems came to light more than a year ago during a routine and continuing process of checking on the charity involvement of all of the PGA Tour events.

Knight's players back coach

MIAMI (AP) — Bob Knight figures he can't be all that menacing. After all, he's not armed.

Standing at a news conference because of his ailing back, the Indiana coach was asked if he is feared by his players. "I wouldn't know why. I never carry a gun with me," said Knight, whose Hoosiers face Boston College on Friday night in the NCAA East Regional semifinals.

"I mean what am I going to do? If I had ever shot a kid I'd be scared to play for me. ... I mean, who am I? Take a good look at me. I'm 53 years old. Who am I going to scare? I'm out of shape and have a bad back," he added, pausing. "But I have thought of taking a gun with me before. Not necessarily to practice, however."

'I don't think any of us fear coach Knight.'

— Alan Henderson

A couple of highly publicized incidents with players this season have called Knight's conduct in question again. He appeared to kick his son, Pat, during one game. In another game, he banged foreheads with freshman Sherron Wilkerson.

Indiana has won three national championships and 11 Big Ten titles under Knight, and players who remain in his program take the fiery coach for who he is.

"I don't think any of us fear coach Knight," said Alan Henderson. "We just know that he's trying to push us to become the best players we can be. Sometimes things get blown out of proportion — like the head butt, which was an accident. We all know what coach is trying to do, and I think that's the important thing. As long as we know that he's trying to help us out, there's no problem."

Knight made light of the head butt Thursday, as well as the NCAA's television contract with CBS. He asked a tournament official to find him something to drink and was given a cup of water. "With the NCAA I knew it would be water — something that didn't cost anything," he said.

But when asked if worries his bullying image might cloud his accomplishments, Knight turned serious.

"Cloud my accomplishments to who? My wife?" he said. "She doesn't worry about it. My players don't worry about it. What is my image? My image is pretty damn good with most people that are around what we do. I just raised a million dollars for the Indiana library. Have any of you raised a hundred for anything lately?

"I ran into a guy the other day and he said, 'I love the way you coach and the way your team plays, but you're abrasive and you're tough. I look at that, and I couldn't handle that.' My answer was, 'You've never been asked to.'

"When I recruit a kid. I say 'I'm going to be the most demanding person you ever met in your life. I'm going to demand more out of you than your parents, more than any teacher you've ever had. I'm going to demand you go to class. I'm going to demand, I'm going to demand, I'm going to demand.' Now if I told them it was going to be strawberries, peaches and cream, and now we've got a lot of demands, then get on me about that."

Lopez slows down, but stays in LPGA running

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, her game sharp despite a reduced schedule, shot a 4-under-par 68 Thursday to share the first-round lead in the Dinah Shore tournament, the LPGA's first major of the year.

Lopez, who won the event in 1981 before it was made a major, was tied with Alice Miller and Lisa Walters.

Lopez, playing in her third event of the year, started on No. 10 and was 5-under by the turn. She cooled off on her final nine holes, with one bogey and no birdies for a 1-over-par 37.

The tournament is one of only 15 or so she will play in this year, Lopez said. She has cut back her playing to have more time with her family. She is married to former major leaguer Ray Knight and they have two daughters and a son.

"When I was first out on tour, I practiced all the time," Lopez, 37, said. "Golf was my life. Then I had babies and had less time. Now, unless I think I have a chance to play well, I don't play."

Lopez competed in 19 tournaments last year, won once and earned a total of $304,480. She averaged 70.3 shots per round, the third best of a career that includes 47 wins.

Her first time out in 1994, Lopez led the Tournament of Champions the first three days and finished in a second-place tie, two shots behind Dottie Mochrie. Last weekend, Lopez finished back in the field at Phoenix, 10 shots behind winner Laura Davies.

Miller, who won the Dinah Shore in 1985, was pleased with her opening round at Mission Hills, but said she wasn't terribly consistent.

"I didn't hit a lot of greens, my short game really saved me, and mentally I was hanging in there," she said. "I capitalized on the few good shots I did hit."

CHIBA, Japan (AP) — Canadian Elvis Stojko, a skating kung fu master with a quadruple jump, won nearly perfect marks for his free program tonight and captured the men's world figure skating championship.

Stojko won a standing ovation for the spectacular jumping and fancy footwork that brought him his first major title after seconds in the Olympics and the 1993 World Championships.

Stojko received eight 5.9s and a perfect 6.0 from the judges for his technique as he beat a field that included the two other Olympic medalists. His artistic marks ranged from 5.7 to 5.9.

Men's Olympic gold medalist Alexei Urmanov of Russia fell trying a quadruple toe loop and had a couple of other stumbles, finishing fourth.

Philippe Candeloro of France, the bronze medalist, skated as an insolent "Godfather" and placed second after landing a triple axel-triple toe loop combination and five more triple spins.

Shaq gets go-ahead for Dream Team USA

NEW YORK (AP) — The already powerful Dream Team II got a huge boost Thursday when Shaquille O'Neal was cleared to join the squad.

A deal between the Pepsi-Cola Company and USA Basketball was reached that will enable O'Neal, the NBA's leading scorer, to play for Team USA at the World Championships Aug. 4-14 at Toronto.

USA Basketball next week is expected to announce O'Neal as the 11th player on the 12-man team.

If approved, the Orlando Magic star, who is averaging 29.2 points per game, would join a team that includes Alonzo Mourning and Larry Johnson of Charlotte, Joe Dumars and Isiah Thomas of Detroit, Shawn Kemp of Seattle, Derrick Coleman of New Jersey, Dominique Wilkins of the Los Angeles Clippers, Mark Price of Cleveland, Steve Smith of Miami and Dan Majerle of Phoenix.

Pepsi said that "for the good of the game" it was "standing aside, this one time, on certain contractual rights so O'Neal can be named to Dream Team. II."

"In the current world of sports, unfortunately, it's hard to avoid commercial conflicts," Russ Granik, the NBA's deputy commissioner and chief operating officer, said. "USA Basketball did the best it could. Hopefully, in 1996 (when the U.S. Olympic team is selected), things will be smoother."

O'Neal dropped from the original team in October because he has an exclusive marketing agreement with Pepsi, and one of the U.S. team's prime sponsors is McDonald's, a restaurant chain that sells Coca-Cola. O'Neal refused to sign a contract that would have allowed USA Basketball to market him in conflict with his Pepsi contract.

"He deserves to be on the team," Granik said. "And we're delighted he's on the team.

"We're pleased that Pepsi let Shaq be part of the program. We would hate to see a player not be able to play because of commercial reasons."

The U.S. team will be the second manned by NBA players. The first, which included Michael Jordan, Magic Johnson, Larry Bird and Charles Barkley, won the 1992 Olympic gold medal.

"Pepsi in this accord is looking for some advance planning and forward thinking by USA Basketball to avoid this kind of conflict in the future," said Rick Rock, vice president of Media and Entertainment Marketing in a statement the company released from Somers, N.Y.

Tulsa talks tough about Arkansas

DALLAS (AP) — Here they are, Tulsa and Maryland, the two lowest-seeded teams still standing in the NCAA tournament, underdogs intent on ruining some big plans.

President Clinton may stop by Reunion Arena on Sunday — he'll be in town for his brother's wedding — to watch his top-seeded Arkansas Razorbacks play in the Midwest Regional final.

Michigan, the No. 3 seed, has set out since the start of the year to make a third straight trip to the Final Four. No. 12 seed Tulsa and No. 10 Maryland stand in their way.

"I don't think we should be considered an underdog at this point in time because we have played extremely well against UCLA and Oklahoma State," Tulsa coach Tubby Smith said Thursday.

"Of course if you look at the roster and the talent Arkansas has, they've got some outstanding players, some All-American players. But still, in a tournament of this nature, when it's one game and you're out, anything can happen and that's what's happened to us."

The Golden Hurricane (23-7) upset No. 5 seed UCLA in the first round and came back two days later to knock off No. 4 seed Oklahoma State. On Friday, Tulsa plays the Razorbacks (27-3) for the second time this season.

In the first meeting, in December at Tulsa, the Razorbacks needed overtime to win 93-91. Tulsa played that night without its second-leading scorer, Shea Seals, but Arkansas also was shorthanded, playing without freshmen centers Darnell Robinson and Lee Wilson.

Smith said the overtime loss served his team well because it showed the Hurricane it could hold its own against the country's best teams. That attitude carried over into the first weekend of the NCAA tournament, and he and his players expect nothing to change now.

"We really have our own expectations, and that is we're going in expecting to win tomorrow night," Smith said.

And what of the president?

Arkansas had a bit of a scare in the first round. The Razorbacks didn't break away from No. 16 seed North Carolina A&T until the final eight minutes.

"You're playing athletes against athletes," Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson said. "The name of the school has nothing to do with it anymore. Being ranked No. 1 doesn't mean anything anymore."

Maryland (18-11) would like to change the makeup of the Final Four by knocking out Michigan (23-7), which has reached the NCAA championship game each of the past two years.

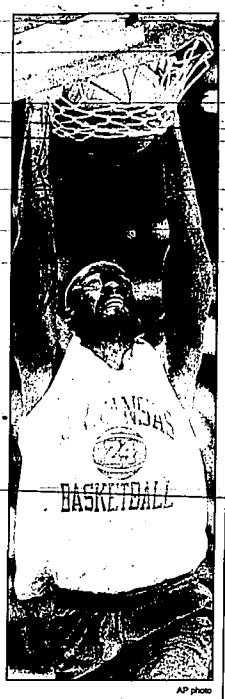

Maryland starts two freshmen and three sophomores, but the Terrapins have played like veterans, beating Saint Louis and No. 2 seed Massachusetts to get this far.

"I'm very pleased with the way we played last week, but as a coach it's how we can play. I don't think we played above our heads," coach Gary Williams said.

The Terrapins go against the most tournament-tested team in the field. The Wolverines have four juniors in the starting lineup who are about to play in their 15th NCAA tournament game. "We have gotten used to being here," coach Steve Fisher said. "We've made the Sweet 16 three years in a row and we're very proud of that fact.

"We know we've got a quality opponent in Maryland. I know we will be prepared physically and mentally. We have a nice team that's been here before, and I do think that will be an asset for us."

Perhaps, but Maryland plans on making the Wolverines earn whatever they get. Williams ascribes to Richardson's theory that seedings and reputations don't mean a thing.

Forward Ray Biggers and the rest of the Arkansas team meets Tulsa tonight in the NCAA Midwest Regional.

Williams' players accept that notion, too. "People think because we watched them when we were in high school that we're in awe of them," said Duane Simpkins, sophomore point guard. "By no means are we in awe of them. We're here to win it just like they are."

Felder should pace Lady Eagles

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Southern Mississippi isn't going to throw any surprises at No. 3 Connecticut, coach Kay James said.

If the No. 22 Lady Eagles (26-4) are going to beat the top-seeded Huskies (29-2) in the East Regional semifinal tonight, they are going to do it with quickness and the play of three-time Metro Conference player of the year, Janice Felder.

"We have to do what we have done all year," James said. "We have to use our quickness and make it a full-court game by running our transition and pressing."

And if that happens, Connecticut's school-record 20-game winning streak might be in jeopardy.

"Obviously we know what their strengths are," Connecticut coach Geno Auriemma said Wednesday.

"One of the things you want to do is play to your strength," he said. "Hopefully, we can be more things than they can be. Maybe they can be only one or two things. Hopefully, we can be three or four."

Whoever does a better job will advance to the regional final Saturday and play the winner of the game between No. 12 Vanderbilt (25-7) and No. 4 North Carolina (22).

Stopping Felder would go a long way in getting Connecticut to the round of eight. The 6-foot forward is Southern Mississippi's all-time leading scorer among both men and women (2,262 points) and ranks in the top 10 in 10 other categories.

"I think she's a very physical player," Connecticut forward Jamelle Elliott said. "I don't know if that's a compliment or not. She gets up and down the court pretty well and she's aggressive."

Elliott said either she or center Rebecca Lobo will guard Felder, noting that either will be able to do the job.

James isn't so sure. When asked if she had seen anyone as good as Lobo (19.3 points and 11.2 rebounds) in the post, she pointed at Felder.

"She is a great, great athlete," James said. "She's going to go big time after this. We've already retired her number."

A soft-spoken Felder smiled when asked if she felt the fourth-seeded Lady Eagles were an underdog.

"I guess that everybody sees us as the underdog," she said. "We don't think we're the underdog. You come into the tournament and if you play with your hearts anything can happen on any given night."

And that concerns Auriemma, who is looking to bring UConn to its second Final Four in four years.

"When we're good, we're as good as anyone in the country. Hopefully, we can prove that in the next two days. And when we're not, we can get bounced out of here and I wouldn't be surprised. I've said all along we have lot of young kids. If everything goes the wrong way, forget it."

Connecticut advanced to the third round with an 81-59 win over Auburn, a team Southern Mississippi beat 74-71 on Feb. 7.

Second-seeded Vanderbilt won't see a full strength North Carolina in the other semifinal. The third-seeded Tar Heels will play without junior forward Charlotte Smith, who is sitting out a one-game NCAA suspension.

Morris looks to be solid for Indians

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Anyone who saw the 1991 World Series should know that Jack Morris won't quit until his job is finished. In fact, he won't even consider it.

"I think we're in a profession where you never want to even admit or think about it being over. If you do, then it's over," said Morris, having a superb spring for the Cleveland Indians as he battles back from last year's injuries in Toronto.

He may not have the same arm, but it seems he still has the competitive drive that pushed him to five straight postseason victories for Minnesota in '91 — two in the American League playoffs, three in the World Series, including a memorable 10-inning shutout of Atlanta in Game 7.

Yet he's now attempting to come back from his worst season, a season so filled with injuries and doubts that the Blue Jays paid him $1 million to buy out the last year of his contract. Had they kept him, they would have owed Morris $5.15 million this year.

Clearly, that's too much for a 38-year-old pitcher who went 7-12 with a 6.19 ERA in 1993, even if he does have more career wins (244) than any other active pitcher. He was sidelined twice last year, first with tendinitis in his right shoulder and later with a strained ligament in his right elbow.

He did not pitch after Sept. 9, becoming merely a spectator as Toronto marched to another World Series.

Mexico slaying shakes investors

Journal of Commerce

MEXICO CITY — The assassination of Mexico's leading presidential candidate threw the nation into collective shock Thursday, sent black market currency-exchange rates soaring and may cause at least a short-term drop in foreign investment.

In the United States, Wall Street stocks plummeted in early trading Thursday and a North American Free Trade Agreement transportation conference scheduled for Friday was canceled.

The political uncertainty has also shaken Canadian business confidence in Mexico, and some experts there said some investment projects will be put on hold.

"U.S. investors believed that it was easy to make money in Mexico and didn't think enough about the political risks," said Anthony O'Bryan, market strategist at A.G. Edwards & Sons.

Unaccustomed to violence and still reeling psychologically from a New Year's Day guerrilla revolt in the south, Mexicans awoke Thursday to horrifying front page photos of the blood-caked body of Luis Donaldo Colosio Murrieta, the man most expected to be Mexico's next president.

The candidate of Mexico's ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, Colosio had been viewed by the business community as a strong advocate of free-market reform policies. He had been expected to win the race handily.

In Washington, President Clinton expressed "a great sense of loss" and set the tone for all official U.S. comment in declaring, "We think the country's institutions are fundamentally strong." His statement was interpreted by some financial traders as a signal that the United States would intervene in currency markets to support the Mexican peso, but there was no official statement about it and no indication it was occurring.

The assassination in the border city of Tijuana marked another downturn in what has been a turbulent year here. Since January, there has been an indigenous armed revolt in the southernmost state of Chiapas, a devaluation of the peso, by most measures a recession, and intense political squabbling over the choice of Colosio as the likely successor to President Carlos Salinas de Gortari.

Whether scheduled August presidential elections will take place was unclear Thursday, but major opposition parties suspended their campaigns indefinitely. Banks and the stock market were ordered closed Thursday for a day of national mourning, and the assassination was blamed in part for a drop Thursday morning on Wall Street.

"We're not accustomed to this. It's never happened before, we're not used to these events. That's the reason we have (this) shock," a stunned Manuel Robleda, chairman of the Bolsa, told the Journal of Commerce Wednesday night.

By closing the banks and the Bolsa on Thursday, the Salinas government probably prevented a huge plunge in the stock market, which is still expected to plunge at Friday's opening.

In overseas markets, leading Mexican issues were down as much as 10 percent, based on trading in American Depositary Receipts that normally reflect the value of the stocks.

"Here on the border, we heard that the (unofficial) exchange rate had hit four pesos to the dollar," said Gerald Schwebel, senior vice president of the International Bank of Commerce.

Dow drops 48 on bond drop, Mexico news

Knight-Ridder News Service

NEW YORK — The Dow industrials tumbled 48 points Thursday to close at 3821, driven principally by renewed weakness in the U.S. bond market, but also by anxieties about foreign stock markets, particularly those in Mexico and Great Britain, and about the worsening Korean situation.

The Dow fell as much as 65 points by early afternoon, recovering only feebly into the close, as indigestion in the U.S. bond market over Wednesday's auction of $11 billion in 5-year Treasury notes sent bond prices a full point lower by midday.

The bond losses undermined equities as long yields once again approached within a hairbreadth of the psychologically important 7.00 percent barrier. Rising yields threaten the economic recovery, and also endanger stock-market liquidity if public cash inflows from low-interest-bearing accounts stop flooding into stock mutual funds.

The assassination of Mexico's leading presidential candidate on Wednesday not only closed the Mexican stock market, but threatened to create new political instability on U.S. borders, not to mention new losses for U.S. investors who have embraced the Mexican bourse.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

BOBBY WOLFF

"It is more fitting for a man to laugh at life than to lament over it."
— Seneca.

About once in a lifetime an opponent will insist on playing game in a major suit in which your opening bid has promised five or more cards. When your turn comes, be prepared. Your opponent may not be as crazy as you might wish. Take the test in the East chair, looking at only the bidding and the North and East cards.

Declarer wins dummy's diamond ace and leads a low heart to his nine as West discards. South continues with the heart king to your ace, and you have reached crunch time. Choose your next play before reading further.

If you exit "safely" with a trump, you make things safe for declarer. He wins, draws trumps and leads the spade king. It doesn't matter whether you grab the first round of spades or wait to win the second one. He makes an overtrick and you're glad you didn't double.

The best approach is to try to isolate dummy's spades by knocking out dummy's club ace. But if you play a low club, hoping for partner to have the queen, it won't work. South wins, draws trumps and leads spades. No matter how you defend now, you must give the lead to dummy for the same 11 tricks.

By now, it's obvious that the best return is the club king. It knocks out dummy's entry (if West has the queen, you've lost nothing) and South can no longer avoid the loss of four tricks.

'Seinfeld' copy debuts on ABC

By James Endrst
The Hartford Courant

Often, for the sake of brevity and honesty, I have to say, "No."

Not today.

In fact, ABC's new sitcom "These Friends of Mine," a show you might call "Seinfeld in a skirt," is really something to look forward to.

The half-hour, which stars stand-up comic and Veryfine fruit juice promoter Ellen DeGeneres, will preview March 29 before moving to its regular time slot Wednesday nights beginning March 30.

With great potential.

Yes, there's no denying that "These Friends of Mine" (from the people who brought you "The Wonder Years") is an obvious attempt to capitalize on the success of NBC's "Seinfeld."

The setting this time, however, is urban and Left Coast, where Ellen Morgan (DeGeneres) works in a popular bookstore/cafe — a place where all sorts of characters come and go. In her off hours, Ellen tries to maneuver and master the mundane challenges of life with the help of her thirtysomething pals Adam (Arye Gross), her best friend and roommate, and old high-school buddy Holly (Holly Fulger).

Of course, it doesn't matter because the resulting photograph is a neither/nor nightmare, which becomes one of the episode's multiple story lines.

An engaging comedian with a Silly-Putty face and a slightly goofy girl-next-door appeal, DeGeneres makes the most of life's little situations — particularly the ones so universal, everyone can relate and laugh. (Have you ever had a driver's license photo you liked? Have you ever found yourself singing along to really rotten "on hold" music?)

As for Adam and Holly, while not exactly window dressing as characters, they don't look like they're the next George and Kramer yet — though they do lend ample support.

And, at least as far as the situation comedy is concerned, there are Seinfeldian parallels, if not downright echoes in their everyday discussions.

"He's a TALKING, flying dog," Adam counters. "That makes him a person."

Kuralt retires after 37 years with CBS

Associated Press

Charles Kuralt
Retires as newsman

Charles Kuralt is on the road to retirement.

The thoughtful CBS newsman with the deep mellow voice who poked around America's small towns — and found a story in every one — will retire May 1 after 37 years with the network, CBS said Tuesday.

"CBS News has been the best place on Earth to have a career as a reporter and each of my 37 years has been better than the year before," Kuralt, 59, said in a statement. "I have done every satisfying thing under the sun in television news, and would like to explore some side roads of life while I am still in good health and good spirits."

Kuralt, now the anchor of the CBS News show "Sunday Morning," said his first post-retirement project would be a book about America.

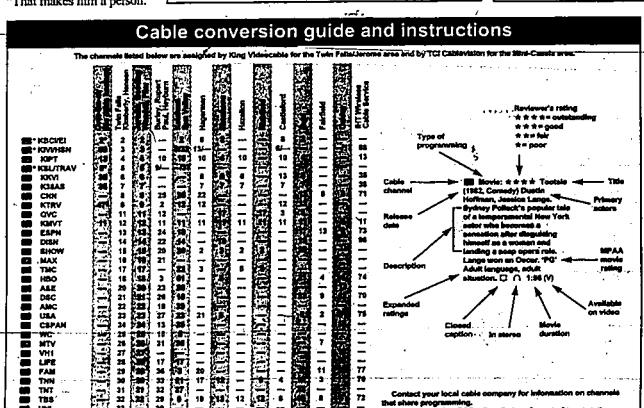

Kuralt is best known for his "On The Road" broadcasts chronicling his wanderings through the small towns of America. He set out to see the country in October 1967, and he and his crew, traveling in a battered motor home, visited each state many times.

Kuralt has won 11 Emmys and three George Foster Peabody awards. In 1983 he was named broadcaster of the year by the International Radio and Television Society.

Celebrity gossip

Q: We keep hearing that Julia Roberts refuses to take a honeymoon with her new husband. What gives? — M.R.

A: Julia and husband Lyle Lovett enjoy working hard. He's recording a new album — "it's acoustic," he says. She's working on films. Just before her latest flick, "The Pelican Brief," was released during the Christmas season, I asked Julia about a prospective honeymoon. She smiled slowly and replied something to the effect that she and Lovett are "on one all the time." Spoken like a true romantic. Fact is, she and Lovett will enjoy their time off when their respective schedules permit.

Lovett

A: Cruise, of course, is one of Hollywood's genuinely bankable male stars. His wife is Nicole Kidman, an accomplished actress but hardly a household name. No question that his wishes to act with her on-screen carry a lot of weight with hungry producers. But Nicole's career has taken on a life of its own. She's currently in line to star in "Portrait of a Lady," a film based on the Henry James novel. The director of the hit film "The Piano." Campion says that if Cruise visits his wife on the "Lady" set in Italy, she'll find a part for him. And who wouldn't, if they could get him?

Cruise

Q: Isn't it true that Daryl Hannah overcame a severe mental handicap while growing up? What was it? — D.S.

A: At the age of 7 — when her parents were breaking up — Hannah was diagnosed as bordering on autism, a serious mental condition. Fortunately, the diagnosis was a bit overstated. Always a highly sensitive child, Daryl now says she often went into her own fantasy world of imaginary playmates. And there were a lot of them, she adds. Back in the real world, Hannah — one of Hollywood's most sought-after young actresses — recently celebrated her 33rd birthday. Among the guests was Daryl's current and very famous playmate, the very real John F. Kennedy Jr.

Q: We're dedicated fans of Jose Feliciano, the legendary Latino musician, and are curious about his blindness. Was he born that way or did he lose his sight later on in life? — P.I.

A: Feliciano, now 48, was never a sighted person. He seems to have a positive attitude about his blindness and, unlike some entertainers, never uses it to gain audience sympathy or trades on it in any way. At a recent appearance at Manhattan's famed Blue Note, Jose wore colored shades throughout his act and displayed a winning sense of humor. When introduced, he came onstage without a cane and was led by the hand by a member of his band to the microphone, where his somewhat passive manner suddenly gave way to lively entertainment. He seemed to enjoy his performance as much as the audience.

Q: Isn't it a sad fact that because his TV talk show was such a spectacular flop, Chevy Chase's career is in deep trouble? — H.M.

A: At first glance, you'd think so. Chevy's bid in the late night talk show sweepstakes on Fox was undoubtedly a setback for the former "Saturday Night Live" star. To make things worse, Chevy is now at the half-century mark and vulnerable to attacks from the likes of radio personality Howard Stern, who accuses Chase of being a stuffy, middle-aged, Hollywood has-been. But I don't buy it. Hollywood has a curious way of ignoring professional lapses, and Chevy maintains his name status as an employable light comedy actor. That's apparently why he's landed the starring role in a new comedy flick, "Pals Forever," in which he woos an eligible single mom by befriending her 8-year-old son.

Q: Isn't it true that Jennifer Jason Leigh is one talented but very strange young actress who has a weird private life? — A.R.

A: No question that Jennifer, the 32-year-old daughter of the late actor Vic Morrow, has played some pretty weird parts on-screen in her 13-year career. The petite actress has been seen, for example, as a phone sex operator, a peepshow dancer, a psychotic roommate, a prostitute and heroine addict, not to mention a rape victim, among other choice parts. But things are looking up, since she plays a perky newspaper reporter in the upcoming "Hudsucker Proxy," and the playwright-short story writer Dorothy Parker in "Mrs. Parker." Jennifer is adamant about not talking about her private life, but her main squeeze these days seems to be director Steve Shainberg.

Leigh

Q: Can you tell us something about Madeleine Stowe, the sexy young actress who is so good as the blind woman who regains her sight in the new film "Blink"? Is she married? — G.S.

A: Madeleine is a talented actress who is hitting her mark as a big-time star. She also is that rare Hollywood actress who says she has little inhibition about doing sex scenes in front of the cameras. She doffed her duds in the forgettable "Revenge" opposite Kevin Costner. In "Unlawful Entry," opposite Kurt Russell, she became the sex object craved by two men. After seeing her performance in "Blink," one overheated critic declared Stowe the most beautiful woman in American movies. The 35-year-old native of the Los Angeles suburbs, a tomboy when growing up, is married to actor Brian Benben, who's on the cable TV series "Dream On." Hollywood is keeping its eye on Madeleine.

A: When the programs first made their appearance on radio, the sponsors invariably were soap companies, pushing their products for an audience comprised mainly of housewives. The tag "soap opera" — an amusing and slight put-down — stuck, eventually being shortened by the ever-increasing audience into "soaps" as the shows got less corny and much sexier.

Q: We hear that Geena Davis is being hailed as the Princess Grace of Finland. How did this happen? — C.W.

A: The story of how Geena, a 37-year-old native of Wareham, Mass., wound up getting the royal treatment in Finland is not a complicated one. Her third husband, long-haired movie director Renny Harlin, is a native of that country. He made a ton of money in Hollywood directing such action films as "Cliffhanger" with Sylvester Stallone and invested some of the loot in an amusement park and a restaurant in Finland. Harlin and Davis made their first business-pleasure trip there recently and frolicked in subzero temperatures in wintery Lapland. Geena loved the country, Harlin told me, and vice versa; it was the Finns who came up with the Princess Grace comparison.

Q: We keep hearing that Julia Roberts refuses to take a honeymoon with her new husband. What gives? — M.R.

A: Julia and husband Lyle Lovett enjoy working hard. He's recording a new album — "it's acoustic," he says. She's working on films. Just before her latest flick, "The Pelican Brief," was released during the Christmas season, I asked Julia about a prospective honeymoon. She smiled slowly and replied something to the effect that she and Lovett are "on one all the time." Spoken like a true romantic. Fact is, she and Lovett will enjoy their time off when their respective schedules permit.

Lovett

Q: What's this about Tom Cruise relying on his actress-wife to get him prime acting roles? Isn't it really the other way around? — B.P.

A: Cruise, of course, is one of Hollywood's genuinely bankable male stars. His wife is Nicole Kidman, an accomplished actress but hardly a household name. No question that his wishes to act with her on-screen carry a lot of weight with hungry producers. But Nicole's career has taken on a life of its own. She's currently in line to star in "Portrait of a Lady," a film based on the Henry James novel. The director is Jane Campion, the red-hot director of the hit film "The Piano." Campion says that if Cruise visits his wife on the "Lady" set in Italy, she'll find a part for him. And who wouldn't, if they could get him?

Cruise

Q: Isn't it true that Daryl Hannah overcame a severe mental handicap while growing up? What was it? — D.S.

A: At the age of 7 — when her parents were breaking up — Hannah was diagnosed as bordering on autism, a serious mental condition. Fortunately, the diagnosis was a bit overstated. Always a highly sensitive child, Daryl now says she often went into her own fantasy world of imaginary playmates. And there were a lot of them, she adds. Back in the real world, Hannah — one of Hollywood's most sought-after young actresses — recently celebrated her 33rd birthday. Among the guests was Daryl's current and very famous playmate, the very real John F. Kennedy Jr.

Q: We're dedicated fans of Jose Feliciano, the legendary Latino musician, and are curious about his blindness. Was he born that way or did he lose his sight later on in life? — P.I.

A: Feliciano, now 48, was never a sighted person. He seems to have a positive attitude about his blindness and, unlike some entertainers, never uses it to gain audience sympathy or trades on it in any way. At a recent appearance at Manhattan's famed Blue Note, Jose wore colored shades throughout his set and displayed an amazing sense of humor. When introduced, he came onstage without a cane and was led by the hand by a member of his band to the microphone, where his somewhat passive manner suddenly gave way to lively entertainment. He seemed to enjoy his performance as much as the audience.

Q: Isn't it a sad fact that because his TV talk show was such a spectacular flop, Chevy Chase's career is in deep trouble? — H.M.

A: At first glance, you'd think so. Chevy's bid in the late night talk show sweepstakes on Fox was undoubtedly a setback for the former "Saturday Night Live" star. To make things worse, Chevy is now at the half-century mark and vulnerable to attacks from the likes of radio personality Howard Stern, who accuses Chase of being a stuffy, middle-aged, Hollywood has-been. But I don't buy it. Hollywood has a curious way of ignoring professional lapses, and Chevy maintains his name status as an employable light comedy actor. That's apparently why he's landed the starring role in a new comedy flick, "Pals Forever," in which he woos an eligible single mom by befriending her 8-year-old son.

Q: Isn't it true that Jennifer Jason Leigh is one talented but very strange young actress who has a weird private life? — A.R.

A: No question that Jennifer, the 32-year-old daughter of the late actor Vic Morrow, has played some pretty weird parts on-screen in her 13-year career. The petite actress has been seen, for example, as a phone sex operator, a peep-show dancer, a psychotic roommate, a prostitute and heroine addict, not to mention a rape victim, among other choice parts. But things are looking up, since she plays a perky newspaper reporter in the upcoming "Hudsucker Proxy," and the playwright-short story writer Dorothy Parker in "Mrs. Parker."

Leigh

Jennifer is adamant about not talking about her private life, but her main squeeze these days seems to be director Steve Shainberg.

Q: Can you tell us something about Madeleine Stowe, the sexy young actress who is so good as the blind woman who regains her sight in the new film "Blink"? Is she married? — G.S.

A: Madeleine is a talented actress who is hitting her mark as a big-time star. She also is that rare Hollywood actress who says she has little inhibition about doing sex scenes in front of the cameras. She doffed her duds in the forgettable "Revenge" opposite Kevin Costner. In "Unlawful Entry," opposite Kurt Russell, she became the sex object craved by two men. After seeing her performance in "Blink," one overheated critic declared Stowe the most beautiful woman in American movies. The 33-year-old native of the Los Angeles suburbs, a tomboy when growing up, is married to actor Brian Benben, who's on the cable TV series "Dream On." Hollywood is keeping its eye on Madeleine.

A: When the programs first made their appearance on radio, the sponsors invariably were soap companies, pushing their products for an audience comprised mainly of housewives. The tag "soap opera" — an amusing and slight put-down — stuck, eventually being shortened by the ever-increasing audience into "soaps" as the shows got less corny and much sexier.

Q: We hear that Geena Davis is being hailed as the Princess Grace of Finland. How did this happen? — C.W.

A: The story of how Geena, a 37-year-old native of Wareham, Mass., wound up getting the royal treatment in Finland is not a complicated one. Her third husband, long-haired movie director Renny Harlin, is a native of that country. He made a ton of money in Hollywood directing such action films as "Cliffhanger" with Sylvester Stallone and invested some of the loot in an amusement park and a restaurant in Finland. Harlin and Davis made their first business-pleasure trip there recently and frolicked in subzero temperatures in wintery Lapland. Geena loved the country, Harlin told me, and vice versa; it was the Finns who came up with the Princess Grace comparison.

HAILEY – Jazz music by B.B. King, a romantic scene from "Cinderella" and a dance set to the soulful song, "Amazing Grace" will be in the spotlight for "Jubilation," a performance by the Idaho Dance Theater set for 8 p.m. Saturday in the auditorium at the Wood River High School.

Premier dancer Vasile Petrutiu will perform the grand pas de' deux from "Cinderella" with Chelsy Adams. He will also be featured with the entire company in "Bluezone," a jazzy ballet set to the music of B.B. King. The program includes the neo-classical ballet, "Cycles," choreographed by Marla Hansen.

"Cabala," a ballet composed by Astor Piazolla of Argentina and choreographed by Alfred Hansen, offers a look into prison life. Carl Rowe's ballet, "Signs of Life" will also be presented. This piece incorporates a "signer" into the choreography and encourages the viewer to think about the course of recent history. Petrutiu and Joey Mann will perform the sensuous and inspirational pas de deux, "Amazing Grace," which is set to Huber Laws' jazz flute rendition of the song.

Cost is $10 for general admission and $5 for students and senior citizens. Tickets may be purchased at the door. The performance is co-sponsored by the Boise State University Department of Theater Arts and West One Bank, with support from the Idaho Commission on the Arts.

Idaho Dance Theater is a Boise-based professional company that was co-founded in 1989 by Marla and Alfred Hansen. It is in residence at Boise State University.

KETCHUM – The Sun Valley Center for the Arts & Humanities will present the Alexander String Quartet in concert at 8 p.m. (doors open at 7:30 p.m.) Sunday at the Sun Valley Repertory's nexStage Theater.

Started in the 1980s, the quartet has earned a reputation for fresh, intelligent music-making and a bold performing style. The concert will feature an old world program of Mozart, Smetana and Beethoven with a balance of nuance, intensity and style.

The Alexander String Quartet was the first quartet ever to win the Concert Artist's Guild International Award. It went on to become the first American quartet to win Britain's Evian/Royal International String Quartet Competition and the first string quartet to win the Minnesota Composer's Forum Competition.

Members of the quartet are Gefang yang and Frederick Lifsitz on violin, Paul Yarbrough on viola and Sandy Wilson on cello.

Cost is $18 per person or $15 for Sun Valley Center members. Tickets are on sale now and are available at the Sun Valley Center for the Arts & Humanities, 620 Sun Valley Road. For more information, call 726-9491.

LOVING

Stacey is deeply touched when she overhears Buck at Ava's bedside asking for forgiveness. Worried about the action Buck will take towards Leonard, Stacey appeals to Alex for help. When Buck is able to pay only the principal and not the interest on his loan, Leonard threatens bodily harm. Alex shows up in the nick of time, flashes his police badge and scares Leonard off. On Trucker's advice, Stacey considers giving Buck a second chance, but Buck fears he would only bring more trouble to her door. Steffi misunderstands Clay's offer and shows up at the mansion, bags in hand. Unable to turn her away, Clay lets Steffi move in. Curtis and Cooper are shocked to find that he cannot fight his feelings for her and he goes on a date with Susie. Steffi overhears Clay admit that he still loves Gwyn, who goes on a picnic with Jeremy. Ava receives visits from a mysterious man named Harry.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE

Kevin and Rachel consider splitting up, as they continue to fight over Rachel's attraction to Ben. As Cord tries to warn Luna that Max is headed for serious trouble, Blair impulsively kisses Max. Todd awakens Rebecca, who faints when she sees him. Todd flees when he hears Powell approaching, and Rebecca is shaken by what she thinks is a nightmare. Max hears of a hot stock tip and makes a $40,000 bet with Asa, hoping he will win enough money to invest. Cord becomes furious when he catches Max using money from the Serenity Springs account without Cord's or Luna's approval. Luna interrupts the fight and is assured by Max that he has made a sound business investment. When Cord learns of Max's bet with Asa, he shocks Luna with tales of Max's gambling. Luna angrily confronts Max about Cord's accusations and Max promises not to return to the casino. To no avail, Marty tries to talk Cassie out of pursuing radical medical treatment to have a baby. After Viki and Jessica have a discussion about Jessica's rude behavior towards Sloan, Jessica tells Clint that she wants to continue living with him once Viki and Sloan are married. When Sarah sees Todd preparing to leave the garden shed, she surprises him by bringing Rebecca to see him.

ALL MY CHILDREN

Edmund attempts to translate Corvina's letter but is discovered by Corvina, who burns it. Edmund is determined to find out what Corvina is hiding. Jack placates Laurel after she questions him about his feelings for Erica. Later, Laurel is comforted by Trevor when she feels like she is losing Jack. Alec is scorned by all when he is named the new CEO of Enchantment, and Erica dumps all of her stock. Livia begs Gloria to appeal to Alec to leave Jamal alone, but Gloria will not get involved with Alec. Adam is surprised when Alec reveals that Gloria refused his offer to give up Enchantment if she would leave town with him. Alec tells Tom and Livia that he wants custody of Jamal, but the Cudahys will not give up without a battle. Tom and Livia break the bad news to Jamal. Julia, certain that Taylor has left town, volunteers to be Terrence's new roommate. Taylor laments that Terrence believes Julia, and Derek encourages Taylor to fight back. Taylor confronts Julia and demands that she recant her story. Dimitri tells Adam to leave Gloria

GENERAL HOSPITAL

A winter thaw occurs between Ned and Katherine when they jet to Canada for a ski vacation. Having consummated their sexual fantasies, both wonder what is next, and Ned cannot help but compare Katherine to his real love, Lois. Karen and Jagger share their glorious wedding day with friends and family at Kelly's. Mother of the bride, Rhonda, presents Karen with a wedding surprise that is stunning! Kevin takes advantage of Mac's absence and moves in on Felicia. Lois sets up in Port Charles for her band's new performance. Lucy tells Damian that she wants him out of her life once the bet is over. But Damian really has his sights set on wooing Bobbie, and it looks like he may be winning. Laura questions Luke about the safety of their family and his dealings with Frank Smith.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

Bill confesses to Alice that he had an affair 18 years ago which was partially responsible for Laura's mental collapse. Laura is astonished to see Peter and Jennifer on the couch in the throes of passion, about to make love. Billie staunchly refuses to forgive Kate for abandoning her and Austin. A shaken Kate is nearly involved in a car accident. Vivian overhears Bill and Laura arguing about Kate and deduces that Kate and Bill had an affair years ago. Laura refuses to tell Vivian the rest of Kate's secret. Vivian pilfers tapes from the office of Kate's lawyer, David Caldwell. Kate confirms that she has accepted Billie and Austin as her children. Kate shocks the courtroom by appearing in person to add her testimony. Bo finds John unconscious outside the warehouse where Fred is hiding. Later, Bo bursts into the courtroom with John and asks the judge for permission to take the witness stand once more. Bo questions Billie about the night of the murder and she remembers there was another man in the alley that night. Billie is vindicated as the judge dismisses all charges against her. Jennifer, Carrie and Austin throw a surprise party for Billie. Bo tells Billie that he cannot make love to her. Kristen, Tony and John head to the jail to get the truth from the ex-cop only to find Fred hanging from a rope in his cell.

BOLD AND BEAUTIFUL

Brooke feels Taylor betrayed Ridge by going up to Big Bear with James. Stephanie fears something may have happened between Taylor and James while they were at the cabin. Connor feels Karen tricked him into getting married. Ridge no longer feels James was ever a threat to his marriage — Taylor is the most important thing in the world to him. Brooke feels she has lost Ridge for good this time. Ridge is hosting a barbecue and asks James to bring a date. James appears with Brooke on his arm. Taylor asks where they met and James replies that they met at Taylor's office. Macy blurts out that Anthony is involved with Sally. Connor announces that it is Anthony's birthday. Taylor and James share a private moment. Taylor tells him she never would have made love to him if she had known he was seeing Brooke. Anthony admits that he kissed Sally because he was vulnerable and wounded. Brooke proclaims that James is moving in with her. Anthony tells Macy that he is not the man for Sally. Macy admits that she cares for Anthony and may be capable of falling in love with him.

YOUNG AND RESTLESS

The bus station ticket agent provides Cole with a list of 12 cities where Victoria might have stopped. Dr. Wallace informs Nathan and Olivia that Lillie Bell is regressing emotionally and physically and that she may not have long to live. Mamie confronts Lillie Bell about the unopened pill bottle. Victor and Cole discuss a plan to locate Victoria. Victor warns Cole that he will pay a high price if he ever hurts Vicki. Jill admits to Jed that she and Jack do not get along. Cole insists that he considers Nikki just a friend and that Victoria is the only woman he wants. April is distraught over going on trial. Mary tries to convince Heather that April did not lie about Robert abusing her and urges Heather to give her mother a chance to explain. April asks Paul to look after Heather. Victoria sees a message written in the sky that reads: "Victoria. Please call. Urgent. I love you. Cole." Chris phones Kay and asks her to put up bail for April. Victoria phones Cole but Victor answers and she hangs up upon hearing his voice. Victor has the call traced and learns it came from a diner in Champaign, Illinois. Victor has a private jet waiting for Cole. Mary tries to reach out to Heather, but Heather remains distant. April thanks Mary for caring for Heather. Later, Cole assures Victoria that Victor is not his father.

Crampton puts more spirit into 'GL' part

Barbara Crampton is the latest actress to assay the role of Mindy Lewis on "Guiding Light" and she may be the best Mindy in the long run. She seems to have more spirit than any of her predecessors (Krista Tesereau, Kimberly Simms and Ann Hamilton), and she certainly has been accepted by viewers without hesitation.

Many daytime veterans are familiar with Barbara from her almost five-year stint as Leanna on "Young and Restless." She started on that show as a would-be murderess. But when fans found her fascinating, the producers started to alter her character and she soon evolved into a talk show host offering advice to the lovelorn. Barbara laughs as she recalls the metamorphosis.

"When I was first signed to play Leanna, I figured she was a pretty wild person with a definite streak of madness, so I just went for it and played it with total abandon. Then, when she started to catch on with viewers, the producers came to me and asked me to stay for a year, and then another and then another. Of course, I went from playing crazy to eccentric and it worked."

Barbara is theatre-trained and recalls her first experience with daytime soaps. She was signed to play Marlena's cousin, Trista Evans, on "Days of Our Lives."

"I played things really big since I had worked primarily on the stage. It didn't quite work and I saw the handwriting on the wall. They fired me, and they were probably right in doing so."

There were some movie roles in between soap stints in such forgettable, low-budget thrillers as "Chopping Mall" and "The Re-Animator." However, daytime drama was the area where Barbara seemed to find her niche. After Leanna ran her course on "Y&R," she was offered a role on "Guiding Light," but she turned it down...at first. But after careful consideration and a second offer, Barbara relocated from Los Angeles to New York and put her stamp on the Mindy character.

"I had no qualms about playing a part that had been strongly identified with other actresses. The producers asked me if I wanted to see tapes of Krista and Kimberly and I said no. I believe that the success in playing a character comes in the energy exchanged between the actors in a scene. For instance, when Peter Bergman took over as Jack on 'The Young and the Restless' from the very popular Terry Lester, he didn't imitate Lester in any way. He played it with his own sense of validity and he's won two (Daytime) Emmys in the process.

"I like playing Mindy. And at this point there's a lot to play, since Mindy is going into a tailspin with Billy going to jail and Alexandra giving her a hard time at every turn. It will be fun to see what the writers come up with in the next few months."

Celebrity gossip

A: Feb. 15 marked the launch date of Costner's latest business venture. The actor is a major investor in Twin Palms, a new country French restaurant in Pasadena's trendy, newly renovated dining and shopping district. Costner continues his nonstop film career as well.

Costner

Q: With all we've read and heard about the $60 million mansion of producer Aaron Spelling, how did the house fare in the recent earthquake? — D.P.

A: When you build a 56,000-square-foot home on a seemingly unlimited budget, you can take every precaution and incorporate any feature known to architects and builders to help make your structure earthquake-resistant. That is exactly what was done with the Spelling home. The house was built on rollers and survived according to plan. It became a refuge for Spelling's family and employees. Eighteen other people who did not fare so well in their own residences stayed with the Spellings after the quake.

Q: Did Milton Berle actually get the short end of a financial deal with a TV company? Is it something he said? — G.H.

A: Even though he's now in his mid-80s, TV's venerable "Uncle Miltie" continues to be a big name in show biz circles. Berle not long ago signed a five-year, $1.25 million deal to be a celebrity spokesman for a company identified as Future Communications Inc., a TV programming concern. The company has experienced financial setbacks, and according to a report in The Wall Street Journal, Berle is claiming to be one of those stiffed. Lawsuits are a way of life for the Hollywood entertainment community. While the lawyers go to work, Berle is diverting himself with a new TV pilot project titled "For Heaven's Sake."

Q: We were surprised to learn recently that one of Diana Ross's daughters was fathered by Motown's Berry Gordy. Was the child ever aware of who her father was? — D.B.

A: Diana Ross told her daughter Rhonda, now 22, about it when she was 13 and old enough to understand. Rhonda always called Gordy "uncle" and sensed as a child that he singled her out and treated her specially. Diana has four other children.

Q: What's the real story behind Billy Crystal's decision not to host the Oscars on TV this year? Is he ill or does he have a drug problem? — I.C.

A: I asked Billy about his decision, and his reason is clear — stress. He's been bothered by a bad shoulder for some time; he had to undergo surgery to alleviate the ailment. He's also finishing up the sequel to "City Slickers" and is embroiled in a new project, a movie about a couple battling to save their marriage. And he yearns for more family time. Billy does whatever he does full out, and coping with the Oscars this time around was just too much.

Q: What's this about Carroll O'Connor running into financial problems despite his TV success? Is he flat broke? — C.W.

A: Don't worry about O'Connor's finances. The huge success of both the original run and syndicated reruns of "All in the Family" and "In the Heat of the Night" have made the former Archie Bunker an extremely wealthy man. Like many Hollywood stars with much money to spare, Carroll got himself involved in the restaurant business. His eatery — straightforwardly called Carroll O'Connor's Place, located in Beverly Hills — was doing nicely for 15 years until the L.A. riots. Business never quite recovered after that. Then the earthquake hit, damaging the restaurant. O'Connor decided to throw in the tablecloth and shut the place.

Q: On my favorite TV show, "NYPD Blue," Det. John Kelly, played by David Caruso, seems awfully well-dressed for someone on a policeman's salary. Could an honest cop really afford that wardrobe? — D.G.

A: Det. Kelly's salary was taken into consideration by costume designer Brad Loman, who was very conscious of the reality factor. Given Kelly's likely income — and you know he's an honest cop — Loman spends in the area of $40 for shirts and a maximum of $450 for suits.

Q: I understand that Steve Martin is very serious about art and is a major player in the art world. Is this accurate? — M.B.

A: The very funny and talented actor/writer has been recognized by one of the most prestigious journals in the art world. ARTnews, as among the world's top collectors. A recent issue of the publication included Martin and his modern art collection.

Q: Can you tell us something about that terrific new soul singer, Toni Braxton? How did she get such a deep voice? — L.S.

A: Braxton, a 26-year-old Maryland native, has often been told she sounds like a man. That's overstating things a bit. Toni best summed it up when she told me that her strong contralto voice is much bolder than she is. But listen to those charmingly feminine touches on "Breathe Again" and "Another Sad Love Song," two of Toni's top 10 singles. The daughter of a fundamentalist minister, she sang in the church choir and was reared on gospel. Her album, "Toni Braxton," is notable for its smoky R&B sensibility and for her strong voice. For someone so young and so sheltered, Toni's work is remarkably worldly wise. She's clearly a singer on the move.

A: No. As a matter of fact, she recently had a reunion of sorts with her past while shooting her hit TV show, "Murder She Wrote," at Bullocks' Wilshire Boulevard store. The department store, although now closed, is an L.A. landmark — and it's where Lansbury landed her first job as a gift wrapper many years ago when she first came to these shores.

Q: What's this about former "Cagney & Lacey" co-star Sharon Gless making nasty cracks about the weight gain of former co-star Tyne Daly? How could she be so inconsiderate? — M.S.

A: No question that Daly, one half of the female cop team that captivated TV in the '80s, has put on weight. That's one reason why she was so right for the part of Mama Rose in the successful Broadway revival of "Gypsy." But far be it from Sharon Gless to notice. The two actresses, in fact, are good friends. They turned up together in Chicago not long ago, where they teamed up on a radio version of the Claudia Allen drama, "Deed of Trust." Daly and Gless really do like each other.

Daly

Q: Good news that there's going to be a full-length movie on that great old series "The Brady Bunch." Who has been cast to play the dad, the part played by Robert Reed? — G.F.

A: So far there has been no decision on the father role. Reed's death from AIDS in 1992 has insiders wondering whether the part will be recast or eliminated in the film, which is set in the '90s, 20 years later than the original show.

Berle not long ago signed a five-year, $1.25 million deal to be a celebrity spokesman for a company identified as Future Communications Inc., a TV programming concern. The company has experienced financial setbacks, and according to a report in The Wall Street Journal, Berle is claiming to be one of those stiffed. Lawsuits are a way of life for the Hollywood entertainment community. While the lawyers go to work, Berle is diverting himself with a new TV pilot project titled "For Heaven's Sake."

Q: We were surprised to learn recently that one of Diana Ross's daughters was fathered by Motown's Berry Gordy. Was the child ever aware of who her father was? — D.B.

A: Diana Ross told her daughter Rhonda, now 22, about it when she was 13 and old enough to understand. Rhonda always called Gordy "uncle" and sensed as a child that he singled her out and treated her specially. Diana has four other children.

Q: What's the real story behind Billy Crystal's decision not to host the Oscars on TV this year? Is he ill or does he have a drug problem? — I.C.

A: I asked Billy about his decision, and his reason is clear — stress. He's been bothered by a bad shoulder for some time; he had to undergo surgery to alleviate the ailment. He's also finishing up the sequel to "City Slickers" and is embroiled in a new project, a movie about a couple battling to save their marriage. And he yearns for more family time. Billy does whatever he does full out, and coping with the Oscars this time around was just too much.

Q: What's this about Carroll O'Connor running into financial problems despite his TV success? Is he flat broke? — C.W.

A: Don't worry about O'Connor's finances. The huge success of both the original run and syndicated reruns of "All in the Family" and "In the Heat of the Night" have made the former Archie Bunker an extremely wealthy man. Like many Hollywood stars with much money to spare, Carroll got himself involved in the restaurant business. His eatery — straightforwardly called Carroll O'Connor's Place, located in Beverly Hills — was doing nicely for 15 years until the L.A. riots. Business never quite recovered after that. Then the earthquake hit, damaging the restaurant. O'Connor decided to throw in the tablecloth and shut the place.

Q: On my favorite TV show, "NYPD Blue," Det. John Kelly, played by David Caruso, seems awfully well-dressed for someone on a policeman's salary. Could an honest cop really afford that wardrobe? — D.G.

A: Det. Kelly's salary was taken into consideration by costume designer Brad Loman, who was very conscious of the reality factor. Given Kelly's likely income — and you know he's an honest cop — Loman spends in the area of $40 for shirts and a maximum of $450 for suits.

Q: I understand that Steve Martin is very serious about art and is a major player in the art world. Is this accurate? — M.E.

A: The very funny and talented actor/writer has been recognized by one of the most prestigious journals in the art world, ARTnews, as among the world's top collectors. A recent issue of the publication included Martin and his modern art collection.

Q: Can you tell us something about that terrific new soul singer, Toni Braxton? How did she get such a deep voice? — L.S.

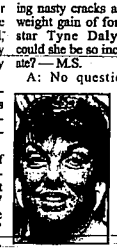

A: Braxton, a 26-year-old Maryland native, has often been told she sounds like a man. That's overstating things a bit. Toni best summed it up when she told me that her strong contralto voice is much bolder than she is. But listen to those charmingly feminine touches on "Breathe Again" and "Another Sad Love Song," two of Toni's top 10 singles. The daughter of a fundamentalist minister, she sang in the church choir and was reared on gospel. Her album, "Toni Braxton," is notable for its smoky R&B sensibility and for her strong voice. For someone so young and so sheltered, Toni's work is remarkably worldly wise. She's clearly a singer on the move.

A: No. As a matter of fact, she recently had a reunion of sorts with her past while shooting her hit TV show, "Murder She Wrote," at Bullocks' Wilshire Boulevard store. The department store, although now closed, is an L.A. landmark — and it's where Lansbury landed her first job as a gift wrapper many years ago when she first came to these shores.

Q: What's this about former "Cagney & Lacey" co-star Sharon Gless making nasty cracks about the weight gain of former co-star Tyne Daly? How could she be so inconsiderate? — M.S.

A: No question that Daly, one half of the female cop team that captivated TV in the '80s, has put on weight. That's one reason why she was so right for the part of Mama Rose in the successful Broadway revival of "Gypsy." But far be it from Sharon Gless to notice. The two actresses, in fact, are good friends. They turned up together in Chicago not long ago, where they teamed up on a radio version of the Claudia Allen drama, "Deed of Trust." Daly and Gless really do like each other.

Q: Good news that there's going to be a full-length movie on that great old series "The Brady Bunch." Who has been cast to play the dad, the part played by Robert Reed? — G.F.

A: So far there has been no decision on the father role. Reed's death from AIDS in 1992 has insiders wondering whether the part will be recast or eliminated in the film, which is set in the '90s, 20 years later than the original show.

LOVING

Stacey is deeply touched when she overhears Buck at Ava's bedside asking for forgiveness. Worried about the action Buck will take towards Leonard, Stacey appeals to Alex for help. When Buck is able to pay only the principal and not the interest on his loan, Leonard threatens bodily harm. Alex shows up in the nick of time flashes his police badge and scares Leonard off. On Trucker's advice, Stacey considers giving Buck a second chance, but Buck fears he would only bring more trouble to her door. Steffi misunderstands Clay's offer and shows up at the mansion, bags in hand. Unable to turn her away, Clay lets Steffi move in. Curtis and Cooper are shocked to find Steffi living at the mansion. Carly and Sherrie visit the comatose Ava and recollect good and bad times. Kate realizes Ava may never recover and questions Shana about Ava's living will. Trucker vents his frustration over Dinah Lee by wrecking the cycle shop. Later, Trucker admits to Dinah Lee that he cannot fight his feelings for her and he goes on a date with Susie. Steffi overhears Clay admit that he still loves Gwyn, who goes on a picnic with Jeremy. Ava receives visits from a mysterious man named Harry.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE

Kevin and Rachel consider splitting up, as they continue to fight over Rachel's attraction to Ben. As Cord tries to warn Luna that Max is headed for serious trouble, Blair impulsively kisses Max. Todd awakens Rebecca, who faints when she sees him. Todd flees when he hears Powell approaching, and Rebecca is shaken by what she thinks is a nightmare. Max hears of a hot stock tip and makes a $40,000 bet with Asa, hoping he will win enough money to invest. Cord becomes furious when he catches Max using money from the Serenity Springs account without Cord's or Luna's approval. Luna interrupts the fight and is assured by Max that no has made a sound business investment. When Cord learns of Max's bet with Asa, he shocks Luna with tales of Max's gambling. Luna angrily confronts Max about Cord's accusations and Max promises not to return to the casino. To no avail, Marty tries to talk Cassie out of pursuing radical medical treatment to have a baby. After Viki and Jessica have a discussion about Jessica's rude behavior towards Sloan, Jessica tells Clint that she wants to continue living with him once Viki and Sloan are married. When Sarah sees Todd preparing to leave the garden shed, she surprises him by bringing Rebecca to see him.

ALL MY CHILDREN

Edmund attempts to translate Corvina's letter but is discovered by Corvina, who burns it. Edmund is determined to find out what Corvina is hiding. Jack placates Laurel after she questions him about his feelings for Erica. Later, Laurel is comforted by Trevor when she feels like she is losing Jack. Alec is scorned by all when he is named the new CEO of Enchantment, and Erica dumps all of her stock. Livia begs Gloria to appeal to Alec to leave Jamal alone, but Gloria will not get involved with Alec. Adam is surprised when Alec reveals that Gloria refused his offer to give up Enchantment if she would leave town with him. Alec tells Tom and Livia that he wants custody of Jamal, but the Cudahys will not give up without a battle. Tom and Livia break the bad news to Jamal. Julia, certain that Taylor has left town, volunteers to be Terrence's new roommate. Taylor laments that Terrence believes Julia, and Derek encourages Taylor to fight back. Taylor confronts Julia and demands that she recant her story. Dimitri tells Adam to leave Gloria alone. Tad asks Charlie to investigate Del as Del arrives at Dixie's and succeeds in charming her. Anton overhears Dimitri offer Kendall a million dollars to leave Pine Valley.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

A winter thaw occurs between Ned and Katherine when they jet to Canada for a ski vacation. Having consummated their sexual fantasies, both wonder what is next, and Ned cannot help but compare Katherine to his real love, Lois. Karen and Jagger share their glorious wedding day with friends and family at Kelly's. Mother of the bride, Rhonda, presents Karen with a wedding surprise that is stunning! Kevin takes advantage of Mac's absence and moves in on Felicia. Lois sets up in Port Charles for her band's new performance. Lucy tells Damian that she wants him out of her life once the bet is over. But Damian truly has his sights set on wooing Bobbie, and it looks like he may be winning. Laura questions Luke about the safety of their family and his dealings with Frank Smith.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

Bill confesses to Alice that he had an affair 18 years ago which was partially responsible for Laura's mental collapse. Laura is astonished to see Peter and Jennifer on the couch in the throes of passion, about to make love. Billie staunchly refuses to forgive Kate for smashing her and Austin. Ashaken Kate is nearly involved in a car accident. Vivian overhears Bill and Laura arguing about Kate and deduces that Kate and Bill had an affair years ago. Laura refuses to tell Vivian the rest of Kate's secret. Vivian pilfers tapes from the office of Kate's lawyer, David Caldwell. Kate confirms that she has accepted Billie and Austin as her children. Kate shocks the courtroom by appearing in person to add her testimony. Bo finds John unconscious outside the warehouse where Fred is hiding. Later, Bo bursts into the courtroom with John and asks the judge for permission to take the witness stand once more. Bo questions Billie about the night of the murder and she remembers there was another man in the alley that night. Billie is vindicated as the judge dismisses all charges against her. Jennifer, Carrie and Austin throw a surprise party for Billie. Bo tells Billie that he cannot make love to her. Kristen, Tony and John head to the jail to get the truth from the ex-cop only to find Fred hanging from a rope in his cell.

BOLD AND BEAUTIFUL

Brooke feels Taylor betrayed Ridge by going up to Big Bear with James. Stephanie fears something may have happened between Taylor and James while they were at the cabin. Connor feels Karen tricked him into getting married. Ridge no longer feels James was ever a threat to his marriage — Taylor is the most important thing in the world to him. Brooke feels she has lost Ridge for good this time. Ridge is hosting a barbecue and asks James to bring a date. James appears with Brooke on his arm. Taylor asks where they met and James replies that they met at Taylor's office. Macy blurts out that Anthony is involved with Sally. Connor smashes that it is Anthony's birthday. Taylor and James share a private moment. Taylor tells him she never would have made love to him if she had known he was seeing Brooke. Anthony admits that he kissed Sally because he was vulnerable and wounded. Brooke proclaims that James is moving in with her. Anthony tells Macy that he is not the man for Sally. Macy admits that she cares for Anthony and may be capable of falling in love with him.

YOUNG AND RESTLESS

The bus station ticket agent provides Cole with a list of 12 cities where Victoria might have stopped. Dr. Wallace informs Nathan and Olivia that Lillie Bell is regressing emotionally and physically and that she may not have long to live. Mamie confronts Lillie Bell about the unopened pill bottle. Victor and Cole discuss a plan to locate Victoria. Victor warns Cole that he will pay a high price if he ever hurts Vicki. Jill admits to Jed that she and Jack do not get along. Cole insists that he considers Nikki just a friend and that Victoria is the only woman he wants. Jack is distraught over going on trial. Mary tries to convince Heather that April did not lie about Robert abusing her and urges Heather to give her mother a chance to explain. April asks Paul to look after Heather. Victoria sees a message written in the mist on the window. Victoria: Please call Urgent. I love you, Cole." Chris phones Katy and asks her to put up bail for April. Victoria phones Cole but Victor answers and she hangs up upon hearing his voice. Victor has the call traced and learns it came from a diner in Champaign, Illinois. Victor has a private jet waiting for Cole. Mary tries to reach out to Heather, but Heather remains distant. April thanks Mary for caring for Heather. Later, Cole assures Victoria that Victor is not his father.

Crampton puts more spirit into 'GL' part

Barbara Crampton is the latest actress to assay the role of Mindy Lewis on "Guiding Light" and she may be the best Mindy in the long run. She seems to have more spirit than any of her predecessors (Krista Tesereau, Kimberly Simms and Ann Hamilton), and she certainly has been accepted by viewers without hesitation.

Barbara Crampton
Newest Mindy Lewis

John N. Goudas

Many daytime veterans are familiar with Barbara from her almost five-year stint as Leanna on "Young and Restless." She started on that show as a would-be murderess. But when fans found her fascinating, the producers started to alter her character and she soon evolved into a talk show host offering advice to the lovelorn. Barbara laughs as she recalls the metamorphosis.

"When I was first signed to play Leanna, I figured she was a pretty wild person with a definite streak of madness, so I just went for it and played it with total abandon. Then, when she started to catch on with viewers, the producers came to me and asked me to stay for a year, and then another and then another. Of course, I went from playing crazy to eccentric and it worked."

Barbara is theatre-trained and recalls her first experience with daytime soaps. She was signed to play Martlena's cousin, Trista Evans, on "Days of Our Lives."

"I played things really big since I had worked primarily on the stage. It didn't quite work and I saw the handwriting on the wall. They fired me, and they were probably right in doing so."

There were some movie roles in between soap stints in such forgettable low-budget thrillers as "Chopping Mall" and "The Re-Animator." However, daytime drama was the area where Barbara seemed to find her niche. After Leanna ran her course on "Y&R," she was offered a role on "Guiding Light," but she turned it down...at first. But after careful consideration and a second offer, Barbara relocated from Los Angeles to New York and put her stamp on the Mindy character.

"I had no qualms about playing a part that had been strongly identified with other actresses. The producers asked me if I wanted to see tapes of Krista and Kimberly and I said no. I believe that the success in playing a character comes in the energy exchanged between the actors in a scene. For instance, when Peter Bergman took over as Jack on 'The Young and the Restless' from the very popular Terry Lester, he didn't imitate Lester in any way. He played it with his own sense of validity and he's won two (Daytime) Emmys in the process.

"I like playing Mindy. And at this point there's a lot to play, since Mindy is going into a tailspin with Billy going to jail and Alexandra giving her a hard time at every turn. It will be fun to see what the writers come up with in the next few months."

Celebrity gossip

Q: Is Kevin Costner concentrating only on films these days or is he pursuing other entrepreneurial enterprises? — K.L.

A: Feb. 15 marked the launch date of Costner's latest business venture. The actor is a major investor in Twin Palms, a new country French restaurant in Pasadena's trendy, newly renovated dining and shopping district. Costner continues his nonstop film career as well.

Q: With all we've read and heard about the $60 million mansion of producer Aaron Spelling, how did the house fare in the recent earthquake? — D.P.

A: When you build a 56,000-square-foot home on a seemingly unlimited budget, you can take every precaution and incorporate any feature known to architects and builders to help make your structure earthquake-resistant. That is exactly what was done with the Spelling home. The house was built on rollers and survived according to plan. It became a refuge for Spelling's family and employees. Eighteen other people who did not fare so well in their own residences stayed with the Spellings after the quake.

Q: Did Milton Berle actually get the short end of a financial deal with a TV company? Is it something he said? — G.H.

A: Even though he's now in his mid-80s, TV's venerable "Uncle Miltie" continues to be a big name in show biz circles. Berle not long ago signed a five-year, $1.25 million deal to be a celebrity spokesman for a company identified as Future Communications Inc., a TV programming concern. The company has experienced financial setbacks, and according to a report in The Wall Street Journal, Berle is claiming to be one of those stiffed. Lawsuits are a way of life for the Hollywood entertainment community. While the lawyers go to work, Berle is diverting himself with a new TV pilot project titled "For Heaven's Sake."
